Danver, 2015-03-10 This work examines the world's indigenous peoples their cultures the countries in which they reside and the issues that impact these groups Pokot Masculinity Kjartan Jónsson, 2006 How is masculinity formed and transmitted between generations among the Pokot people in Kenya and what are the most important male values The author Kjartan Jónsson lived and worked among the Pokot people for more than 11 years as a pastor and researched their life and religion especially the rituals men go through from birth to death The initiation rituals are the most important particularly circumcision as the initiates stay in special circumcision camps for up to three and a half months with mature men who teach them how men should live and the values of the Pokot male society Rituals often reflect the importance of cattle in the life of the Pokot people as cattle are the chief form of wealth and also serve as ritual sacrifices A rich man can afford to have many wives and children who serve as an important labour force tending to the man's wealth All this gives him power and respect in society Pokot men finally have one goal to prolong their lives as ancestral spirits which is only possible if they have sons who provide them with progeny for which they become guardian spirits The author's material on the Pokot people is put into the context of African traditional religion and theories of anthropology and science of religions about rituals Kenya's Independence Constitution Robert M. Maxon, 2011-04-01 Kenya's Independence Constitution Making and End of Empire is a narrative of the evolution of the constitution that was put into effect as Kenya's history as a colonial possession came to an end It details the attempts of the colony's political elite and the British Colonial Office to find a constitutional means to move Kenya to the status of independent state As this process moved forward political ethnicity assumed central significance This produced an environment in which demands for a federal constitution popularly termed majimbo came to dominate constitutional discourse Deep disagreement among Kenya's political elite over this issue marked the remainder of the colonial period That elite now represented by the Kenya African National Union KANU and the Kenya African Democratic Union KADU advocated different constitutional paths to independence KADU's demands for a majimbo constitution dominated discourse during 1962 and early 1963 but deep disagreement characterized the constitutional negotiations This resulted in a constitution for self government introduced on June 1 1963 that was regional in character but fell short of a federal system Almost as soon as it came into existence this constitution faced pressure for substantial change from KANU the party that won the 1963 general election As a result the British government was forced to make alterations in what became the independence constitution The latter proved a prelude to the destruction of majimbo a year later Kenya's Independence Constitution provides the first in depth description of the final stage of colonial Kenya's constitutional evolution This book not only provides a detailed account of the process of constitution making including definitive treatments of the final two constitutional conferences of 1962 and 1963 Utilizing British and Kenya cabinet papers and secret intelligence reports never featured in earlier accounts the narrative also destroys many of the myths

Resilience and Collapse in African Savannas Michael Bollig, David M. Anderson, 2018-10-11 This book assesses the causes and consequences of environmental change in East Africa asking whether local African communities are sufficiently resilient to cope with the ecological and social challenges that confront them It focuses on the savannas of the Baringo Bogoria basin and the surrounding highlands of Kenya's northern Rift Valley that form the social ecological system of the specialised cattle pastoralists and niche agricultural farmers who occupy these semi arid lands Historical studies of resilience spanning the past two centuries are linked with analysis of current environmental challenges and the ecological social economic and political responses mounted by local communities The authors question whether the most recent challenges confronting the peoples of eastern Africa's savannas intensified conflicts mounting poverty driven by demographic pressures and dramatic ecological changes brought by invasive species might soon lead to a collapse in essential elements of the specialised cattle pastoralism that dominates the region requiring a re orientation of the social ecological system This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Eastern African Studies

Integrating Science and Policy Roger E Kasperson, 2012-08-06 As progress towards a greater knowledge in sustainability science continues the question of how better to integrate scientific progress with actual decisions made by practitioners remains paramount This book aims to help close the gap between science and practice Based on a two year collaborative project between Harvard and Clark Universities the book takes as its focus the vulnerability and resilience of people around the world to the effects of environmental change a mature area of research in which one might expect the gap between science and policy practice to have been extensively bridged The book presents analysis of past studies interviews conducted with the producers and users of scientific knowledge and case studies performed by leading scholars across a spectrum of international settings and political systems Crucially the authors identify new directions and tools for closing the gap between science and policy across a range of situations and societies The result is an illuminating collection of studies and analyses that suggest to researchers students practitioners and policy makers alike how best to ensure that high quality environmental research informs good environmental policy and practice

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS The editors and authors are grateful to Lu Ann Pacenka who formatted the text of the book The editors also wish to express their appreciation to Bill Clark and Nancy Dickson of Harvard University who commissioned and provided oversight for the preparation of the volume Both editors and authors wish to express their appreciation to the David and Lucile Packard Foundation for providing funds to support the project Finally the editors are grateful for the continuing support of the George Perkins Marsh Institute at Clark University

