Regionalism as used in this paper is thus seen as the joint action by jurisdictional authorities to formulate and enforce policy decisions in economic and growth management options that go beyond jurisdictional boundaries and to also complement existing regional and national development initiatives. Explaining this definition, Basha and Cussey (2008) talk of the need for communities to pursue their interests but not at the detriment of others; and be responsible for their own actions by minimizing the harm it imposes on others. Ensuring local participation in the planning process (vertical inclusivity) is one thing, but making local planning authorities collaborate in dealing with common developmental challenges (horizontal inclusivity) is another. Drawing on some key issues in the discussions on regionalism, this paper presents a framework –which integrates regionalism in Ghana's decentralised planning model– as it deals with its urbanisation challenges.

3. Study Context

With a total land area of 238,533 sq km and located between latitudes 4°45' and 12°13' North of the Equator and 1°07' West and 1°14' East of the Greenwich Meridian (Source, Ghana is located at the heart of Western Africa (see Figure 2). It is bordered to the North, South, East and West respectively by Burkina Faso, Gambia and Guinea, Togo, and Côte d'Ivoire. There are 10 regions with each having its capital and 256 Metropolitan/Municipal/District Assemblies (MMEDAs) with their respective capitals as at 2012. Ensuring homogeneity among large cultural groups and also possessing administrative efficiencies are seen to be reasons for establishing these regions (Dickson, 1977) and Chenu, 2005).

Regionalism and Public Policy in Northern Ghana Yakubu Saaka, 2001 Annotation Northern Ghana while accounting for only 20% of the national population is home to over 80% of the poorest tenth of that population The region's main contribution to the national economy is unskilled labor Essays assembled here explain how the region acquired this status and why its underdevelopment persists Academics of Ghana trace the genesis of the situation in Northern Ghana to the pattern of neglect set by policy makers in the early colonial period Saaka a former Deputy Foreign Minister of Ghana teaches African American studies at Oberlin College Annotation c Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Rethinking Civil Society Regionalism in Africa Dele Kogbe, 2022-10-14 This book interrogates the extent to which regional civil society organisations have evolved as actors in West Africa Examining civil society democratic participation in regional integration and involvement in regionalism of peacebuilding it rethinks how we study civil society in the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS region Beyond the functional typology of civil society actors as partner legitimiser resistance counter hegemonic and manipulator the book develops a new analytical framework to understand how organisations such as the West African Civil Society Forum WACSOF and West African Network for Peacebuilding WANEP have evolved Offering analytical perspectives of the actorship of specific regional civil society actors the book draws attention to the tendencies in the previous studies of mistaking an action or misdeed that is empirically specific to particular civil society organisations within a region to the generality of the civic space of the region Providing an alternative perspective aimed at invoking a new intellectual conversation about civil society regionalism this book advances a new analytical framework of action based regional identity of civil society regional presence of activities regional capacities and societal impact It will be of interest to academics and scholars of international relations global governance African politics and comparative regionalism African Studies Review, 2002 Africa and the First World War De-Valera NYM Botchway, Kwame Osei Kwarteng, 2018-10-26 The First World War was a widespread conflagration in world history which despite its European origins had enormous effects throughout the world Fettered to European politics and diplomacy through colonialism Africa could not claim a position of neutrality meaning that it mobilised human and natural resources to support the imperial war effort Fighting both within and outside Africa colonised Africans who were compelled or coaxed by the colonial regimes of the warring European countries fought Europeans and Africans too The soldiers fought with great dedication and contributed significantly to successes attained by the belligerent European colonialists Similarly African non combatants like carriers brought zeal and enthusiasm to difficult wartime tasks The impact of the war on Africa was immense with far reaching consequences in specific colonies and touched the lives of all Africans under colonial rule Although the continent's connections to the war were immense and diverse these experiences are not widely known among scholars and the general public This is because over the years most studies and commemorative events of the war have centred on the European theatre of the war and its outcomes This book brings together interesting essays written by scholars of African history society and military about African experiences of the war It complements and problematises some key themes on Africa and the First World War and offers a stimulating historiographical excursion providing possibilities for reconsidering normative conclusions on the war The volume will be of interest to general readers as well as students and researchers in different areas of scholarship including African history war studies postcolonial studies cultural studies labour history and the history of memory among others

