The Later Novels of Victor Hugo Kathryn M. Grossman, 2012-03-29 This study places the last three novels of Victor Hugo's maturity Les Travailleurs de la mer 1866, L'Homme qui rit 1869 and Quatrevingt-Treize 1874 within the context of his artistic development after the success of Les Misérables 1862. By situating these historical narratives in relation to each other to all of Hugo's previous fiction and to a number of poetic and critical works published in exile and in the initial years of the Third Republic, it illuminates the final structural and thematic shifts from a poetics of harmony to one of transcendence. As in Les Misérables, the disharmony associated with social tumult, apocalyptic vision and oxymoronic tensions provides an essential component of the later Hugo's Romantic sublime. Instead of merely capitalizing on the runaway success of Les Misérables by recycling its prominent features, however, each novel makes an original contribution to the political and aesthetic trajectory inscribed by the entire oeuvre. Each testifies as well to the wizardry of Hugo's own special effects that contribute to his storytelling genius. Such effects, especially the dizzying spatial optics and manipulation of temporal dimensions, function not as mere playful gimmicks or novelistic flourishes but as strategies for figuring and communicating the ideal, both political and artistic. The unique interplay of poetic and historical discourse in each text reconfigures our disordered experience of the world into something far more coherent, a construction of meaning that strives to change perceptions and to promote social action.
