Mixed Motives Uncertain Outcomes Defense Conversion In China:

Mixed Motives, Uncertain Outcomes Jörn Brömmelhörster, John Frankenstein, 1997 The authors look critically at China's efforts to adapt its vast military industrial complex to the service of its socialist market economy From Defense to Development? Sean M. DiGiovanna, Ann Markusen, 2003-09-11 This impressive book tracks the progress of twelve countries on five continents in moving resources from defense to civilian activity in the 1990s. Based on intensive field research thanks to its truly international array of contributors the book addresses each country with an impressive standard of scholarship. This accessible book is written in A Political Economy Analysis of China's Civil Aviation Industry Mark Dougan, 2016-04-29 First published in 2002 This volume is a political economy analysis of China's civil aviation industry with a focus on the reform period beginning in the late 1970s up to the present. The chief aim is to identify and analyze the most important political economy variables impacting on the industry's development during this time. Compilation of Hearings Held Before the U.S.-China Security Review Commission U.S.-China Security Review Commission, 2002 A New Direction for China's Defense Industry Evan S. Medeiros, Roger Cliff, Keith Crane, James C. Mulvenon, 2005-12-19 Since the early 1980s a prominent and consistent conclusion drawn from research on China's defense industrial complex has been that China's defense production capabilities are rife with weaknesses and limitations. This study argues for an alternative approach. From the vantage point of 2005 it is time to shift the focus of current research to the gradual improvements in and the future potential of China's defense industrial complex. The study found that China's defense sectors are designing and producing a wide range of increasingly advanced weapons that in the short term are relevant to a possible conflict over Taiwan but also to China's long term military presence in Asia. Part of a larger RAND Project AIR FORCE study on Chinese military modernization this study examines the current and future capabilities of China's defense industry. The goals of this study are to 1 Modernization of the Chinese PLA: From Massed Militia to Force Projection Lt Gen JS Bajwa,

Fortifying China Tai Ming Cheung, 2013-04-15 Fortifying China explores the titanic struggle to turn China into an aspiring world class military technological power. The defense economy is leveraging the country's vibrant civilian economy and gaining access to foreign sources of technology and know how. Drawing on extensive Chinese language sources Tai Ming Cheung explains that this transformation has two key dimensions. The defense economy is being reengineered to break down bureaucratic barriers and reduce the role of the state fostering a more competitive and entrepreneurial culture to facilitate the rapid diffusion and absorption of technology and knowledge. At the same time the civilian and defense economies are being integrated to form a dual use technological and industrial base. In Cheung's view the Chinese authorities believe this strategy will play a key role in supporting long term defense modernization. For China's neighbors and the United States understanding China's technological industrial and military capabilities is critical to the formulation of economic and security policies. Fortifying China provides crucial insight into the impact of China's dual use technology strategy. Cheung's systems of innovation framework considers the structure dynamics and performance of the defense economy from a systems level perspective

Security, Arms Control and Defence Restructuring in East Asia Bjørn Møller, 2019-01-22 First published in 1998 this volume examines East Asia especially Northeast Asia which has been a region of considerable political security of importance for several key reasons It features several great and medium powers China Japan and Russia as well as North and South Korea Even though no arms race is yet discernible among these states with the partial exception of the two Koreas it is conceivable that one might commence If it did the level of militarization could become quite alarming if only because of the tremendous and rapidly growing economic potential of the regional states Even though relations among regional states except the two Koreas are currently peaceful the region features several unresolved issues e.g. concerning territory and a historical legacy of enmity between several states To prevent such conflicts of interest from erupting into armed conflict is of the utmost importance A stabilizing factor is that the military potentials in the region are still predominantly defensively oriented i.e. most states lack the requisite power projection or invasion capabilities to inflict serious harm on each other However this might change in the not so distant future Hence the importance of confidence building measures of an institutionalization of regional relations and of a strengthening of commitments to defensive military strategies and postures

