Monitoring Educational Performance In The Caribbean:

Monitoring Educational Performance in the Caribbean Emanuela Di Gropello, 2003 Annotation This study represents a first attempt of providing a comprehensive quantification of educational outcomes in the Caribbean region Monitoring Educational Performance in the Caribbean Emanuela Di Gropello, 2003-01-01 This study represents a first attempt of providing a comprehensive quantification of educational outcomes in the Caribbean region Its main objectives are a to define a set of operationally relevant education indicators b to provide a database of comparable education indicators in Caribbean countries where data is available namely Belize Dominica Dominican Republic Grenada Guyana Jamaica St Kitts and Nevis St Lucia St Vincent and the Grenadines and Trinidad and Tobago and c to propose methods on how the common set of indicators can be used for analyses of the education sectors This exercise is all the more important within the framework of the current Education For All EFA and Millenium Development Goals MDGs initiatives which require the identification and monitoring of relevant indicators to establish where the countries stand in relation to the target of universal primary education After a systematic review of educational indicators in coverage efficiency and quality which leads to specific recommendations on the type of indicator relevant to operational diagnostics of the education sectors the study provides a detailed review of the Caribbean status in producing education indicators and demonstrates how a new database can be used to depict where the education sectors stand Building on these methods and findings its final section presents a set of specific recommendations to the Caribbean countries on how to improve the diagnostics of their education sectors Monitoring Educational Performance in the Caribbean Weltbank, 2013 The study seeks to define a set of operationally relevant education indicators to be used by countries in the Caribbean region to provide a database of comparable education indicators in Caribbean countries where data is available namely Belize Dominica Dominican Republic Grenada Guyana Jamaica St Kitts and Nevis St Lucia St Vincent and the Grenadines and Trinidad and Tobago and to propose methods on how the common set of indicators can be used for analyses of the education sectors Following the introduction under Section I which addresses the current deficiencies in the Caribbean education system Section II defines operationally relevant education indicators in the areas of coverage efficiency and quality In these areas enrollment ratios should be complemented with grade specific indicators efficiency complemented with a cost effectiveness analysis and quality with a variety of standardized tests Monitoring of education indicators in the Caribbean Region is then reviewed in Section III stipulating that despite a traditional limited availability of education statistics and indicators there has recently been substantial efforts both at national and regional levels to improve data collection The new indicator database on ten Caribbean Countries describes and analyzes updated indicators so as to balance diagnostics of the education sectors relevant to policy decisions and ensures comparability to all countries based on country syntheses and cross country comparison Finally Section IV provides policy recommendations that include the need to measure the coverage and efficiency of the entire education cycle to produce and use grade specific indicators such as the completion and survival rates to harmonize education statistics and indicators to improve reporting and monitoring in a systematic way and to participate in international exams to make meaningful comparison of learning outcomes and produce qualitative indicators

Monitoring Educational Performance in the Caribbean, 19?? School and Work in the Eastern Caribbean Andreas Blom, Cynthia Hobbs, 2008-01-01 This book reviews current education and skills training options in the Eastern Caribbean and asks whether the prevailing education policies adequately prepare youth for the global economy It provides in depth analysis and relevant international cutting edge practices to guide policymakers educators and private sector leaders in fostering a creative productive and well paid workforce Specifically it makes the case for why the OECS education and training systems need to be more responsive to changing labor market demands in the region and discusses how this could be achieved taking into c

Research on the Influences of Educational Policy on Teaching and Learning Cynthia S Sunal, Kagendo Mutua, 2013-07-01 The 14 chapters in this book address education policy as it is being implemented in three world regions Africa the Caribbean and the Middle East The diverse authors utilize original local data interpreting it to describe policy development and implementation across a range of nations who share commonalities but also differences The chapters begin with the premise that policy must respond to the needs of the citizenry and to the challenges faced by each society internally as well as globally Meeting the challenge of frequently competing existing needs while addressing educational development to prepare for future needs is an ongoing task for policymakers The researchers authoring the book s chapters are aware of competing challenges and of the need for frequent revision of educational policy as well as continuing support for its implementation They base their conclusions and the implications offered on the data while taking into account the culture within which successful and appropriate policy must be implemented The implications have relevance for any society in the world as diversity exists everywhere so all societies are experiencing challenges generated by our interdependence with each other

