Sacrificial Logics Feminist Theory And The Critique Of Identity:

Sacrificial Logics Allison Weir,1996 Allison Weir sets forth a concept of identity which depends on an acceptance of nonidentity difference and connection to others defined as a capacity to participate in a social world Weir argues that the equation of identity with repression and domination links relational feminists like Nancy Chodorow who equate self identity with the repression of connection to others and poststructuralist feminists like Judith Butler who view any identity as a repression of nonidentity or difference Weir traces this conception of identity as domination back to Simone de Beauvoir s theories of the relation of self and other Sacrificial Logics Allison Weir,2014-07-16 Allison Weir sets forth a concept of identity which depends on an acceptance of nonidentity difference and connection to others defined as a capacity to participate in a social world Weir argues that the equation of identity with repression and domination links relational feminists like Nancy Chodorow who equate self identity with the repression of connection to others and poststructuralist feminists like Judith Butler who view any identity as a repression of nonidentity or difference Weir traces this conception of identity as domination back to Simone de Beauvoir s theories of the relation of self and other The Power of Feminist Theory Amy Allen,2018-03-05 Power is clearly a crucial concept for feminist theory Insofar as feminists are interested in analyzing power it is because they have an interest in understanding critiquing and ultimately challenging the multiple array of unjust power relations affecting women in contemporary Western societies including sexism racism heterosexism and class oppression In The Power of Feminist Theory Amy Allen diagnoses the inadequacies of previous feminist conceptions of power and draws on the work of a diverse group of theorists of power including Michel Foucault Judith Butler and Hannah Arendt in order to construct a new feminist conception of power The conception of power developed in this book enables readers to theorize domination resistance and solidarity and perhaps more importantly to do so in a way that illuminates the interrelatedness of these three modalities of power Mary Hunter Austin: A Female Writer's Protest Against the First World War in the United States Jowan A. Mohammed,2021-09-07 Mary Hunter Austin 1868 1934 is often referred to as an important American writer of the early decades of the 20th century with much of her work concerning nature and Native American culture Hunter Austin was also considered to be one of the early feminist writers whose works had an impact on the redefinition of gender roles during the First World War This study examines the feminist perception of her later years connecting feminist history to questions related to memory through a study of literature politics and interpretations of the past both feminist and gendered It demonstrates how far the perception and remembrance of the past are determined by later agendas and considerations This work is an insightful and detailed study meant to expand knowledge within the field of collective memory about Mary Hunter Austin s life and work alike This book is intended for those with a general interest in feminism socialism World War One and gender issues Academics and specialists in the field will value new research on a crucial figure in American literary history Feminist Review The Feminist Review Collective,2005-08-03 A unique combination of the activist and the academic Feminist Review has an acclaimed position within women's studies courses and the women's movement. It publishes and reviews work by women featuring articles on feminist theory, race, class, and sexuality, women's history, cultural studies, black and third world feminism, poetry, photography, letters, and much more. The

Cambridge Companion to Feminism in Philosophy Miranda Fricker, Jennifer Hornsby, 2000-01-27 The thirteen specially commissioned essays in this volume are written by philosophers at the forefront of feminist scholarship and are designed to provide an accessible and stimulating guide to a philosophical literature that has seen massive expansion in recent years. Ranging from history of philosophy through metaphysics to philosophy of science, they encompass all the core subject areas commonly taught in Anglophone undergraduate and graduate philosophy courses, offering both an overview of and a contribution to the relevant debates. Together they testify to the intellectual value of feminism as a radicalizing energy internal to philosophical inquiry. This volume will be essential reading for any student or teacher of philosophy who is curious about the place of feminism in their subject. The Politics of Our Selves Amy Allen, 2007-11-30 Some critical theorists understand the self as constituted by power relations, while others insist upon the self's autonomous capacities for critical reflection and deliberate self-transformation. Up to now it has all too often been assumed that these two understandings of the self are incompatible. In her bold new book Amy Allen argues that the capacity for autonomy is rooted in the very power relations that constitute the self. Allen's theoretical framework illuminates both aspects of what she calls following Foucault the politics of our selves. It analyzes power in all its depth and complexity, including the complicated phenomenon of subjection, without giving up on the ideal of autonomy. Drawing on original and critical readings of a diverse group of theorists, including Michel Foucault, Jürgen Habermas, Judith Butler, and Seyla Benhabib, Allen shows how the self can be both constituted by power and capable of an autonomous self-constitution. Her argument is a significant and vital contribution to feminist theory and to critical social theory, both of which have long grappled with the relationship between power and agency. If critical theory is to be truly critical, Allen argues, it will have to pay greater attention to the phenomenon of subjection and will have to think through the challenges that the notion of subjection poses for the critical theoretical conception of autonomy. In particular, Allen discusses in detail how the normative aspirations of Habermasian critical theory need to be recast in light of Foucault's and Butler's account of subjection. This book is original both in its attempt to think of power and autonomy simultaneously and in its effort to bring the work of Foucault and Habermas into a productive dialogue.

