

What is the CIM?

- A Unified Modeling Language (UML) based information model representing real-world objects and information entities exchanged within the value chain of the electric power industry
  - Maintained by IEC in the Sparx Enterprise Architect modeling tool
- Enable integration of applications/systems
  - Provides a common model behind all messages exchanged between systems
  - Basis for defining information exchange models
- Enable data access in a standard way
  - Common language to navigate and access complex data structures in any database
    - Provides a hierarchical view of data for browsing and access with no knowledge of actual logical schema
  - Inspiration for logical data schemas (e.g., for an operational data store)
- Not tied to a particular application's view of the world
  - But permits same model to be used by all applications to facilitate information sharing between applications

Sharing Cim Solutions:

Sharing CIM Solutions Jørgen K. H. Knudsen, J. K. H. Knudsen, P. MacConaill, J. Bastos, 1994 This work is the result of the proceedings of the 10th Annual Conference 94 ESPRIT CIM Europe It reports on the results in development and implementation of CIM technologies The key technologies which are being developed and the results emerging from the collaborative projects have contributed to the establishment of an integrative approach to manufacturing problems which embraces engineering logistics process automation business functions organizational and environmental concerns

Sharing CIM Solutions Joergen K. H. Knudsen, 1994      Holonic and Multi-Agent Systems for Manufacturing Vladimír Mařík, Pavel Vrba, Paulo Leitão, 2011-08-19 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 5th International Conference on Industrial Applications of Holonic and Multi Agent Systems HoloMAS 2011 held in Toulouse France August 29 31 2011 The 25 revised full papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from 36 submissions The papers are organized in topical sections on industrial agents simulation and modelling planning and scheduling smart technical systems and MAS for unmanned aerial vehicles      IT and Manufacturing Partnerships Jimmie Browne, Ramón Haendler Mas, O. Hlodversson, 1996 The theme of this book is the development of partnerships between manufacturing companies their suppliers and customers and the facilitating of these partnerships by information technology and telecommunications In the 1980s the emphasis in manufacturing was on integration within the four walls of the manufacturing plant The main issues facing researchers and industrial practitioners at the time were CAD CAM integration integration of production planning and control systems the development of sophisticated computer driven manufacturing assembly and testing systems and their control through sophisticated shop floor control systems Today the emphasis has moved towards supply chain management integration of the supply chain through Electronic Data Interchange EDI and Just in Time JIT or Quick Response approaches and customer driven manufacturing This includes the integration of manufacturing and distribution logistics planning and control systems Consequently success for manufacturing companies in the 1990s requires closer collaboration with customers suppliers and distributors than in the past Information Technology and the emergence of a powerful global information infrastructure enable manufacturing industries throughout Europe to develop collaborative partnership across the value chain Successful collaboration is achieved by the sharing of information at all phases of the business cycle across the supply chain and across national and international boundaries The need to collaborate across the supply chain has particular consequences for small and medium sized manufacturing SMEs companies many of whom are compared and subassembly suppliers to the larger companies Indeed the collaboration between supplier SMEs and their large customers has in many cases gone beyond JIT supply of components based on orders delivered processed and frequently paid for using EDI technology and now extends to joint design and engineering activity Collaboration between manufacturing companies across the supply chain is therefore placing increasing pressure on the developers of the global information superhighway and on the developers of CAD and other engineering software to ensure compliance with emerging standards such as STEP in order to allow intercompany collaboration These are the issues which form the background of this book The book is aimed at those researchers and industrial practitioners interested in learning about recent progress in manufacturing systems research and application Mature results emerging from the ESPRIT IiM programme are presented Readers Manufacturing managers an engineers Quality process engineers IT suppliers vendors Academic researchers Technology transfer centres and Industrial associations

Information Infrastructure and Policy, 1995. Creating Business Value with Information Technology: Challenges and Solutions Shin, Namchul, 2002-07-01. Questions on the business value of information technology (IT) which have been raised by managers and researchers for the last decade are not settled yet. Firms invest in IT to improve their business performance. However, some firms fail to improve their business performance while others succeed. The overall value of IT varies enormously from firm to firm. Computerization does not automatically create business value, but it is one essential component that should be coupled with organizational changes such as new strategies, new business processes, and new organizational structure. Creating Business Value with Information Technology: Challenges and Solutions aims to solicit the studies that yield significant new insights into the business value of IT.
