Making Light Of The Times:

Making Darkness Light Joe Moshenska, 2021-12-07 An innovative and elegant new biography of John Milton from an acclaimed Oxford professor John Milton was once essential reading for visionaries and revolutionaries from William Blake to Ben Franklin Now however he has become a literary institution intimidating rather than inspiring In Making Darkness Light Oxford professor Joe Moshenska rediscovers a poet whose rich contradictions confound his monumental image Immersing ourselves in the rhythms and textures of Milton s world we move from the music of his childhood home to his encounter with Galileo in Florence into his idiosyncratic belief system and his strange electrifying imagination Making Darkness Light will change the way we think about Milton the place of his writings in his life and his life in history It is also a book about Milton s place in our times about our relationship with the Western canon about why and how we read and about what happens when we let someone else s ideas inflect our own

Making Light Work David A. Spencer,2022-01-19 Is work a primordial curse Or a spiritual calling Or is it a tedious necessity that technology will abolish freeing us to indulge lives of leisure In this book David A Spencer argues that work is only an alienating burden because of the nature of work under capitalism He makes the case not for the abolition of work which can remain a source of meaning and dignity but for its lightening Engaging with thinkers ranging from Marx and William Morris to Keynes and Graeber he rejects the idea that high quality work can only be open to a few while the majority are condemned to menial tasks and sets out an agenda for shortening the working week while also making work a site of creativity usefulness and joy for all This erudite book sets out a compelling agenda for radical change It s essential reading for anyone interested in the future of their work One Thousand Times the Speed of Light John Locke,2009-05

Making and Selling Cars James M. Rubenstein,2001-12-17 The automobile has shaped nearly every aspect of modern American life This text documents the story of the automotive industry which despite its power is constantly struggling to assure its success Medical Times ,1915 Reimagining Time Tanya Bub,Jeffrey Bub,2021-04-13 A quirky funny and accessible blend of science and art that delves into the heart of Einstein s theory of relativity It was a link to his 1905 paper an early attempt at explaining his revolutionary ideas on space time and matter that drew Tanya Bub into Albert Einstein s imaginative vision of the world What particularly struck her was how Einstein interwove words and math to create clear visuals illustrating his theories As an artist she naturally started doodling as she worked her way through his concepts creating drawings that intuitively demonstrated Einstein s core principles In Reimagining Time Tanya Bub teams up with her father the distinguished physicist Jeffrey Bub to create a quirky and accessible take on one of science s most revolutionary discoveries Blending original art and text they guide readers through Einstein s theory of special relativity to expose truths about our universe time is relative lengths get shorter with motion energy and mass are interchangeable and the Universe has a speed limit A Literary History of Persia: From the earliest times until Firdawsí, 1902 Edward Granville

Browne,1908 A Primer of Judgment and Decision Making Richard Tunney,2024-04-15 The book is intended as a primer and discusses the main areas within judgment and decision making However these topics are not siloed Instead a narrative arc throughout the book has a higher level of critical appraisal of the key concepts and how they relate to some of the big questions about the nature of human rationality The book begins by introducing two perspectives on rationality The first describes how we decide on the goodness of a decision This is a surprisingly recent concept called Rational Choice Theory which was formed from a collection of books written around the time of the Second World War that deal with how we think about risk as a probability and goodness as utility In short Rational Choice Theory argues that to be rational people should always make the decision that maximizes subjective expected utility The book goes on to describe the consensus view that emerged in the late 1960s and came to dominate our thinking about decision making namely that people rarely make rational decisions In fact many Nobel prizes have been handed out for work showing that humans are not rational creatures e g Daniel Kahneman Richard Thaler Robert Shiller The book concludes with recent theoretical developments in our understanding of how people make decisions that reconcile Rational Choice Theory with human irrationality Although aimed primarily at second year undergraduates studying judgement and decision making as a core component of cognitive psychology the book will also be relevant to third year electives in and MSc programmes The book will also interest undergraduates studying economics and undergraduates studying more general degrees in liberal arts or natural science As an introductory text the book assumes no prior knowledge of judgement and decision making cognitive psychology or economics However the level of the book assumes that the reader is familiar with academic texts and has experience of critical thinking A key requirement of the reader is a willingness to relate academic concepts to the real world and to try and understand the bigger picture about human psychology and its place in society

Making Light of Christ and Salvation too oft the issue of Gospel invitations. Manifested in a sermon, etc Richard Baxter, 1691 Augustine and Time John Doody, Sean Hannan, Kim Paffenroth, 2021-05-25 This collection examines the topic of time in the life and works of Augustine of Hippo Adopting a global perspective on time as a philosophical and theological problem the volume includes reflections on the meaning of history the mortality of human bodies and the relationship between temporal experience and linguistic expression As Augustine himself once observed time is both familiar and surprisingly strange Everyone's days are structured by temporal rhythms and routines from watching the clock to whiling away the hours at work Few of us however take the time to sit down and figure out whether time is real or not or how it is we are able to hold our past present and future thoughts together in a straight line so that we can recite a prayer or sing a song Divided into five sections the essays collected here highlight the ongoing relevance of Augustine's work even in settings quite distinct from his own era and context The first three sections organized around the themes of interpretation language and gendered embodiment engage directly with Augustine's own writings from the Confessions to the City of God and beyond The final two sections meanwhile explore the afterlife of the Augustinian approach in conversation with medieval Islamic and Christian thinkers like Avicenna and Aquinas as well as a broad range of Buddhist figures like Dharmakirti and Vasubandhu What binds all of these diverse chapters together is the underlying sense that regardless of the century or the tradition in which we find ourselves there is something about the puzzle of temporality that refuses to go away Time as Augustine knew demands our attention This was true for him in late ancient North Africa It was also true for Buddhist thinkers in South and East Asia And it remains just as true for humankind in the twenty first century as people around the globe continue to grapple with the reality of time and the challenges of living in a world that always seems to be speeding up rather than slowing down