Katerere, Fawzi Mohamad Mahomoodally, 2025-07-31 The practice of traditional medicine in Africa African Traditional Medicine ATM has a long history dating back thousands of years and has resulted in a wealth of therapeutic agents from plants and animals used in the treatment diseases Most of the associated knowledge about these medicines has been passed down from generation to generation via oral folklore However as a result of westernization and globalization and the loss of natural habitats and biodiversity as well as the loss of oral traditions the empirical knowledge associated with medicinal substances is at a risk of being lost forever A great deal of related research has been done and published in academic doctorate and master s theses most of which are available only as hard copies at the respective universities in herbal texts and journals Most of these works have not been published and made available to the international community It is well acknowledged that the origin of many drugs can be traced back to natural sources for example artemisinin ephedrine tubocurarine digoxin reserpine Some popular herbal medicines have their origin in African plants for example Umckaloabo EPs 7630 a standardized proprietary extract of Perlagonium sidoides used in some over the counter medicines for upper respiratory infections Other African plants have also offered medicines and or healthcare products and pharmacologically active compounds e g Prunus africana bark extracts for the management for prostate and lower urinary tract symptoms LUTS yohimbe from Pausinystalia johimbe or Bitter Aloe or Cape Aloes Aloe ferox This Research Topic is intended to highlight primary research on pharmacological and biological effects of plants fungi animals microorganisms and minerals used in African traditional medicine for humans and livestock We welcome articles on the documentation of indigenous knowledge on medicines and medical practices the pharmacology and pharmacognosy of indigenous African medicines and the search for pharmacologically active principles of traditional African medicines Review articles covering the study areas delineated above should reflect the multi disciplinary nature of ethnopharmacology The sub topics to be covered within this Research Topic include but are not limited to the following Pharmacological and biological effects of organisms plants fungi animals microorganisms and minerals used in African traditional medicine Indigenous knowledge on medicines medical practices ethnoveterinary food and cosmetic uses Pharmacology and or pharmacognosy of indigenous African medicines The search for pharmacologically active principles of traditional African medicines antivirals antibacterial antifungal Clinical trials using formulations based on ATM Commercialization and R D utilizing African bioresources All the manuscripts submitted to the collection will need to fully comply with the Four Pillars of Best Practice in Ethnopharmacology you can freely download the full version here We also expect that the MS follow the standards established in the ConPhyMP statement Front Pharmacol 13 953205 Kinship, Networks, and Exchange Thomas Schweizer, Douglas White, Douglas R. White, 1998-06-13 This collection of articles aims at revitalizing the study of kinship and exchange in a social network perspective It brings together studies of empirical systems of marriage and descent with investigations of the flow of material resources in societies of Africa Asia the Pacific and Europe Restudies of classic ethnographic cases and fieldwork studies of kinship and exchange demonstrate how the social and material aspects of society are related and address issues of concern to anthropology and the neighbouring disciplines of history sociology and economics This book marks the emergence of an era in the study of kinship and exchange using a productive combination of ethnographic substance with formal methods one which leaves behind older structural functionalist and culturalist assumptions Land, Investment & Politics Jeremy Lind,Doris Okenwa,Ian Scoones,2020 More than ever before the gaze of global investment has been directed to the drylands of Africa but what does this mean for these regions pastoralists and other livestock keepers and their livelihoods Will those who have occupied drylands over generations benefit from the developments as claimed or is this a new type of territorialisation exacerbating social inequality This book s detailed local studies of investments at various stages of development from Kenya Tanzania Somaliland Ethiopia explore for the first time how large land resource and infrastructure projects shape local politics and livelihoods Land and resources use based on ancestral precedence and communal practices and embedded regional systems of trade are unique to these areas yet these lands are now seen as the new frontier for development of national wealth By examining the ways in which large scale investments enmesh with local political and social relations the chapters show how even the most elaborate plans of financiers contractors and national governments come unstuck and are re made in the guise of not only states grand modernist visions but also those of herders and small town entrepreneurs in the pastoral drylands The contributors also demonstrate how and why large scale investments have advanced in a more piecemeal way as the challenges of implementation have mounted Humans and the Environment Matthew I. J. Davies,Freda Nkire M'Mbogori,2013-06-27 The environment has always been a central concept for archaeologists and although it has been conceived in many ways its role in archaeological explanation has fluctuated from a mere backdrop to human action to a primary factor in the understanding of society and social change Archaeology also has a unique position as its base of interest places it temporally between geological and ethnographic timescales spatially between global and local dimensions and epistemologically between empirical studies of environmental change and more heuristic studies of cultural practice Drawing on data from across the globe at a variety of temporal and spatial scales this volume resituates the way in which archaeologists use and apply the concept of the environment Each chapter critically explores the potential for archaeological data and practice to contribute to modern environmental issues including problems of climate change and environmental degradation Overall the volume covers four basic themes archaeological approaches to the way in which both scientists and locals conceive of the relationship between humans and their environment applied environmental archaeology the archaeology of disaster and new interdisciplinary directions The volume will be of interest to students and established archaeologists as well as practitioners from a range of applied disciplines African Dream Machines Anita Nettleton,2007-10-01 African Dream Machines takes African headrests out of the category of functional objects and into the more rarefied category of art objects Styles in African headrests are usually defined in terms of western art and archaeological discourses but this book interrogates these definitions of style and demonstrates the shortcomings of defining a single formal style model as exclusive to a single ethnic group Among the artefacts made by southern African peoples headrests were the best known Anita Nettleton's study of the uses and forms of headrests opened up a number of art historical methodologies in the attempt to gain an understanding of form style and content in African art objects Her drawings of each and every headrest encountered become a major part of the project
