Mobility And Employment In Urban Southeast Asia Michael A. Costello, 2019-04-08 This study represents a new generation of inquiry that attempts to gain a better understanding of smaller urban places in the remote and frontier regions in Southeast Asia A set of intriguing hypotheses attempting to unravel the complicated relationships between population movements and employment opportunities as they relate to the growth of certain urban places and the rural hinterland have been posited The study is aimed at illuminating the processes of urbanization and development in North Sumatra Province of Indonesia and the Central Visayas and Northern Mindanao regions of the Philippines

The Geography of Southeast Asia Thomas A. Rumney, 2010-04-07 In The Geography of Southeast Asia Rumney discusses an area that has long been of interest to geographers and other academics As interest in Southeast Asia has grown particularly over the past forty years the volume and variety of scholarly publications on the varied geographical aspects of the region have also increased This collection is an attempt to identify organize and present as many of these works as possible The region as a whole and each individual country of the area are covered in individual chapters Each chapter is further systematically organized by topic including general works cultural social geography economic geography historical geography physical geography political geography and urban geography This book presents a myriad of sources such as atlases books chapters articles dissertations and theses are included as well as works written in English French German and other languages providing the reader with a thorough view of Southeast Asian geography

Peasants on the Move Tana Li, 1996 Almost all developing countries are plagued by the problem of peasants crowding into cities in search of a better life For scholars of and visitors to Vietnam it is increasingly clear that the problem has also arrived in this recently freed socialist economy Is it going to get worse before it gets better What is the official response to the social disruptions and friction it causes This ISEAS study completed at the end of 1993 is one of a few early surveys of this urban drift and provides empirical data on the spontaneous migration to Hanoi from its rural environs It also draws on a vast corpus of journalistic and academic literature in Vietnamese as well as government documents and decrees The final work provides a picture of the migration pattern the lifestyle of migrants in the city the institutional changes that have been energized by this movement and its many political and socioeconomic implications

Women's Work in the World Economy Nancy Folbre, Barbara Bergmann, Bina Agarwal, Maria Floro, 1993-06-18 Examines the role of women and men in the economy of the future The diverse chapters share a common concern for the effect of public policies on women's work both in the market place and in the home Empirical studies offer models for further research in the field of women in the economy

Contesting Citizenship in Urban China Dorothy J. Solinger, 1999-05-17 Post Mao market reforms in China have led to a massive migration of rural peasants toward the cities Denied urban residency this floating population provides labour but loses out on government benefits This study challenges the notion that markets promote rights and legal equality

The Indonesian Town Revisited P. Nas, 2002 The Indonesian

Town Revisited reflects the growing interest in new towns and the urban sprawl around Jakarta the economic crisis and its effects on the construction sector Furthermore a new direction in research is related to the growing interest in middle range cities Some well established topics are also covered such as kampung improvement urban conservation and migration

The Making of Middle Indonesia Gerry van Klinken, 2014-01-30 What holds Indonesia together A strong leader is the answer most often given This book looks instead at a middle level of society Middle classes in provincial towns around the vast archipelago mediate between the state and society and help to constitute state power Middle Indonesia is a social zone connecting extremes The Making of Middle Indonesia examines the rise of an indigenous middle class in one provincial town far removed from the capital city Spanning the late colonial to early New Order periods it develops an unusual associational notion of political power Soft modalities of power included non elite provincial people in the emerging Indonesian state At the same time growing inequalities produced class tensions that exploded in violence in 1965 1966

A Bibliography of Asia-Pacific Studies: Southeast Asia, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore and Thailand, 1992 The Journal of Asian Studies, 1989 Unveiling Indonesia Library of Congress, 1996 Population Mobility in Developing Countries Ronald Skeldon, 1990 The thesis of this study is that the forms of population migration

change systematically over periods of time and from area to area Using data from several parts of the world the author shows how population mobility is linked to wider social economic and political change and that it is closely related to such processes as the rise of nationalism He draws comparisons between the historical experience of Europe and patterns in today s developing world The book is divided into three parts Part I examines the problem of the measurement of population movements and reviews studies of mobility based mainly on the historical record This part is concerned with the patterns of mobility in pre industrial and early industrializing societies as a basis of comparison with more recent patterns The specific focus is on mobility and the peasantry in order to examine critically the notion that peasants either are or were mobile Part II contains detailed descriptions of migration in a number of countries particularly Peru and Papua New Guinea The author looks back on earlier work and attempts to review earlier conclusions in the light of recent research and data Part III deals with certain changes that occur in the way they do The central theme is the penetration of a European dominated system and the two way relationships between the factors giving rise to particular patterns of mobility and the effect that these patterns of mobility have on society and the economy A separate chapter examines the ability of governments or other institutions to guide the changes in particular directions through migration policy
