The Four Ends of the Greek Hyperinflation of 1941-1946 Michael R. Palairet, 2000 Places emphasis on policy decision making in Greece in the 1940s which resulted in an extraordinary long fifty months hyperinflation Throughout the entire period the government of Greece was financed mainly from seigniorage and barely at all from fiscal taxation The author asks how this was contrived over so long a period without destroying the tax base afforded by the transactions demanded for flat money The book is however far more than an extended analysis of monetary economics Rather it explores the history and structural basis for the policies pursued by the occupation and liberation governments of Greece and their interactions with the policies of the Axis and later British authorities For sources the work draws heavily not only on the existing literature but also on the Bank of England and British Treasury papers of the period Dr Michael Palairet is a lecturer at Department of Economic and Social History University of Edinburgh The Report: Papua New Guinea 2014 Oxford , Business Group, 2014-09-04 Papua New Guinea is poised for change as the country's mineral riches are providing a major opportunity for economic development through the exploitation of natural resources The government s five year strategic plan focuses on key development enablers such as free education improvements to health services the strengthening of law and order rural development projects and infrastructure construction Inward investment has increasingly been driven by the extractive sector including oil and gas whose share of the country's total investment stock rose from 71% to 87% between 2004 and 2012 Statistics from the Investment Promotion Authority reveal that the largest share of new foreign direct investment in 2013 some 24 6% targeted the construction sector outpacing that in financial services manufacturing and mining which accounted for 19 8% 18 1% and 10 9% respectively While minerals and hydrocarbons dominate exports around 85% of the country's population is employed in the agriculture sector. The start of liquefied natural gas exports in 2014 is expected to return the current account to a surplus in 2015 forecast as high as 12 1% of GDP before returning to 9 1% the following year While the outlook for state revenues remains strong in the medium term ensuring the sustainability of further spending increases will be key to preserving macroeconomic stability New Society ,1970 Congressional Record United States.