International African Bibliography, 2004 Changing Perspectives on the Social Sciences in Ghana Samuel Agyei-Mensah, Joseph Atsu Ayee, Abena D. Oduro, 2014-05-08 This book is the first compilation of its kind that brings together discussions of the evolution of scholarship in different branches of the Social Sciences It presents a comprehensive multi disciplinary text exploring the changing dynamics of the Social Sciences in Ghana offering a broader perspective from which to view the evolution theory methods substance and relevance of each of the Social Science disciplines and their multiple interfaces The introduction and the conclusion are devoted to the theoretical comparative and empirical debate over the Social Sciences from historical and analytical perspectives Written by acknowledged experts the 15 chapters span the following disciplines Archaeology and Heritage Studies History Geography Psychology Sociology and Anthropology Social Work Economics Political Science International Affairs Information Studies Communication Studies African Studies Development Studies Women s and Gender Studies and Adult and Continuing Education Changing Perspectives on the Social Sciences in Ghana offers sophisticated perspectives for comparing and appreciating the synergies differences trends and nuances among and between the Social Science disciplines in Ghana in a holistic and scholarly manner An Anatomy of Public Policy Implementation Joseph R. A. Ayee, 1994 A review of the reasons for the failure of different decentralization programmes in Ghana with reference to the link between the substance of a policy and its method of application The Politics of Land Tenure Reform in Ghana , 2007 Village Work Alice Wiemers, 2021-05-28 A robust historical case study that demonstrates how village development became central to the rhetoric and practice of statecraft in rural Ghana Combining oral histories with decades of archival material Village Work formulates a sweeping history of twentieth century statecraft that centers on the daily work of rural people local officials and family networks rather than on the national governments and large scale plans that often dominate development stories Wiemers shows that developmentalism was not simply created by governments and imposed on the governed instead it was jointly constructed through interactions between them The book contributes to the historiographies of development and statecraft in Africa and the Global South by emphasizing the piecemeal contingent and largely improvised ways both development and the state are comprised and experienced providing new entry points into longstanding discussions about developmental power and discourse unsettling common ideas about how and by whom states are made exposing the importance of unpaid labor in mediating relationships between governments and the governed showing how state engagement could both exacerbate and disrupt inequities Despite massive changes in twentieth century political structures the imposition and destruction of colonial rule nationalist plans for pan African solidarity and modernization multiple military coups and the rise of neoliberal austerity policies unremunerated labor and demonstrations of local leadership have remained central tools by which rural Ghanaians have interacted with the state Grounding its analysis of statecraft in decades of daily negotiations over budgets and bureaucracy the book tells the stories of developers who decided how and where projects would be sited of constituents who performed labor and of a chief and his large cadre of educated children who met and shaped demands for local leaders For a variety of actors invoking the village became a convenient way to allocate or attract limited resources to highlight or downplay struggles over power and to forge national and international networks

Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2003 Ethnicity and the Making of History in Northern Ghana Carola Lentz,2006-07-04 Drawing on two decades of research this social and political history of North Western Ghana traces the creation of new ethnic and territorial boundaries categories and forms of self understanding and represents a major contribution to debates on ethnicity colonialism and the production of history It explores the creation and redefinition of ethnic distinctions and commonalities by African and European actors showing that ethnicity s power derives from a contradiction while ethnic identities purport to be non negotiable creating permanent bonds stability and security the boundaries of the communities created and the associated traits and practices are malleable and adaptable to specific interests and contexts

Beyond Territory and Scarcity Quentin Gausset,Michael Anthony Whyte,Torben Birch-Thomsen,2005 In this volume ten anthropologists and geographers critically address traditional Mathusian discourses in essays that attempt to move beyond territory and scarcity

Regionalism across the North/South Divide Jean Grugel,Wil Hout,2003-12-16 In contrast to most studies of regionalism Grugel and Hout focus on countries not currently at the core of the global economy including Brazil and Mercosur Chile South East Asia China South Africa the Maghreb Turkey and Australia What seems clear from this original analysis is that far from being peripheral these countries are forming regional power blocs of their own which could go on to hold the balance of power in the new world order

A New African Elite Deborah Pellow,2022-03-11 Focusing on a sub set of the Dagomba of northern Ghana this book looks at the first generation to go through secondary school in the north After university and post graduate education they relocate to Accra the capital hundreds of miles south They crossed social and physical space and have become cosmopolitan while holding on to tradition and attachment to their home town This bridge generation are patrons to those living up north This book charts their path into elite status and argues that they use the tools gained through education and social connections to influence politics back home
