Sheaves Of Silence:

The Rainbow David Herbert Lawrence, 2022-07-20 David Herbert Lawrence's The Rainbow is a pioneering exploration of human sexuality and the intricacies of relationships set against the backdrop of early 20th century England. Written in Lawrence's signature modernist style, the novel intertwines lyrical prose with rich symbolism, revealing the emotional and spiritual depths of its characters. Through the lives of three generations of the Brangwen family, the narrative delves into themes of individuality, love, and the clash between tradition and modernity, ultimately portraying the tension between personal desires and societal expectations. The seamless flow of the narrative invites readers into the vivid tapestry of rural life, challenging conventional moralities of the time. David Herbert Lawrence was an influential figure of the early 20th century, known for his candid examinations of human psychology and sexuality. Born in 1885 in the industrial Midlands of England, Lawrence's own experiences shaped his views on relationships and social structures. His observation of the rapidly changing world around him, coupled with his interest in psychosexual dynamics, provided fertile ground for the themes explored in The Rainbow, which was initially met with controversy due to its frank portrayal of sexual relationships. Highly recommended for readers interested in modernist literature, The Rainbow offers profound insights into the complexities of love and identity, making it a timeless study of human experience. Lawrence's novel challenges readers to reflect on their own lives and relationships, making it an essential read for those curious about the intersection of art, sexuality, and societal norms.

Becket, 2015-12-17 D. H. Lawrence The Thinker as Poet addresses a particular body of language and thought within Lawrence's oeuvre where the metaphorical, the poetic and the philosophical are intricately enmeshed. Lawrence emerges as a writer who pulls metaphor away from its merely rhetorical moorings; his distinctive style is the hallmark of one who thinks not analytically but poetically about the birth of the self, the body, unconscious complex kinds of otherness and about metaphor itself as a mode of understanding. The Solipsism of Modern Fiction Harold Kaplan, 2017-07-05 In The Solipsism of Modern Fiction Harold Kaplan deals with the problem of action and its adequate motive in the modern novel. In the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, modern scientific knowledge abandoned the human-centred view of the universe and thus the fictional modes that had been rooted in religion or myth. The result for fiction was a radical skepticism on the part of the protagonist who now appeared as a reflective, self-critical, passive figure lacking the dynamism of the epic hero or religious seeker. One response to the scientific worldview was the naturalism of Zola and his followers in which the action of characters is determined by social or biological forces. Kaplan, however, focuses his study on such novelists as Flaubert, Joyce, Conrad, Faulkner, Lawrence and Hemingway who dramatised the isolated individual consciousness in contention with the world and with the ambiguity of their own motivations. The Solipsism of Modern Fiction deals with several related topics that grow from one source: the crisis of knowledge in modern intellectual history; the effects of solipsism and of moral passivity; the split consciousness that divides action and understanding; the perspectives of primitive naturalism and stoic naturalism; the variations of the comic mood and the example of tragedy. All these themes are dramatised in Kaplan's readings of Madame Bovary, Light in August, Ulysses, Lord Jim and other exemplary modern novels that associate themselves with the problem of self-criticism, knowing and acting. Written by one of the outstanding literary scholars of our time, this book will inspire new generations of readers and writers. English Fiction of the Early Modern Period Douglas Hewitt, 2014-05-22 This is an ambitious and fascinating analysis of early twentieth-century English literature from Kipling, Conrad, Lawrence and Forster through figures like Joyce and Woolf to writers such as Evelyn Waugh. There are chapters on the younger writers of the age as well as the more popular minor writers like Buchan and Dornford Yates. Look! We Have Come Through! Lara Feigel, 2022-08-18 Her intensity and intimacy are engaging. Blake Morrison, Guardian. A lovely, urgent, serious book. Tessa Hadley, Refreshing and unexpected. Daisy Hay, Financial Times. Brilliantly interweaving literary criticism, biography and memoir. Look! We Have Come Through! is a captivating exhumation of an author and a compelling manifesto for exposing ourselves to difficult and dangerous views. Lara Feigel listens to birds outside her window, their circling, strident calls, and thinks of D. H. Lawrence. It is the spring of 2020 and as the pandemic takes hold, she locks down in rural Oxfordshire.

with her partner her two children and that most explosive of writers Proceeding month by month through the year she sets out to start again with Lawrence to find vital literary companionship to use him as a guide to rural living and even unexpectedly to child rearing to find a way through his writing to excavate the modern world she feels he helped bring into being Tracing the arc of Lawrence's life and delving deep into his writings she confronts his anger his passion his tumultuous vitality In the process she faces some of today's most urgent dilemmas from secular religion to the climate crisis from sex and sexuality to feminism's ideas about motherhood And as she watches the seasons change alongside Lawrence Feigel finds the rhythms of her own life shifting in unexpected ways

Time and the Novel Patricia Drechsel Tobin, 2015-03-08 Formalist criticism of the modern novel has concentrated on its spatial aspects Patricia Tobin focuses instead on the modern novel's temporal structure She notes that the genealogical imperative that dominated the nineteenth century novel in which one event gave birth to another has broken down in the twentieth century novels she studies Further she draws parallels between this collapse of linear narrative and the current challenge to linearity from many other areas of modern thought Beginning with Mann's Buddenbrooks as a family chronicle novel that fully embodies the classical genealogical structure the author extends her analysis to include distortions of the linear perspective in Lawrence's The Rainbow Faulkner's Absalom Absalom Nabokov's Invitation to a Beheading and Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude She finds that in these novels about family relationships the continuity of time family and story has dissolved so that past present and future have lost their distinctions sins against the dynastic family are not only recognized but celebrated and literary and existential meanings are suspended in unlikely juxtapositions irrational metamorphoses and proliferating possibilities Professor Tobin suggests that the disappearance of the genealogical imperative in the contemporary world's sense of reality may account for much of what appears to be anonymous peripheral and excessive in post modern fiction Originally published in 1979 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
