The Image in Early Cinema Scott Curtis, Philippe Gauthier, Tom Gunning, Joshua Yumibe, 2018-03-22 In The Image in Early Cinema the contributors examine intersections between early cinematic form technology theory practice and broader modes of visual culture They argue that early cinema emerged within a visual culture composed of a variety of traditions in art science education and image making Even as methods of motion picture production and distribution materialized they drew from and challenged practices and conventions in other mediums This rich visual culture produced a complicated overlapping network of image making traditions innovations and borrowing among painting tableaux vivants photography and other pictorial and projection practices Using a variety of concepts and theories the contributors explore these crisscrossing traditions and work against an essentialist notion of media to conceptualize the dynamic interrelationship between images and their context

The Sounds of Early Cinema Richard Abel, Rick R. Altman, 2001-10-03 The Sounds of Early Cinema is devoted exclusively to a little known yet absolutely crucial phenomenon the ubiquitous presence of sound in early cinema Silent cinema may rarely have been silent but the sheer diversity of sound s and sound image relations characterizing the first 20 years of moving picture exhibition can still astonish us Whether instrumental vocal or mechanical sound ranged from the improvised to the pre arranged as in scripts scores and cue sheets The practice of mixing sounds with images differed widely depending on the venue the nickelodeon in Chicago versus the summer Chautauqua in rural Iowa the music hall in London or Paris versus the newest palace cinema in New York City as well as on the historical moment a single venue might change radically and many times from 1906 to 1910 succession Trying to find what film is referred to in a sequence therefore amounts to establishing a clear family tree which takes no account of the illegitimate unions natural children and forgotten ancestors that are nevertheless part and parcel of film history If that quest should still be conducted its object it seems should not be one sole point of reference The aim of this book is to create the opportunity of studying and perhaps of rehabilitating those shadowy corners of cinematographic creation and film memory and to provide film studies but also literature and Arts studies altogether with a newly productive way of using such familiar notions as difference quotation reference blending hybridity miscegenation or crossbreeding
