Kumar, Sanjeev Vidyarthi, Poonam Prakash, 2020-07-07 This book is a comprehensive history of city planning in post independence India. It explores how the nature and orientation of city planning have evolved in India's changing sociopolitical context over the past hundred or so years. The book situates India's experience within a historical framework in order to illustrate continuities and disjunctions between the pre and post independent Indian laws, policies and programs for city planning and development. It focuses on the development, scope and significance of professional planning work in the midst of rapid economic transition, migration, social disparity and environmental degradation. The volume also highlights the need for inclusive planning processes that can provide clean air, water and community spaces to large, diverse and fast growing communities. Detailed and insightful, this volume will be of interest to researchers and students of public administration, civil engineering, architecture, geography, economics and sociology. It will also be useful for policy makers and professionals working in the areas of town and country planning.