The Road to Sustained Growth in Jamaica World Bank, 2004 Despite having a number of potential attributes such as being English speaking having poverty levels below that of comparable countries and a reasonably well educated labour force Jamaicas economic history is marked by the paradoxes of low growth in GDP and high employment despite high investment and important achievements in poverty reduction This publication seeks to examines these issues and topics discussed include poverty reduction and income inequality whether Jamaicas GDP growth has been underestimated policy options for reducing the fiscal and debt burden revitalising the financial system improving education outcomes tackling the economic costs of crime and improving international competitiveness

Secondary School External Examination Systems Barend Vlaardingerbroek, Neil Taylor, 2009 Summative assessment has been a contentious issue in educational circles for several decades particularly high stakes assessment events which arise at various junctures of the school cycle especially those at the end of it The French Baccalaureat and English A Levels and their numerous clones throughout the francophone and anglophone worlds are household names and represent milestone events in people's lives as their outcomes are principal determinants of young people's future prospects. These examinations are external; they are devised, conducted and processed by agencies outside the schools, usually ministerial examination units. As such, they act as blind arbiters of student achievement, providing the proverbial level playing field which ensures the comparability of outcomes. In the pyramidal school structures of yesteryear, examinations acted as filters regulating the progression of pupils to subsequent tiers of formal education. Exit points occurred from primary school level up from where unsuccessful candidates could enter the labour force and/or embark on occupationally specific further education and training. With the modernisation of the labour market and an ever higher social demand for access to higher levels of formal education, the filtering function of examinations at lower levels of schooling has been gradually eroded, while burgeoning numbers of students at the upper secondary level have brought about reforms that include curricular diversification and sometimes radical overhauls of terminating assessment systems, including the modification and in some instances abandonment of external examinations. This edited volume brings together the experiences of twenty examination systems from around the world to show how these dynamic entities have adapted over time to the changing context of schooling. Following an introduction by Stephen P. Heyneman of World Bank repute, there are sixteen chapters presenting Country Case Studies which have been written up under common subheadings, thereby highlighting the comparative nature of the work and facilitating cross referencing. The subsequent four chapters elaborate on the theme of external examinations beyond national borders, including a contribution by the International Baccalaureate Organisation. A defining feature of the work is the attention it pays to what it calls the nuts and bolts of external examinations, from question setting to grading procedures. These are, it is argued, instrumental in nurturing and maintaining public confidence in external examinations. The book will be of immense value to people involved in educational policy studies, especially strategic educational planning, as well as those directly concerned with formal assessment. The work has been written to appeal to a wide audience of informed persons; it is accessible to teachers and interested laypeople as well as to academics.

Handbook of Father Involvement Natasha J. Cabrera, Catherine S. Tamis-LeMonda, 2012-12-06. This book brings together experts from diverse scientific disciplines who share an interest in the topic of father involvement. Unlike most books in the field which tend to solely draw from a psychological perspective, this Handbook merges theories and research from the unique fields of psychology, economics, demography, sociology, anthropology and social policy. For the most part, research on fathering is motivated by concern for children's well-being. Social scientists share a core set of questions including: Who are fathers? What is father involvement and how does it affect children and families? What are the determinants of father involvement? How do cultural contexts shape fathers' roles in families? This Handbook sheds light on how a cross-disciplinary approach to the study of fathering can advance knowledge about these fundamental questions. This integrative approach is fundamental to a comprehensive understanding of human development generally and to fathering more specifically At the core of this book are the goals of describing and understanding the nature antecedents and consequences of father involvement across biological status family structure culture and stages in children s development both within and across scientific boundaries Each of the scientific disciplines represented offers unique methodological and theoretical approaches to the study of fathering and to the interpretation of behavioral patterns that characterize ecological systems that include as well as extend beyond family units Together the chapters offer provocative and challenging insight into the nature and meaning of fatherhood and father involvement by questioning longstanding assumptions about fathers roles in the lives of families and children in current history

Crosscurrents and Crosscutting Themes Kagendo Mutua,Cynthia S Sunal,2006-08-01 In this Third Volume of the series Research on Education in Africa the Caribbean and the Middle East the volume continues with the previously established overarching purpose of publishing chapters that are based upon research conducted in those regions by scholars many of whom are indigenous to the regions they write about and are therefore able to provide cultural insights about relevant issues as well as nonindigenous scholars who have conducted their studies in countries within the regions or about those regions This mixture of indigenous scholarship offering emic perspectives and outside scholarship offering etic perspectives continues to be a relative strength and uniqueness of this book series In addition several chapters in the current volume constitute collaborations between the authors etic and emic to the contexts about which they write This bifocality in the gaze cast upon issues covered in this book series has been well received by readers of earlier volumes of the series
