The future of humanity is urban and the nature of urban space enables and necessitates sharing of resources goods and services experiences. Yet traditional forms of sharing have been undermined in modern cities by social fragmentation and commercialization of the public realm. In Sharing Cities Duncan McLaren and Julian Agyeman argue that the intersection of cities highly networked physical space with new digital technologies and new mediated forms of sharing offers cities the opportunity to connect smart technology to justice solidarity and sustainability. McLaren and Agyeman explore the opportunities and risks for sustainability solidarity and justice in the changing nature of sharing. McLaren and Agyeman propose a new sharing paradigm which goes beyond the faddish sharing economy seen in such ventures as Uber and TaskRabbit to envision models of sharing that are not always commercial but also communal encouraging trust and collaboration. Detailed case studies of San Francisco Seoul Copenhagen Medellin Amsterdam and Bengaluru formerly Bangalore contextualize the authors' discussions of collaborative consumption and production the shared public realm both physical and virtual the design of sharing to enhance equity and justice and the prospects for scaling up the sharing paradigm through city governance. They show how sharing could shift values and norms enable civic engagement and political activism and rebuild a shared urban commons. Their case for sharing and solidarity offers a powerful alternative for urban futures to conventional race to the bottom narratives of competition enclosure and division. Some Problems in Contracting for Federally Assisted Child-care Services, Social and Rehabilitation Service, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare United States. Provinces Christopher Dunn, 2006-08-01 Provinces is both a study of Canadian provincial government and a review of comparative politics. As such it represents a long overdue return to the comparative tradition with its emphasis on subject specific studies across the country. The chapters in this revised edition of Provinces, each of which has been written for the book by a leading scholar, are arranged according to four major sections: political life, institutions, public administration and public policy, making the book highly suitable for those interested in areas beyond provincial politics. At the same time the adopted comparative approach reveals a wealth of insight into Canadian politics at the beginning of the new millennium. This new edition covers some of the vital concerns of our time: a disquiet about the quality of democracy, concern about women's place in provincial societies, interest in the nature and potential of governance in the north, unease on the question of the fiscal imbalance between all orders of government, a sensitivity to the needs of cities and communities, assessment of the retrenchment of the state and consideration of the policy futures influenced by the changing demography of the provinces. Special Combined Price: Provinces second edition may be ordered together with The Provincial State in Canada: Politics in the Provinces and Territories at a special discounted price. In order to secure the package price the following ISBN must be used when ordering: 978 1 55402 587 9. Entering the 21st Century, 1996 Who Will Mind the Baby? Kim

England, 2005-08-12 One of the most significant social and economic changes of recent years has been the explosion in the number of mothers in the work place and in paid employment generally. Child care policy provision and funding has in no way kept up with this change. Who Will Mind the Baby? explores how working mothers negotiate their responsibilities in the face of these difficulties. The book contrasts the limited child care policies of the United States and Canada with the more advanced situation in Europe and Australia, focusing in particular on the coping strategies of working mothers. Primary Care and Public Health Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on Integrating Primary Care and Public Health, 2012-07-19 Ensuring that members of society are healthy and reaching their full potential requires the prevention of disease and injury, the promotion of health and well being, the assurance of conditions in which people can be healthy, and the provision of timely, effective and coordinated health care. Achieving substantial and lasting improvements in population health will require a concerted effort from all these entities aligned with a common goal. The Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) requested that the Institute of Medicine (IOM) examine the integration of primary care and public health. Primary Care and Public Health identifies the best examples of effective public health and primary care integration and the factors that promote and sustain these efforts. It examines ways by which HRSA and CDC can use provisions of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act to promote the integration of primary care and public health and discusses how HRSA supported primary care systems and state and local public health departments can effectively integrate and coordinate to improve efforts directed at disease prevention. This report is essential for all health care centers and providers state and local policy makers educators government agencies and the public for learning how to integrate and improve population health

The Transformation of Children's Services

Joan Forbes, Cate Watson, 2011-10-03 Can we imagine different ways of working together to secure better outcomes for children and families What are the complex issues that underlie the apparently simple call for joined up services Children's services in many countries around the world are being transformed as part of the call for joined up working for joined up solutions Social health and educational policy discourses are driven by the idea that effective inter professional interagency collaboration is crucial in determining whether service delivery to children and families will succeed or fail However the rapid turn from previous inter professional practices of liaison consultancy cooperation and collaboration to more radical and wholesale service integration and sector transformation has not been accompanied either by a well considered research agenda of hard questions nor close scrutiny of its effects and consequences The book asks a series of searching and challenging questions What are the complex issues involved in children's sector transformation for all those involved young people practitioners leaders and managers policy makers How can the silos in which professionals have traditionally been prepared for practice be broken down What are the orthodoxies that surround joined up working and in what ways should they be challenged Written by authors from across the wide range of professional policy and disciplinary groups involved in this new cross cutting area of policy and practice this book provides a critical analysis of the complexities of children's services transformations The research in this collection addresses the range of discursive policy and organizational developments associated with the transformation of children's services providing an important and timely analysis of their complexities and is essential reading for all those working in the complex spaces of children's services
