The Central Nervous System Control of Respiration, 2014-04-17 Respiration is one of the most basic motor activities crucial for survival of the individual It is under total control of the central nervous system which adjusts respiratory depth and frequency depending on the circumstances the individual finds itself For this reason this volume not only reviews the basic control systems of respiration located in the caudal brainstem but also the higher brain regions that change depth and frequency of respiration Scientific knowledge of these systems is crucial for understanding the problems in the many patients suffering from respiratory failure This well established international series examines major areas of basic and clinical research within neuroscience as well as emerging subfields

Function and Regulation of Chemoreceptors Dieter Wicher, Frédéric Marion-Poll, 2019-02-08 To perceive environmental chemical compounds and to convert these external signals into an intracellular message might be the oldest way for a living being to get information from the outside world. Chemoreceptors are proteins or protein complexes that detect molecules from the outside world either at distance (olfaction) or at close range (gustation). Chemoreceptors can operate as ionotropic or as metabotropic receptors. Ionotropic receptors form ion channels that are activated via ligand binding. Activation of a metabotropic receptor initiates an intracellular signaling cascade that could include a change of enzymatic activity, production of second messenger or activation of ion channels. The receptor performance has to be fine tuned according to the actual physiological requirements and the presentation of the chemical signal. This Research Topic collects reports and reviews on structure and function of chemoreceptors in the animal kingdom and how these receptors are regulated. Respiratory Neurobiology, 2022-08-12

Respiratory Neurobiology: Physiology and Clinical Disorders Part One Volume 188 is one of two volumes on the neurology of breathing. This volume focuses on the neurophysiology of breathing while the second volume focuses on pathologies attributable to abnormalities of the neural control of breathing: breathing problems that may occur in neurological diseases and the neurological complications of respiratory diseases. Explores the assessment and treatment of neural disorders of breathing. Identifies neural complications of respiratory diseases. Includes SIDS, stroke, Parkinson's, dementia, epilepsy, muscular dystrophy and more. Respiratory Control Dexter F. Speck, Michael S. Dekin, W. Robert Revelante, Donald A. Frazier, 2021-12-15. Understanding of the respiratory control system has been greatly improved by technological and methodological advances. This volume integrates results from many perspectives, brings together diverse approaches to the investigations and represents important additions to the field of neural control of breathing. Topics include: membrane properties of respiratory neurons, in vitro studies of respiratory control, chemical neuroanatomy, central integration of respiratory afferents, modulation of respiratory pattern by peripheral afferents, respiratory chemoreception, development of respiratory control, behavioral control of breathing and human ventilatory control. Forty-seven experts in the field report research and discuss novel issues facing future investigations in this collection of papers from an international conference of nearly two hundred leading scientists held in October 1990. This research is of vital importance to respiratory physiologists and those in neurosciences and neurobiology who work with integrative sensory and motor systems and is pertinent to both basic and clinical investigations. Respiratory Control is destined to be widely cited because of the strength of the contributors and the dearth of similar works. The Respiratory System American Physiological Society (1887-), 1986
