Ghana International Monetary Fund,2005-08-15 This 2005 Article IV Consultation highlights that economic performance in Ghana has improved since 2000 with the economy growing at its fastest pace in more than a decade In 2004 real GDP growth reached 5.8 percent driven by agriculture and a strong pickup in the services and construction sectors helped by increased bank credit and private inward remittances. Ghana's medium term prospects appear promising with growth projected to continue at the current relatively high rate provided that macroeconomic stability becomes further entrenched with fiscal sustainability, inflation declines further and the government perseveres with structural reform. Nigeria International Monetary Fund, 2007-07-31. This paper examines Nigeria's Third Review Under the Policy Support Instrument. Robust growth, lower inflation, a dramatic decline in debt and an accumulation of significant reserves are among the notable economic achievements. It will be important to consolidate and institutionalize these gains as the foundations for sustained and improved economic performance. Non-oil growth accelerated and its prospects are promising. Inflation remained in line with the single digit program target owing to a likely increase in confidence and money demand. Black Enterprise, 2000-11.
