Monstrous Liminality Robert G. Beghetto, 2022-01-24 This book examines the transformation of the figure of the stranger in the literature of the modern age in terms of liminality. As a spectral monster that has a paradoxical and liminal relationship to both the sacred and the secular, the figure of the modern stranger has played a role in both adapting and shaping a culturally determined understanding of the self and the other. With the advent of modernity, the stranger, the monster, and the spectre became interconnected. Haunting the edges of reason while also being absorbed into normal society, all three together with the cyborg manifest the vulnerability of an age that is fearful of the return of the repressed. Yet these figures can also become re-appropriated as positive symbols able to navigate between the dangerous and chaotic elements that threaten society while serving as precarious and ironic symbols of hope or sustainability. The book shows the explanatory potential of focusing on the resacralizing in a paradoxical and liminal manner of traditionally sacred concepts such as messianic time and the utopian and the conflicts that emerged as a result of secularized modernity's denial of its own hybridization. This approach to modern literature shows how the modern stranger, a figure that is both paradoxically immersed and removed from society, deals with the dangers of failing to be re-assimilated into mainstream society and is caught in a fixed or permanent state of liminality, a state that can ultimately lead to boredom, alienation, nihilism, and failure. These monstrous aspects of liminality can also be rewarding in that traversing difficult and paradoxical avenues, they confront both traditional and contemporary viewpoints.

enabling new and fresh perspectives suspended between imagination and reality past and future nature and artificial In many ways the modern stranger as a figure of literature and the cultural imagination has become more complicated and challenging in the post modern contemporary age both clashing with and encompassing people who go beyond simply the psychological or even spiritual inability to blend in and out of society However while the stranger may be altering once again the defining or essentializing the figure could result in the creation of other sets of binaries and thereby dissolve the purpose and productiveness of both strangeness and liminality The intention of Monstrous Liminality is to trace the liminal sphere located between the secular and sacred that has characterized modernity itself This space has consequently altered the makeup of the stranger from something external into a figure far more liminal which is forced to traverse this uncanny space in an attempt to find new meanings for an age that is struggling to maintain any

Appealing to Monster Theory and the ancient Near Eastern motif of Chaoscampf Safwat Marzouk argues that the paradoxical character of the category of the monster is what prompts the portrayal of Egypt as a monster in the book of Ezekiel While on the surface the monster seems to embody utter difference underlying its otherness there is a disturbing sameness Though the monster may be defeated and its body dismembered it is never completely annihilated Egypt is portrayed as a monster in the book of Ezekiel because Egypt represents the threat of religious assimilation Although initially the monstrosity of Egypt is constructed because of the shared elements of identity between Egypt and Israel the prophet flips this imagery of monster in order to embody Egypt as a monstrous Other In a combat myth YHWH defeats the monster and dismembers its body Despite its near annihilation Egypt in Ezekiel s rhetoric is not entirely obliterated Rather it is kept at bay hovering at the periphery questioning Israel s identity      CliffsNotes on Brontë's Jane Eyre Mary Ellen Snodgrass, Karin Jacobson, 2004-10-28 The
