Rediscover Shanghai on the Yangzi Delta: : A Historical Dictionary of China's Most Important City, from A to Z. , 2019-02-11 This new book is based on the text from two previous books I wrote about this city Discover Shanghai 2010 and Shanghai and the Yangzi Delta 2004 both issued by the same publisher in Singapore This current project started in October 2017 It was originally intended to be simply a reprint or reissue of the previous volumes without any changes but instead evolved into a more than year long complete update and revision of the text that lasted throughout all of 2018 and on into the Spring Festival of 2019 The new text has been completely updated and revised and is now fully bilingual with both phonetic pinyin and Chinese characters provided for Chinese names of significant people places and events The text begins with an introductory historical narrative in chronological order After that the contents are presented in alphabetical order from A to Z as they were in Discover Shanghai 2010 hence the subtitle A Historical Dictionary of China s Most Important City The Appendix includes a list of Shanghai s mayors and a historical street index which can be used to match the present day street names with the names they had before 1949 There all new photos that have never been published before However the text has become so long that most of the photos will need to be in a separate Volume II This Vol I contains an appendix containing a collection of historic maps of Shanghai

China Briefing's Business Guide to Shanghai & The Yangtze River Delta , 2005 Reshaping Economic Geography in East Asia Yukon

Huang, Alessandro Magnoli Bocchi, 2008-10-15 This companion volume to the World Development Report 2009 comprises twenty papers authored by noted Asian scholars These studies highlight how throughout East Asia spatial considerations have influenced Government policies at the national regional and local levels Key themes include how countries have dealt with 1 agglomeration economies urbanization and regional disparities 2 improving connectivity with infrastructure investments and 3 eliminating barriers across and within countries to favor the movement of labor goods and services Achievements vary widely across countries while some succeeded in enhancing competitiveness and improving social outcomes others are experiencing increasing inequalities and failures to spur growth in disadvantaged areas The book highlights many examples of how the new economic geography is reshaping development objectives from initiatives to foster growth via enhanced agglomeration and improved local connectivity to the world economy to special decentralization programs that channel resources to lagging regions This volume will be of great interest to readers working in the areas of economic policy poverty reduction and urban rural development strategies and transport led infrastructure policy

China's new megaregional structure, new megaregional planning and development, new megaregional governance, and new regional planning system. It draws upon a diversity of megaregional cases: city clusters of the Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei region, Yangtze River delta region, and Greater Bay Area; and metropolitan circles of Chengdu, Hangzhou, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Shenzhen, and Zhengzhou. Megaregions are the new form of Chinese-style urbanisation. China's new discourse of high-quality development and new-type urbanisation is reshaping its megaregional strategy. Imbalance and fragmentation characterise the diversity of megaregions developed or developing, coastal or inland. The central goal of megaregional planning and governance is to achieve integrated, balanced development of them. Hu challenges the official notion of top-level design that dominates the planning, governance, and development of China's megaregions. Instead, he argues for the importance of engaging nongovernmental stakeholders, rebalancing the government-market relationality, encouraging bottom-up initiatives, and enabling grassroots ingenuity. The volume offers the first and most comprehensive study of megaregional China in the new contexts of both national development and urban development. It will be of interest to anyone looking into urban and regional development and Chinese studies.

Business Guide to Shanghai and the Yangtze River Delta, 2003 Urban and Regional Planning and Development Rajiv R. Thakur, Ashok K. Dutt, Sudhir K. Thakur, George M. Pomeroy, 2020-02-10. This book discusses urban planning and regional development practices in the twentieth century and ways in which they are currently being transformed. It addresses questions such as: What are the factors affecting planning dynamics at local, regional, national, and global scales? With the push to adopt a market paradigm in land development and infrastructure, the relationship between resource management, sustainable development, and the role of governance has been transformed. Centralized planning is giving way to privatization, not only in the traditional regions but also in newly emerging regions of Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Further attempts are being made to bring planning-related decision-making closer to the people who are most affected by it. Presenting a collection of studies from scholars around the world and highlighting recent advances in the field, the book is a valuable reference guide for those engaged in urban transformations, whether as graduate students, researchers, practitioners, or policymakers.

