Making News Of Police Violence:

Making News of Police Violence Jeffrey Ian Ross Ph.D.,2000-08-30 Although many people consider excessive police violence disconcerting if when and how they voice their opinion or respond by taking some sort of action has generally remained empirically unknown In the hope of understanding this process Ross has developed a four stage model based on a review of the literature and on interviews with the relevant actors He then uses this tool to analyze police violence that occurred in Toronto Canada and New York City over a fifteen year period To better focus the study he uses in depth case studies of three well publicized cases of police violence from each city matched on important criteria This study addresses a difficult timely and important topic for victims for police personnel and for society Ross concludes that in general most individuals do not respond to police use of excessive force further if and when they do usually depends on the context of the violence Using both quantitative and qualitative methods Ross s model integrates a variety of approaches to improve our understanding of how communities come to define and control the use of force by police including literature on the role of media efforts and their impact upon police violence The work concludes with an analysis of the reasons why people react so infrequently to incidents of excessive force

Criminology Explains Police Violence Philip Matthew Stinson,2020-01-21 Criminology Explains Police Violence offers a concise and targeted overview of criminological theory applied to the phenomenon of police violence In this engaging and accessible book Philip M Stinson Sr highlights the similarities and differences among criminological theories and provides linkages across explanatory levels and across time and geography to explain police violence This book is appropriate as a resource in criminology policing and criminal justice special topic courses as well as a variety of violence and police courses such as policing administration police community relations police misconduct and violence in society Stinson uses examples from his own research to explore police violence acknowledging the difficulty in studying the topic because violence is often seen as a normal part of policing

Justice Ignited Brian Martin,2007 Attacks can backfire on attackers_sometimes spectacularly Examples include the beating of Rodney King by Los Angeles police in 1991 the surveillance of Ralph Nader in 1965 and the invasion of Iraq in 2003 Attackers often inhibit adverse reactions by covering up the attack devaluing the target and using other methods Through numerous detailed case studies Justice Ignited reveals the most promising tactics that can make unfair attacks backfire

Policing Issues Jeffrey Ross,2011-02-09 Law Enforcement Policing Security The New Policing Eugene McLaughlin,2007 The New Policing provides a comprehensive introduction to the critical issues confronting policing today It incorporates an overview of traditional approaches to the study of the police with a discussion of current perspectives The book goes on to examine key themes including the core purpose of contemporary policework the reconfiguration of police culture organizational issues and dilemmas currently confronting the police the managerial reforms and professional innovations that have been implemented in recent years and the future of policing security and crime control In offering this discussion of the nature and role of the police The New Policing illustrates the need to re examine and re think the theoretical perspectives that have constituted policing studies Examining evidence from the UK the USA and other western societies the book promotes and enables an understanding of the cultural and symbolic significance of policing in society

