Hormats, 1978      Problem Economics Dexter Merriam Keezer, Addison Thayer Cutler, Frank Richardson Garfield, 1928      The Economics of Genomic Medicine Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Roundtable on Translating Genomic-Based Research for Health, 2013-06-20 The sequencing of the human genome and the identification of links between specific genetic variants and diseases have led to tremendous excitement over the potential of genomics to direct patient treatment toward more effective or less harmful interventions Still the use of whole genome sequencing challenges the traditional model of medical care where a test is ordered only when there is a clear indication for its use and a path for downstream clinical action is known This has created a tension between experts who contend that using this information is premature and those who believe that having such information will empower health care providers and patients to make proactive decisions regarding lifestyle and treatment options In addition some stakeholders are concerned that genomic technologies will add costs to the health care system without providing commensurate benefits and others think that health care costs could be reduced by identifying unnecessary or ineffective treatments Economic models are frequently used to anticipate the costs and benefits of new health care technologies policies and regulations Economic studies also have been used to examine much more specific issues such as comparing the outcomes and cost effectiveness of two different drug treatments for the same condition These kinds of analyses offer more than just predictions of future health care costs They provide information that is valuable when implementing and using new technologies Unfortunately however these economic assessments are often limited by a lack of data on which to base the examination This particularly affects health economics which includes many factors for which current methods are inadequate for assessing such as personal utility social utility and patient preference To understand better the health economic issues that may arise in the course of integrating genomic data into health care the Roundtable on Translating Genomic Based Research for Health hosted a workshop in Washington DC on July 17 18 2012 that brought together economists regulators payers biomedical researchers patients providers and other stakeholders to discuss the many factors that may influence this implementation The workshop was one of a series that the roundtable has held on this topic but it was the first focused specifically on economic issues The Economics of Genomic Medicine summarizes this workshop

,1993      Congressional Record United States. Congress,1978 The Congressional Record is the official record of the proceedings and debates of the United States Congress It is published daily when Congress is in session The Congressional Record began publication in 1873 Debates for sessions prior to 1873 are recorded in The Debates and Proceedings in the Congress of the United States 1789 1824 the Register of Debates in Congress 1824 1837 and the Congressional Globe 1833 1873      Abbott's Gambit Carol Johnson,John Wanna,Hsu-Ann Lee,2015-01-21 This book provides a truly comprehensive analysis of the 2013 federal election in Australia which brought the conservative Abbott government to power consigned the fractious Labor Party to the Opposition benches and ended the hung parliament experiment of 2010 13 in which the Greens and three independents lent their support to form a minority Labor government It charts the dynamics of this significant election and the twists and turns of the campaign itself against a backdrop of a very tumultuous period in Australian politics Like the earlier federal election of 2010 the election of 2013 was an exercise in bipolar adversarial politics and was bitterly fought by the main protagonists It was also characterised again by leadership changes on Labor s side as well as the entry of new political parties anxious to deny the major parties a clear mandate Moreover the 2013 election continued the trend whereby an increasing proportion of the electorate has chosen not to vote for one of the main two political parties While the 2013 election delivered a clear victory to the Coalition in the Lower House it simultaneously produced a much more mixed outcome in the Senate where the Greens managed to record their largest ever representation and a new party the Palmer United Party initially secured three Senate positions at its first attempt together with the election of Clive Palmer to a Queensland seat in the House of Representatives With minor and micro parties also winning Senate seats amounting to a total of 18 Senators on the cross benches the Abbott government s ability to govern and pass legislation was placed in some doubt The 2013 election result suggested that far from ending the preceding tumultuous period of Australian politics it merely served to prolong this era indefinitely The 2013 campaign was one of the longest on record arguably commencing when the besieged Prime Minister Julia Gillard announced the date for the election in late January 2013 then over seven months away This unconventional tactic overshadowed the election from that date onwards providing a definite timeline for Labor infighting influencing the largely negative tactics of the Opposition and encouraging new parties to proliferate to contest the election This volume traces these formative influences on the campaign dynamics and explains the electoral outcome that occurred including the 2014 re election for the Western Australian Senate seats ordered by the High Court Abbott s Gambit includes insightful contributions from academic experts campaign directors and electoral watchers political advisers and professional psephologists Contributors utilise a wide range of sources and approaches including the Australian Election Survey to provide a detailed analysis of this important federal election      Papers and Proceedings [of The] Annual Meeting - American Sociological Society American Sociological Association,1922      Operation of the Trade Agreements Program ,1992