Civil-military Relations in Today's China: Swimming in a New Sea David M. Finkelstein, Kristen Gunness, 2015-03-26 This work provides an in depth and up to date examination of civil military relations in China It reflects the significant changes taking place in Chinese society and their impact on the civil military dynamic with particular attention to how the military will fit in with the new class of entrepreneurs Rather than focusing exclusively on elite Party Army relations the book examines civil military relations from various vantage points at the center and in the provinces between civilian leaders and military leaders from a strictly military perspective and from a civilian perspective and from the angle of specific issue areas Chapters explore issues such as the impact of AIDS the defense budget the emerging dynamic between the military and China's new leadership resettling demobilized troops back into civilian life and the role of the militia reserve units and other civilian groups The contributors are highly respected specialists in China studies including political scientists historians PLA specialists and sociologists They present a vibrant portrait of the new civil military dynamic in the PRC within the complex social changes that China is exploring today Forging China's Military Might Tai Ming Cheung, 2014-02-24 His collection of nine essays offers a comprehensive and insightful assessment of the Chinese defense science and technology S civil military integration China s defense innovation system and China s place in the global defense economy Case studies look in detail at the Chinese space and missile industry Constitutes high quality cutting edge research on China s defense industries It should enjoy broad appeal among academics policy makers security analysts and business people in countries around the world Andrew Scobell RAND Corporation Forging China s Military Might belongs in any political science shelf interested in China s issues and international security and considers the nature of China s emergence as a world power Midwest Book Review Trading with the Enemy Hugo Meijer, 2016-02-02 In light of the intertwining logics of military competition and economic interdependence at play in US China relations Trading with the Enemy examines how the United States has balanced its potentially conflicting national security and economic interests in its relationship with the People s Republic of China PRC To do so Hugo Meijer investigates a strategically sensitive yet under explored facet of US China relations the making of American export control policy on military related technology transfers to China since 1979 Trading with the Enemy is the first monograph on this dimension of the US China relationship in the post Cold War Based on 199 interviews declassified documents and diplomatic cables leaked by Wikileaks two major findings emerge from this book First the US is no longer able to apply a strategy of military technology containment of China in the same way it did with the Soviet Union during the Cold War This is because of the erosion of its capacity to restrict the transfer of military related technology to the PRC Secondly a growing number of actors in Washington have reassessed the nexus between national security and economic interests at stake in the US China relationship by moving beyond the Cold War trade off between the two in order to maintain American military preeminence vis vis its strategic rivals By focusing on how states manage the heterogeneous and potentially competing security and economic interests at stake in a bilateral relationship this book seeks to shed light on the evolving character of interstate rivalry in a globalized economy where rivals in the military realm are also economically interdependent China's Entrepreneurial Army Tai Ming Cheung, 2001 China s Entrepreneurial Army offers a fascinating insight into the complex interwoven relationship between state power military burden and economic prosperity in today s China From the early 1980s to the end of the 1990s the People s Liberation Army went into business to make up for falling defence spending It established the world s largest military business complex comprising thousands of army owned enterprises stretching into virtually every corner of the Chinese economy and overseas This participation in business gave the military substantial economic strength and allowed it to adapt to the changing locus of power and authority in China in the reform era which was increasingly measured through economic might But the rapid ascent of the military commercial juggernaut also sowed the seeds of its ignominious demise Corruption smuggling and profiteering became so rampant that the political reliability of the military and the health of the Chinese economy began to be undermined In 1998 the armed forces were ordered to get out of business Tai Ming Cheung traces the origins examines the participation and details the demise of the Chinese military business complex This path breaking study is a uniquely comprehensive and in depth account of this Byzantine and opaque institution and provides a vivid portrait of the corporations military units personalities and other entities that were at the heart of this commercial powerhouse Based upon extensive research of primary source Chinese publications and field work China s Entrepreneurial Army looks at the role of the military business complex from a number of different perspectives its success as a commercial venue the impact on civil military relations and the broader benefits and drawbacks of this commercialism on military professionalism and economic modernization in China and elsewhere

War Or Peace in the South China Sea?

Timo Kivimäki,2002 Not only is the South China Sea of strategic importance it is also rich in oil and other natural resources As such it is the subject of overlapping territorial disputes between several East and Southeast Asian countries as well as the scene of military tensions and potentially dangerous conflicts But disputes over the South China Sea are much more complex than simply issues of military security Environmental values economic security and political developments are also involved Spanning the full complexity of the situation this volume covers its historical and legal background analyses its environmental economic military and political dimensions assesses the potential for containing and resolving disputes as well as transforming the structures of conflict in the region Research Handbook on the Arms Trade Andrew T.H. Tan,2020-12-25 This comprehensive Research Handbook examines the key drivers of the arms trade mapping the main trends in Asia Europe the Middle East Africa and Latin America It also explores the principal defence markets internationally including the US China India Russia and the UK in greater detail Reluctant Restraint Evan S. Medeiros,2009 The Fourth Industrial Revolution and Military-Civil Fusion Yoram Evron,Richard A. Bitzinger,2023-06-15 Advanced commercial technologies offer new opportunities for defense applications that could greatly affect military power and metrics of military advantage This is relevant when it comes to civilian based technological innovations found in the emerging fourth industrial revolution such as artificial intelligence autonomous systems big data and quantum computing Militaries and governments around the world are increasingly focused on how and where advanced commercial technologies innovations and breakthroughs could potentially create new capacities for military power advantage and leverage This process of exploiting civilian based advanced technologies is referred to as military civil fusion MCF This book addresses MCF not only from a conceptual and practical sense but also comparatively as it explores how four different countries the United States China India and Israel are attempting to use MCF to support national military technological innovation It will interest scholars researchers and advanced students of military security and technology studies as well as analysts and policymakers in military and defense organizations
