Minority Admissions:

Minority Admissions Robert Leslie Bailey, Anne L. Hafner, 1978 Bakke, DeFunis, and Minority Admissions Allan P. Sindler, 1978 Examines law school and medical school admissions the concept of a racial quota and the Bakke and DeFunis cases to analyze policies concerning preferential admissions of minorities into universities Affirmative Action and Minority Enrollments in Medical and Law Schools Susan Welch, John Gruhl, 1998-05-11 Considers the impact of the Bakke decision regarding minority enrollment in professional schools Race and College Admissions Jamillah Moore, 2024-07-29 In the United States elite colleges and universities have historically catered primarily to wealthy predominantly white Americans creating barriers to entry for students of color Legal statutes have entrenched discriminatory practices within the admissions process perpetuating the underrepresentation of students of color at top tier institutions Given this reality the imperative for institutions to promote diversity through affirmative action remains crucial However recent legal challenges against affirmative action threaten to reinforce the status quo potentially perpetuating the dominance of predominantly white institutions in higher education This book takes an historical look at the pivotal role affirmative action has played in higher education It examines the admissions process through the eyes of a beneficiary of affirmative action and is the first text to share insights on the role eligibility plays in allowing universities to consider race in admitting applicants Detailed are the different types of affirmative action and how some colleges and universities use the policy as a tool to consider race and ethnicity as part of a holistic evaluation of applicants This work makes the case that race conscious admissions practices remain necessary in the fight for racial equity in higher education A Is for Admission Michele A. Colorado Advisory Committee, 1976 Affirmative Action and Minority Enrollments in Medical and Law Schools Susan Welch, John Gruhl, 2010-05-07 Affirmative action is one of the central issues of American politics today and admission to colleges and universities has been at the center of the debate While this issue has been discussed for years there is very little real data on the impact of affirmative action programs on admissions to institutions of higher learning Susan Welch and John Gruhl in this groundbreaking study look at the impact on admissions of policies developed in the wake of the United States Supreme Court's landmark 1978 Bakke decision In Bakke the Court legitimized the use of race as one of several factors that could be considered in admissions decisions while forbidding the use of quotas Opponents of affirmative action claim that because of the Bakke decision thousands of less qualified minorities have been granted admission in preference to more qualified white students proponents claim that without the affirmative action policies articulated in Bakke minorities would not have made the gains they have made in higher education Based on a survey of admissions officers for law and medical schools and national enrollment data the authors give us the first analysis of the real impact of the Bakke decision and affirmative action programs on enrollments in medical and law schools Admission to medical schools and law schools is much sought after and is highly competitive In examining admissions patterns to these schools the authors are able to identify the effects of affirmative action programs and the Bakke decision in what may be the most challenging case This book will appeal to scholars of race and gender in political science sociology and education as well as those interested in the study of affirmative action policies Susan Welch is Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Professor of Political Science Pennsylvania State University John Gruhl is Professor of Political Science University of Nebraska Lincoln An Assessment of Admissions Criteria for Bilingual/bicultural Applicants to Health Professions Schools Urban Systems Research & Engineering,1977 Minority Elderly Access to Health Care and Nursing Homes United States Commission on Civil Rights.