Making Human Rights News John Pollock, Morton Winston, 2018-10-18 Making Human Rights News Balancing Participation and Professionalism explores the impact of new digital technology and activism on the production of human rights messages It is the first collection of studies to combine multidisciplinary approaches citizen witness challenges to journalism ethics and expert assessments of the liberating role of the Internet addressing the following questions 1 What can scholars from a wide range of disciplines including communication studies journalism sociology political science and international relations studies add to traditional legal and political human rights discussions exploring the impact of innovative digital information technologies on the gathering and dissemination of human rights news 2 What questions about journalism ethics and professionalism arise as growing numbers of untrained citizen witnesses use modern mobile technology to document claims of human rights abuses 3 What are the limits of the liberating role of the Internet in challenging traditional sources of authority and credibility such as professional journalists and human rights professionals 4 How do greater Internet access and human rights activism interact with variations in press freedom and government censorship worldwide to promote respect for different categories of human rights such as women's rights and rights to health This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Human Rights The Routledge Companion to News and Journalism Stuart Allan, 2022-11-28 The Routledge Companion to News and Journalism brings together scholars committed to the conceptual and methodological development of news and journalism studies from around the world Across 50 chapters organized thematically over seven sections contributions examine a range of pressing challenges for news reporting including digital convergence mobile platforms web analytics and datafication social media polarization and the use of drones Journalism's mediation of social issues is also explored such as those pertaining to human rights civic engagement gender inequalities the environmental crisis and the Black Lives Matter movement Each section raises important questions for academic research generating fresh insights into journalistic forms practices and epistemologies The Companion furthers our understanding of why we have ended up with the kind of news reporting we have today its remarkable strengths the difficulties it faces and how we might improve upon it for tomorrow Completely revised and updated for its second edition this volume is ideal for advanced undergraduates postgraduates researchers and academics in the fields of news media and journalism studies Routledge Handbook of Street Culture Jeffrey Ross, 2020-10-05 Discussions of street culture exist in a variety of academic disciplines yet a handbook that brings together the diversity of scholarship on this subject has yet to be produced The Routledge Handbook of Street Culture integrates and reviews current scholarship regarding the history types and contexts of the concept of street culture It is comprehensive and international in its treatment of the subject of street culture Street culture includes many subtypes situations locations and participants and these are explored in the various chapters included in this book Street culture varies based on numerous factors including capitalism market societies policing ethnicity and race but also advances in technology The book is divided into four major sections Actors and street culture Activities connected to street culture The centrality of crime to street culture and Representations of street culture Contributors are well respected and recognized international scholars in their fields They draw upon contemporary scholarship produced in the social sciences arts and humanities in order to communicate their understanding of street culture The book provides a comprehensive and accessible approach to the subject of street culture through the lens of an inter and or multidisciplinary perspective It is also intersectional in its approach and consideration of the subject and phenomenon of street culture Law Enforcement, Communication, and Community Howard Giles, 2002-07-25 Given widespread media attention to issues of crime and its prevention police heroism and new modes of police community involvements this international collection is timely It is unique in examining ways in which police and citizens communicate across a range of contexts and problem areas While much attention is afforded the critical roles of communication by police agencies there has been little recourse to communication science and its theories Likewise the latter has not until recently concerned itself with analyzing police citizen interactions This volume examines the character of such encounters forging new theoretical frameworks having implications for practice in many instances Topics include media portrayals of law enforcement communication and new technologies within police culture domestic violence hate crimes stalking sexual abuse and hostage negotiations This book should be relevant not only to a range of social sciences besides Communication scholars and students but also to practitioners working in the field

Voices from the Favelas Fernanda Amaral, 2021-03-11 The mainstream media in Brazil portrays favelas unregulated low income neighbourhoods in a negative light This has been the case since their emergence over a century ago Voices from the Favelas navigates through the contemporary representation of the favelas in the established media discussing how this partial representation impacts issues of identity and social segregation the legitimization of structural violence in those sites and providing an account of the recent emergence of digital social networks as counterpublics In order to understand the struggle against the characterisation of the favela as a site dominated by violence a framework which has been disseminated on a global scale and accepted as the norm this book will take its readers inside the mindset of the favela media activists examining the production of information and the organisation of the residents as they resist and challenge the status quo Are the activists able to counteract the official narrative in the struggles against misrepresentation and social invisibility or is the mainstream version of the favela still strong enough to help in the legitimization of the institutionalised violence Studies in

Language and Social Interaction Jennifer Mandelbaum, 2003-01-30 This collection offers empirical studies and theoretical essays about human communication in everyday life The writings come from many of the world's leading researchers and cut across academic boundaries engaging scholars and teachers from such disciplines as communication sociology anthropology linguistics and education Chapters emphasize empirical qualitative studies of people's everyday uses of talk in interaction and they feature work in such areas as sociolinguistics conversation analysis discourse analysis and ethnography The volume is dedicated to and highlights themes in the work of the late Robert Hopper an outstanding scholar in communication who pioneered research in Language and Social Interaction LSI The contributors examine various features of human interaction such as laughter vocal repetition and hand gestures occurring naturally within a variety of settings at a dinner table a doctor's office an automotive repair shop and so forth whereby interlocutors accomplish aspects of their interpersonal or institutional lives resolve a disagreement report bad medical news negotiate a raise and more all of which may relate to larger social issues including police brutality human spirituality death and optimism The chapters in this anthology show that social life is largely a communicative accomplishment and that people constitute the social realities experienced every day through small and subtle ways of communicating carefully orchestrated but commonly taken for granted In showcasing the diversity of contemporary LSI research this volume is appropriate for scholars and graduate students in language and social interaction communication sociology research methods qualitative research methods discourse analysis conversation analysis