Postmodernity, Ethics and the Novel Andrew Gibson, 2002-01-04 In Postmodernity, Ethics and the Novel Andrew Gibson sets out to demonstrate that postmodern theory has actually made possible an ethical discourse around fiction. Each chapter elaborates and discusses a particular aspect of Levinas' thought and raises questions for that thought and its bearing on the novel. It also contains detailed analyses of particular texts. Part of the book's originality is its concentration on a range of modernist and postmodern novels which have seldom, if ever, served as the basis for a larger ethical theory of fiction.

Postmodernity Ethics and the Novel discusses among others the writings of Joseph Conrad Henry James Jane Austen Samuel Beckett Marcel Proust and Salman Rushdie

Between Femininities Marnina Gonick, 2012-02-01 Arguing for a recognition of the contradictory and ambivalent identifications that both attract and repel those who live the social category girl Marnina Gonick analyzes the discourses and practices defining female sexuality embodiment relationship to self and other material culture use of social space and cultural political agency and power Based on a school community project involving collaborative production of a video which tells the stories of several fictional girl characters Gonick examines the contradictory and textured structure of the discourses available to girls through which their identities are negotiated Woven throughout the book is the integral concern with the way in which ethnographic writing as a discursive practice is also implicated in the production and signification of social identities for girls

Decolonizing Feminism Margaret A. McLaren, 2017-09-13 What does it mean to decolonize transnational feminist theory in the context of globalization As a project concerned with multiple power structures feminist theory must address the historical legacies of colonialism postcolonialism and more recently decoloniality This book offers essays organized around a coherent set of research questions about how to conceptualize an inclusive feminist politics This has been and continues to be a central project in feminist theory particularly in light of neoliberal globalization International and interdisciplinary in scope this book introduces the key issues in and addresses the most significant challenges for contemporary transnational feminist politics In the context of rapid globalization it explores the theoretical frameworks for thinking through significant concepts in feminist theory and activism rights citizenship and immigration feminist solidarity decolonizing methodologies and practices and freedom From diverse socio political locations and multiple and interdisciplinary perspectives authors propose new ways of thinking about feminist knowledges methodologies and practices Ideal for students and scholars in Gender and Globalization Transnational Feminism and Feminist Theory more broadly the volume contributes to the ongoing project of advocating a decolonizing feminist approach to pressing social issues

