The Whale Caller Zakes Mda,2006-10-17 A voice for which one should feel not only affection but admiration The New York Times The Whale Caller Zakes Mda's fifth novel is his most enchanting and accessible book yet a romantic comedy of sorts in which the changing face of post-apartheid South Africa is revealed through prodigious lyrical storytelling As the novel opens the seaside village of Hermanus on the country's west coast is overrun with whale watchers foreign tourists wearing floral shirts and toting expensive binoculars determined to see whales in their natural habitat But when the tourists have gone home the Whale Caller lingers at the shoreline wooing a whale he calls Sharisha with cries from a kelp horn When

Sharisha fails to appear for weeks on end the Whale Caller frets like a jealous lover oblivious to the fact that the town drunk Saluni a woman who wears a silk dress and red stiletto heels is infatuated with him After much ado which Mda relates with great relish the two misfits fall in love But each of them is ill equipped for romance and their on again off again relationship suggests something of the fitful nature of change in post apartheid South Africa where just living from one day to the next can be challenge enough Mda has spoken of the end of apartheid as a lifting of the South African novelist s burden to write on political subjects With The Whale Caller he has written a tender charming novel the work of a virtuoso among international writers

Minority and Indigenous Trends 2020 - Focus on technology Peter Grant, Carl Söderbergh, 2020-10-15 Technology increasingly permeates every aspect of our lives from the use of big data to information and communication technologies ICTs to artificial intelligence AI and automation These developments are often framed around issues such as efficiency speed and innovation but for minorities indigenous peoples and other marginalized groups there are often very different forces at play the replication of existing patterns of exclusion in new forms While a central aim of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs was to reduce social inequalities within societies the outbreak of the Covid 19 pandemic has highlighted how profound the gap remains for minorities and indigenous peoples in many countries. Though there is much hope and uncertainty around the possibilities of track and trace mobile applications and other emerging technologies to resolve the crisis without a firm commitment to social justice and universal access, it is likely that many will be denied their benefits. With minorities and indigenous peoples disproportionately represented among the world's poor, it is not surprising that poverty is itself a major barrier to these groups accessing mobile phones, computers, and other technologies. Besides the issue of affordability, there may be physical and geographic constraints, particularly for communities in rural or remote locations. In addition, other hurdles such as limited information in minority or indigenous languages can compound lack of access. For marginalized groups within minority and indigenous communities, such as persons with disabilities, further significant issues arise, for instance, whether websites are accessible and compatible with assistive technologies. The need for a more holistic approach to technology is therefore more urgent than ever, with an emphasis not only on affordable pricing and accessible delivery but also culturally appropriate and inclusive design. Importantly, an inclusive approach to technology should translate not only to equitable access as users but also meaningful participation in their development. At present, however, minority and indigenous employment in sectors such as computing remains low. This poses a fundamental challenge to the creation of more diverse technologies downstream.

Garry Kilworth SF Gateway Omnibus Garry Kilworth, 2014-01-16 From the vaults of the SF Gateway, the most comprehensive digital library of classic SFF titles ever assembled, comes an ideal introduction to the work of the WORLD FANTASY AWARD winning author Garry Kilworth. This omnibus collects his critically acclaimed Navigator Kings trilogy: THE ROOF OF VOYAGING, THE PRINCELY FLOWER, and LAND OF MISTS.

The Roof of Voyaging Garry Kilworth, 2011-09-29 When Kupe, one of the great Polynesian voyagers, chases a huge octopus across the ocean, he discovers the strange and mysterious Land of Mists and rescues a man and a woman from the wild sea. He carries them back to the island of Raiatea, where the pale strangers witness the momentous events that follow the death of the king and the struggle for succession. But the gods are watching also, and when Prince Tangia and his followers secretly flee the island in search of a new home, their intervention becomes inevitable. Delighting in the rich and colourful detail and myth of Polynesian life, The Roof of Voyaging is the first part of a wonderful tale which will become a landmark in fantastic fiction.

Word & Image in Colonial and Postcolonial Literatures and Cultures, 2009-01-01 Verbal imagery and visual images, as well as the intricate relationships between verbal and visual representations, have long shaped the imagination and the practice of intercultural relationships. The contributions to this volume take a fresh look at the ideology of form, especially the gendered and racial implications of the gaze and the voice in various media and intermedial transformations. Analyses of how culturally specific forms of visual and verbal expression are individually understood and manipulated complement reflections on the potential and limitations of representation The juxtaposition of visual and verbal signifiers explores the gap between them as a space beyond cultural boundaries Topics treated include Caliban English satirical iconotexts Oriental travel writing and illustration expatriate description and picturesque illustration of Edinburgh ethnographic film African studio photography South African cartoons imagery ekphrasis and race in South African art and fiction face and visibility representation and memory in Asian fiction Bollywood Asian historical film Asian British pop music Australian landscape in painting and fiction indigenous children s fiction from Aotearoa New Zealand Canada and the USA Canadian photography Native Americans in film Writers and artists discussed include Philip Kwame Apagya the Asian Dub Foundation Breyten Breytenbach Richard Burton Peter Carey Gurinder Chadha Daniel Chodowiecki J M Coetzee Ashutosh Gowariker Patricia Grace W Greatbatch Hogarth Francis K Honny Jim Jarmusch Robyn Kahukiwa Seydou Keita Thomas King Vladyslava Krykorka Alfred Kubin Michael Arvaarluk Kusugak Kathleen and Michael Lacapa L szl Lakner George Littlechild Ken Lum Franz Marc Zakes Mda Ketan Mehta M I A Maya Arulpragasam Timothy Mo William Kent Monkman Lady Mary Wortley Montagu John Hamilton Mortimer Sidney Nolan Jean Rouch Salman Rushdie William Shakespeare Robert Louis Stevenson Richard Van Camp Zapiro