A Free Press, If You Can Keep It Giovanna Maria Dora Dore, Arya D. McCarthy, James A. Scharf, 2023-05-11 This Brief introduces a novel research approach to investigate freedom of the press in Hong Kong The authors pair computational analyses from the field of natural language processing with qualitative content analysis of patterns of journalistic practice in volatile political settings Together these shed light on the evolution of press freedom in Hong Kong since its return to Chinese sovereignty Providing an interdisciplinary perspective the Brief will appeal to a wide range of readers with interests in computational social science public policy political sciences as well as policy makers think tanks and practitioners who focus on the China Hong Kong nexus

Governing with the News Timothy E. Cook, 1998-02-17 From the opening decades of the republic when political parties sponsored newspapers to current governmental practices that actively subsidize the collection and dissemination of the news the press and the government have been far from independent Unlike those earlier days however the news is no longer produced by a diverse range of individual outlets but is instead the result of a collective institution that exercises collective power In explaining how the news media of today operate as an intermediary political institution akin to the party system and interest group system Cook demonstrates how the differing media strategies used by governmental agencies and branches respond to the constitutional and structural weaknesses inherent in a separation of powers system Cook examines the news media's capacity to perform the political tasks that they have inherited and points the way to a debate on policy solutions in order to hold the news media accountable without treading upon the freedom of the press

Seeing Justice Mary Angela Bock, 2021 A behind the scenes look at the struggles between visual journalists and officials over what the public sees and therefore much of what the public knows of the criminal justice system In the contexts of crime social justice and the law nothing in visual media is as it seems In today's mediated social world visual communication has shifted to a democratic sphere that has significantly changed the way we understand and use images as evidence In Seeing Justice Mary Angela Bock examines the way criminal justice in the US is presented in visual media by focusing on the grounded practices of visual journalists in relationship with law enforcement Drawing upon extended interviews participant observation contemporary court cases and critical discourse analysis Bock provides a detailed examination of the way digitization is altering the relationships between media consumers and the criminal justice system From tabloid coverage of the last public hanging in the US to Karen shaming videos from mug shots to perp walks she focuses on the practical struggles between journalists police and court officials to control the way images influence their resulting narratives Revealing the way powerful interests shape what the public sees Seeing Justice offers a model for understanding how images are used in news narrative Making the News Amber E. Boydstun, 2022-12-22 Media attention can play a profound role in whether or not officials act on a policy issue but how policy issues make the news in the first place has remained a puzzle Why do some issues go viral and then just as quickly fall off the radar How is it that the media can sustain public interest for months in a complex story like negotiations over Obamacare while ignoring other important issues in favor of stories on balloon boy With Making the News Amber Boydstun offers an eye opening look at the explosive patterns of media attention that determine which issues are brought before the public At the heart of her argument is the observation that the media have two modes an alarm mode for breaking stories and a patrol mode for covering them in greater depth While institutional incentives often initiate alarm mode around a story they also propel news outlets into the watchdog like patrol mode around its policy implications until the next big news item breaks What results from this pattern of fixation followed by rapid change is skewed coverage of policy issues with a few receiving the majority of media attention while others receive none at all Boydstun documents this systemic explosiveness and skew through analysis of media coverage across policy issues including in depth looks at the waxing and waning of coverage around two issues capital punishment and the war on terror Making the News shows how the seemingly unpredictable day to day decisions of the newsroom produce distinct patterns of operation with implications good and bad for national politics