Sacrifice and Modern Thought Julia Meszaros, Johannes Zachhuber, 2013-10-03 Sacrifice has always been central to the study of religion yet attempts to understand and assess the concept have usually been controversial The present book which is the result of several years of interdisciplinary collaboration suggests that in many ways the fascination with sacrifice has its roots in modernity itself Theological developments following the Reformation the rediscovery of Greek tragedies and the encounter with the practice of human sacrifice in the Americas triggered a complex and passionate debate in the sixteenth century which has never since abated Contributors to this volume leading experts from theology anthropology and literary and cultural studies describe and discuss how this modern fascination for the topic of sacrifice has evolved how it has shaped theological debate the literary imagination and anthropological theory Individual chapters discuss in depth major theological trajectories theories of sacrifice including those of Marcel Mauss and Ren Girard and current feminist criticism They engage with sacrifice in the context of religious and philosophical thought works of literature and film They explore different yet overlapping aspects of modernity's obsession with sacrifice The book does not intend to impose a single narrative over all these diverse contributions but brings them into a conversation around a common centre Challenging Democracy Madeleine Arnot, Jo-Anne Dillabough, 2014-02-04 This collection establishes a highly topical new international field of study that of gender education and citizenship It brings together for the first time important cutting edge research on the contribution of the educational system to the formation of male and female citizens It shows how gender relations operate behind apparently neutral concepts of liberal democratic citizenship and citizenship education The editors asked leading international educationalists to describe the theoretical frameworks and methodologies they used to research gender and citizenship Challenging Democracy suggests ways in which the educational system could help develop genuinely inclusive democratic societies in which men and women play an equal role in shaping the meaning of citizenship Judith Butler and Political Theory Samuel Chambers, Terrell Carver, 2008-01-23 Political Theory of Judith Butler proceeds thematically to introduce Butler's basic terms and conceptions before leading the reader through her substantive contributions Beyond Identity Politics Moya Lloyd, 2005-05-20 This book engages with key contemporary issues such as difference identity and subjectivity and their relation to power and politics Moya Lloyd explores feminist conceptions of power patriarchy agency critique and the political relating to subjectivity A History of Bisexuality Steven Angelides, 2001-09-15 Angelides explores the evolution of sexuology revisiting modern epistemological categories of sexuality in psychoanalysis gay liberation social constructionism queer theory biology and human genetics He argues that bisexuality has functioned historically as the structural other to sexual identity itself undermining assumptions about heterosexuality and homosexuality Routledge Handbook of Identity Studies Anthony Elliott, 2012-04-27 The Routledge Handbook of Identity Studies offers an exceptionally clear overview of the analysis of identity in the social sciences and in so doing seeks to develop a new agenda for identity studies in the twenty first century The key theories of identity ranging from classical accounts to postmodern psychoanalytic and feminist approaches are drawn together and critically appraised and there are substantive sections looking at racial ethnic gendered queer consumerist virtual and global identities The Handbook also makes an essential contribution to the debate now opening up over identity politics and its cultural consequences From anti globalization protestors to new ecological warriors from devotees of therapy culture to defenders of international human rights the culture of identity politics is fast redefining the public political sphere What future for politics is there after the turn to identity Throughout there is a strong emphasis on interdisciplinarity with essays covering sociology psychology politics cultural studies and history The Handbook's clear and direct style will appeal to a wide undergraduate audience in the social sciences and humanities Specters of Liberation Martin J. Beck Matustik, Martin Beck Matušík, 1998-03-19 Advocates a new existential and political coalition among critical and postmodern social theorists and among critical gender race and class theorists in dissent from the New World Order to raise specters of liberation and empower radical democratic change Identities and Freedom Allison Weir, 2013-03-01 How can we think about identities in the wake of feminist critiques of identity and identity politics In Identities and Freedom Allison Weir rethinks conceptions of individual and collective identities in relation to freedom Drawing on Taylor and Foucault Butler Zerilli Mahmood Mohanty Young and others Weir develops a complex and nuanced account of identities that takes seriously the ways in which identity categories are bound up with power relations with processes of subjection and exclusion yet argues that identities are also sources of important values and of freedom for they are shaped and sustained by relations of interdependence and solidarity Moving out of the paradox of identity and freedom requires understanding identities as effects of multiple contesting relations of power and relations of interdependence Against Recognition Lois McNay, 2008-02-04 In this book Lois McNay argues that the insights of the recognition theorists are undercut by their reliance on an inadequate account of power Decolonizing Freedom Allison Weir, 2024 Freedom is celebrated as the definitive ideal of modern western civilization Yet in western thought and practice the freedom of some has typically been defined through opposition to the unfreedom of others These exclusions are not secondary to a prior concept of freedom but are constitutive exclusions that have shaped the ways in which western theorists define what freedom is Allison Weir draws on Indigenous political philosophies and practices of decolonization grounded in conceptions of relationality and resurgence in dialogue with western philosophies to reconstruct a tradition of relational freedom as a distinctive political conception of freedom a radically democratic mode of engagement and participation in social and political relations with an infinite range of strange and diverse beings perceived as free agents in interdependent relations in a shared world Through the work of Leanne Betasamosake Simpson John Borrows Glen Coulthard Audra Simpson Rauna Kuokkanen Joanne Barker Jodi Byrd James Tully and many others this book traces a tradition of colonial unknowing in western conceptions of freedom from Hobbes through republican and critical theories and explores a countertradition of relations between freedom and collective love exemplified in Leanne Betasamosake Simpson's love of land and Hannah Arendt's love of the world It considers Indigenous modes of world creation as performative affective embodied strategies of democratic life skilled modes of addressing diversity and conflict fear and hostility in practices of freedom that embrace polycentric knowledges and rooted dynamisms in contexts of complexity and constant change Weir argues that Indigenous women's struggles to belong to communities and participate in governance have engendered new theories of relational rights that combine politics of rights and resurgence and calls for a coalitional politics guided by queer and feminist Indigenous models of transformative resurgence Finally Weir proposes an approach to critical theory as a practice of self transformation through openness to the other oriented toward relational freedom
