Had Power (Nothing is Promised 1) Susan Kaye Quinn,2020-11-24 For better for worse In sickness and in health It s a legal vow of care for families in 2050 a world beset by waves of climate driven plagues Power engineer Luc a Ramirez long ago lost her family to one she d give anything to take that vow The Power Islands give humanity a fighting chance but tending kelp farms and solar lilies is a lonely job The housing AI found her a family match saying she should fit right in with the Senegalese retraining expert who s a force of nature the ex Pandemic Corps cook with his own cozy channel and even the writer who insists everything is stories all the way down This family of literal and metaphorical refugees could be the shelter she s seeking from her own personal storm She needs this one to work Then an unscheduled power outage and a missing turtle bot crack open a mystery Something isn t right on Power Island One but every step she takes to solve it someone else gets there first and they're determined to make her see what she's seen. Luc is an engineer, not a detective, but fixing this problem might cost her the one thing she truly needs: a home.

You Had Power is the first of four tightly connected solarpunk novels in a near future climate fiction series. It's about our future: how society will shift and flex like a solar lily in the storms of our own making and how breaks in the social fabric have to be expected, tended to, and healed. Because we're in this together now more than ever before. If you enjoyed the optimistic climate solutions in Kim Stanley Robinson's Ministry for the Future or the cozy cooperative future in Becky Chambers' Monk and Robot series, you will enjoy Nothing is Promised.

Keywords: hopepunk, climate fiction, Puerto Rico, Puerto Rican, Latino, Hispanic, solarpunk, climate change, climate crisis, solar energy, green energy, clean energy, global warming, pandemic, plague, underwater adventure, kelp farming, fusion engineering, wind energy, literary science fiction, mystery, suspense, hard science fiction, dystopian, heroine's journey.

Another Life Ilya Trifonov, 1999. Beyond their acute depiction of life in the Soviet Union, Yuri Trifonov's novellas offer an extraordinarily rich literary encounter in the tradition of great nineteenth-century Russian writing. Another Life is the story of Olga, a woman suddenly widowed and attempting to grasp the memory of her brilliant, erratic husband and to understand their life together. Possessed with a passion for truth, able to appreciate how the past affects the present, he could not hope to flourish in a society where intrigue and moral compromise were the norm. A sharp satirical portrait of an academic opportunist, The House on the Embankment is paradoxically laced with compassion and humor. Vadim Alexandrovich Glebov rises from shabby origins to become an apparatchik; yet in so doing, suffers his share of oppression from society, from former friends, and most significantly from his total inability to make decisions.

Book Jacket: When He Came Home Roxanne Rustand, 2012-04-01. Dr. Jill Edwards's husband has come home to Blackberry Hill, just not home to her. Jill and Grant have been separated for over a year now, and while both agree it was for the best, neither has quite been able to start official divorce proceedings. Just knowing Grant is back in town is confusing and painful, and dare she say it hopeful. Grant returns to Blackberry Hill with plenty of reservations. With his father in the hospital, Grant is left to pick up the pieces of his law practice. And his marriage? Grant fears those pieces are scattered too far to be reassembled. And yet he can't seem to stay away from Jill. It's a vicious cycle that he can't break until one night changes everything.

Love in an Elevator Holly Day, 2022-07-23. Hayden Perry moved to Landown two and a half weeks ago. He was excited to get the event planning job he'd applied for, but apart from bumping into a cute guy in the elevator, things don't pan out the way he'd hoped. His boss is an ass, and his co-workers are idiots, but as much as he dislikes them, he can't afford to quit until he has another job lined up. Corey Hope's school years sucked. With a crippling stutter, he was easy prey, and despite being grown up, his bullies still haunt his nightmares. After he left school, he gave up on trying to talk and communicates solely through sign language and written text. It works great, even though he wished he could say something when Hayden flirts with him in the elevator. Hayden does his best to catch Corey in the elevator as often as he can, and he thinks they might have something, but it all comes crashing down when Corey sees him.

having lunch with his colleagues Corey might be drawn to Hayden but seeing him with his school bullies has old memories washing over him He won't let them hurt him ever again and he'd rather forget about Hayden than risk Hayden hurting him How will Hayden convince Corey he's nothing like his colleagues when Corey refuses to see him T Singer Dag Solstad, 2018-05-29 Solstad doesn't write to please other people Do exactly what you want that's my idea the drama exists in his voice Lydia Davis T Singer begins with thirty-four-year-old Singer graduating from library school and traveling by train from Oslo to the small town of Notodden located in the mountainous Telemark region of Norway There he plans to begin a deliberately anonymous life as a librarian But Singer unexpectedly falls in love with the ceramicist Merete Saethre who has a young daughter from a previous relationship After a few years together the couple is on the verge of separating when a car accident prompts a dramatic change in Singer's life The narrator of the novel specifically states that this is not a happy story yet as in all of Dag Solstad's works the prose is marked by an unforgettable combination of humor and darkness Overall T Singer marks a departure more explicitly existential than any of Solstad's previous works Beat Not the Bones Charlotte Jay, 2012-07 People changed they were no longer recognisable as Australians Frustrations and misfortunes festered into wounds here deranged the mind and poisoned the blood Suicide or murder Newly arrived in Papua where even the luscious vegetation conspires with the bureaucrats to bewilder her Stella Warwick is determined to prove her husband did not take his own life Defying the patronising concern of officials she ventures deep into the jungle striding ever closer to the horrifying heart of the mystery Blowing Feathers Jo Ann Hansen Rasch, 2008-01-01 Red Geraniums Sally Salisbury Stoddard, 2013-03-08 After the funerals Kate MacLean knelt in front of a small chest of drawers in the attic She pulled out the bottom drawer to find the photograph of Gyorgy taken in her studio in Tingle Creek The picture of the handsome Gypsy reminded her of things past of the people she had known and loved of hopes dashed and dreams denied She thought of the country school where she had taught of her life in town as a studio photographer of the phone call from Henry Fergus which led her to a life as a farm wife and mother of three children not her own She sighed If only she had used the camera to photograph dear Henry and his adopted son Will his hired boy Hjelmer and finally Margaret who came to them from the Orphan Train Kate sighed again and closed the drawer From a forlorn Gypsy cemetery to a crescendo of sudden death this is a tale of an early 1900s woman a studio photographer and farm wife with a family not her own The rhythm of life awaits a reader Joe Vosoba Author of Tales of the Czechs
