Boulton, Thomas D. Kennedy, Allen Verhey, 1994 Here is a single volume that effectively introduces students to the full breadth of the discipline of Christian ethics Essays deal with both concrete issues and theoretical foundations Relevant biblical readings and a series of case studies accentuate the text Speaking of Violence Sara B. Cobb, 2013-08 In the context of ongoing or historical violence people tell stories about what happened who did what to whom and why Yet frequently the speaking of violence reproduces the social fractures and delegitimizes again those that struggle against their own marginalization This speaking of violence deepens conflict and all too often perpetuates cycles of violence Alternatively sometimes people do not speak of the violence and it is erased buried with the bodies that bear it witness This reduces the capacity of the public to address issues emerging in the aftermath of violence and repression This book takes the notion of narrative as foundational to conflict analysis and resolution Distinct from conflict theories that rely on accounts of attitudes or perceptions in the heads of individuals this narrative perspective presumes that meaning structured and organized as narrative processes is the location for both analysis of conflict as well as intervention But meaning is political in that not all stories can be told or the way they are told delegitimizes and erases others Thus the critical narrative theory outlined in this book offers a normative approach to narrative assessment and intervention It provides a way of evaluating narrative and designing better formed stories better in that they are generative of sustainable relations creating legitimacy for all parties In so doing they function aesthetically and ethically to support the emergence of new histories and new futures Indeed critical narrative theory offers a new lens for enabling people to speak of violence in ways that undermine the intractability of conflict
