Plot Summary

Harley Atmeyer is interrogated by police about the murder of an unnamed individual, later revealed to be Calter Mercer. He has trouble focusing on or answering their questions, and one of police officers hits him in frustration. He decides to tell them the truth.

The novel goes back in time to a few months earlier. Harley, 19, meets with his therapist, Betty, and talks about the daily struggles of raising his three younger sisters, Amber, Misty, and Jody. Harley's mother, Denise, is in prison for murdering his father. As he drives home, Harley reflects on his father's abuse toward him and Amber and recalls how close his father was to Misty because she was the only one of the children who was good at hunting. At home, Harley finds Amber preparing to go out. Harley and Amber argue. Harley is unhappy with Amber's sexual activity and worries she'll become pregnant. He also does not want her to go out, since Harley had to work and someone needs to watch the younger girls. Harley has two jobs: one as a bagger at a local grocery store and one as a deliveryman for Barclay's Appliance store. That night, Harley is at the grocery store when he runs into the family's neighbor, Calter Mercer, a married mother.

After work, Harley returns home to find Amber gone. He goes to bed, reflecting on how they have yet to clean out their parents' bedrooms, even after their father's sister came and took away all their father's things. Their father's family has discovered them, leaving them on their