China in Transition K. S. Sim, 2003. China is a country in the midst of a transition which is inscrutable to almost all observers. The leadership has changed from the old guard to the new guard with hardly a slip. Capitalism is roaring, but somehow at the same time doesn't exist. The economy is booming in virtually all areas. The military is growing more powerful each year; many industries are at world level, and China is taking more and more steps to join the international community while being sure as she doesn't snuggle up too closely. Still, with a population of 1.3 billion and staggering poverty in the rural areas, making up the vast part of the country, the face of China remains centuries old. Where she goes, nobody knows. This series examines the issues, policies, and progress of China's transition.

Trade and Technology Networks in the Chinese Textile Industry Carles Brasó Broggi, 2016-04-29. The aim of this book is to track the historical origins of China's economic reforms. From the 1920s and 1930s, strong ties were built between Chinese textile industrialists and foreign machinery importers in Shanghai and the Yangzi Delta. Despite the fragmentation of China, the contribution of these networks to the modernization of the country was important and longstanding. Facing the challenge of growing in a fragmented country, Chinese textile firms such as Dafeng, Dacheng, and Lixin focused on urban markets and also on importing technology for upgrading their production. When the war against Japan blocked trade routes inside China, these networks were concentrated in Shanghai, where they envisaged an export-oriented development strategy for China that was based on importing machinery and exporting manufactured products. However, this strategy was only implemented precariously in Shanghai while the city stood as a neutral space in the first years of the Japanese occupation but was only consolidated in Hong Kong in the late 1940s, where textile industrialists and most of the foreign importers migrated. These networks were thus reestablished in Hong Kong, where they contributed to the city's industrialization in the Cold War period. Meanwhile, the Chinese industrialists that stayed in Shanghai and the Yangzi Delta had to adapt to the Maoist regime and were progressively incorporated into the state-owned companies or the local government agencies such as the United Front or the Textile bureaus. However, from the early 1970s, the links between Hong Kong and Shanghai were reactivated, and these networks played again a key role in the modernization of China, especially regarding the imports of technology and exports of manufactured goods. The book ends with the first joint ventures between Hong Kong businessmen and Chinese local administrations that took place in the beginnings of China's economic reforms in 1979.

An Urban History of China Toby Lincoln, 2021-05-20. In this accessible new study, Toby Lincoln offers the first history of Chinese cities from their origins to the present. Despite being an agricultural society for thousands of years, China had an imperial urban civilization. Over the last century, this urban civilization has been transformed into the world's largest modern urban society. Throughout their long history, Chinese cities have been shaped by interactions with those around the world, and the story of urban China is a crucial part of the history of how the world has become an urban society. Exploring the global connections of Chinese cities, the urban system, urban governance, and daily life, alongside introductions to major historical debates and extracts from primary sources, this is essential reading for all those interested in China and in urban history.

China's Urban Space Terry McGee, George C.S. Lin, Mark Wang, Andrew Marton, Jiaping Wu, 2007-10-18. China's urban growth is unparalleled in the history of global urbanization and will undoubtedly create huge challenges to China as it modernizes its society. Adopting an interdisciplinary approach, this book presents an overview of the radical transformation of China's urban space since the 1970s, arguing that to study the Chinese urbanization process, one must recognize the distinctive political economy of China. After a long period as a planned socialist economy, China's rapid entry into the global economy has raised suggestions that modernization in China will inevitably result in urban patterns and features like those of cities in developed market economies. This book argues that this is unlikely in the short term because processes of urban transition in China must be interpreted through the lens of a unique and unprecedented juxtaposition of socialism and the market economy, which is leading to distinctive patterns of Chinese urbanization Richly illustrated with maps diagrams and in depth case studies this book will be an invaluable resource to students and scholars of urban economics and policy geography and the development of China The Connectivity Cooperation Between China and Europe Liu Zuokui,Branislav Đorđević,2022-07-28 This book is the first systematic China based study on connectivity cooperation between China and Europe It is packed with discussion of scholars not just from China but also from Central and Eastern Europe on the origin and paradigm of China European connectivity from a range of different perspectives As a result of intensive coordination efforts the study co edited by the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences and the Institute of International Politics and Economics in Serbia aims at providing analyses of greater links between China and European countries heading into the future Furthermore this Cooperation is used as a special research case to showcase cooperation between China and Europe along with its achievements and challenges This collection of essays is the fruit of extensive transnational efforts and will be a valuable resource for all those working in the areas of International Relations and Political Science with a focus on China and Europe
