Constructive Change in Latin America Cole Blasier, 2010-11-23 Cole Blasier draws together eight essays from economists political scientists anthropologists and other social scientists to discuss the growth of Latin American economics during the late twentieth century Anthropologist John P Gillin looks at the impact of industrialization on a Guatemalan village and sociologists Fernando Cardoso and Jose Luis Reyna present a pioneering analysis of the effect of industrialization on occupational structure and social stratification Dwight Brothers takes a critical look at the role of private investment and fellow economist John Powelson proposes that an integrated social science model of economic growth could resolve some of the conflict between North American economic principles and Latin American political interests Richard S Thorn formerly with the IMF analyzes the achievements and short comings of the Alliance for Progress Literary critic German Arciniegas probes the traditional interaction between Latin American intellectuals and politics and political scientist James Malloy describes the revolutionary movement in Bolivia and its inability to reconcile the competing demands of political control and economic development Modernization, Dislocation, and Aprismo Peter F. Klarén, 2014-11-06 Since its founding in 1930 the Peruvian Aprista party APRA has occupied a place of signal importance in the Peruvian political spectrum and it is one of the most important political parties to appear in twentieth century Latin America Modernization Dislocation and Aprismo is the first major analysis of the social and political bases of the Aprista movement Previous studies of APRA had been chiefly descriptive in nature and did not utilize modern social science approaches in analyzing the movement Peter F Klarén's major thesis is that APRA emerged in the 1930s as a direct political response to the far reaching dislocative impact of modernization within the Peruvian sugar industry a process that unfolded over a period of about four decades beginning in the 1890s and that substantially upset and transformed the traditional structure of society along the north coast Jolted by the effects of modernization elements of the old middle and lower sectors grew increasingly hostile to the existing order Joined by the new proletariat that was beginning to voice its collective grievances by means of the unionization process this large alienated segment of northern society responded overwhelmingly in 1931 to the reformist appeal of the new Aprista party APRA many of whose leaders were products of this environment best expressed politically the general mood of alienation and rebellion of the area's discontented The eruption of the bloody and abortive Trujillo Revolution of 1932 is considered as the culmination of this process of social and economic dislocation In addition to presenting a major new interpretation of the origins of the Aprista movement this study places the Aprista party in the larger Latin American context by comparing APRA with other political movements in Mexico Brazil Argentina and Cuba that were responding to similar modernization phenomena This study is based not only on a large body of official party literature and local newspapers for the period but also on the newly discovered records of the Archivo de la Cámara de Comercio Agricultura e Industria of the Department of La Libertad for the years 1904-1932 Articulating Hidden Histories Jane Schneider, Rayna Rapp, 1995-01-09 Explores the full range of Eric R. Wolf's methods and concepts and pays tribute to his work in anthropology and history Houses and House Use of the Sierra Tarascans Ralph Leon Beals, Pedro Carrasco Pizana, Thomas McCorkle, 1944 Pre-Colombian Cities Jorge Enrique Hardoy, 2014-07-16 What visitor to Mexico City unaware of its pre-Hispanic history could imagine that right under a Christian Church may still lie the remains of the sinister tzompantli the Aztec altar of skulls Professor Jorge Hardoy poses this question and many more in his comprehensive summary of the ancient cities where Latin America's peoples lived before the Spaniards arrived in the sixteenth century Because Aztec Tenochtitlan today Mexico City and Inca Cuzco represent the culmination of the two most advanced civilizations encountered by the Spanish conquistadors the author explores these cities end to end He also studies such older civic memorial centers as Teotihuacan Tula Monte Alban Uxmal Chichen Itza Tikal Palenque Tiahuanaco Chan Chan Pachacamac Machu Picchu and lesser known sites most virtually if not totally abandoned centuries before the Conquest Such inclusive coverage makes for a lively discussion of some fifteen hundred years of urban life as immortalized in the architecture art and crafts of long vanished civilizations There is an extensive bibliography many photographs maps charts and city plans showing urban layouts of temples which tell much about the life of the inhabitants His book shows that while new findings come to light each year so much buried history lies waiting to be found that archaeology will always be an ever unfolding drama This book was first published in 1973

Subsistence Agriculture and Economic Development Jr. Wharton, 2017-07-28 One of the more perplexing problems of economic development is helping subsistence farmers break away from production simply for home consumption to become commercial farmers producing more and more for sale in the marketplace Although subsistence farms occupy 40 percent of the world's cultivated land and support half of mankind facts about them and programs to increase their output are scattered Subsistence Agriculture and Economic Development provides a unique overview of these difficulties and their significance to economic development It is the first book to subject subsistence agriculture to rigorous multi-disciplinary examination and to bring to light new theory and empirical evidence directed toward solving the problem This volume contains original chapters by forty leading social scientists and agricultural specialists who summarize contemporary theory fact and policy on the problems of developing agriculture from subsistence to a commercial basis Each contributor speaks from one or more of the relevant standpoints of economics sociology agronomy political science anthropology and social psychology There emerges a clear meaningful picture of the subsistence farmer and the problems involved in changing his attitudes methods of production and economic and social environment Broad in scope documented with pertinent case studies and far reaching in its guidelines for future research and policy this work should be read by all concerned with increasing food production and with economic development This is an area of special concern in the uses of food products as the basis for new energy
