Nielson, Ph.D.,2018-03-01 The most significant military development to touch Alaska during the interwar years was the advent of air power an innovation that completely altered Alaska's strategic position Suddenly the world became smaller as areas once thought safely distant from potential enemies became vulnerable Nowhere was this more evident than in the Pacific whose countless islands became potential advanced air bases As air technology improved the ability of long range bombers and by the 1930s of carrier aircraft to penetrate American airspace was a development of far reaching significance While such warnings were largely limited to a handful of air power advocates their vocal advocacy constituted nothing less than an insurrection a revolution in military thinking fought against entrenched military conservatism cultural aversion to change fears of budget cuts and War Department lethargy Indeed it was the air power crusader General Billy Mitchell who aggressively fought to convince the War and Navy Departments to embrace the new doctrine of offensive air power Mitchell came to understand Alaska's strategic importance early on Consequently he saw the Aleutians as a vulnerability if left unguarded Japan could creep up and by establishing air dominance take Alaska and Canada's West Coast But he also saw Alaska as a strategic base from which American planes could reduce Tokyo to powder Prophetically in 1923 Mitchell forecast precisely the military threat and strategic arguments that would shape military thinking almost twenty years later I am thinking of Alaska In an air war if we were unprepared Japan could take it away from us first by dominating the sky and creeping up the Aleutians By the mid to late 1930s military and civilian advocates of air power and more visionary strategists were beginning to make their voices heard in Congress and elsewhere decrying Alaska's military vulnerability Between 1933 and 1944 no one was more adamant than Alaska's Delegate in Congress Anthony Joseph Tony Dimond who challenged the nation to defend itself by defending Alaska To Dimond it seemed poor strategy to fortify one Pacific base Hawaii while ignoring another Alaska Diamond's campaign was strengthened by passage of the Wilcox Bill sponsored by Representative J Mark Wilcox. D Florida officially known as the National Air Defense Act. This truly significant legislation authorized the location and construction of military airfields throughout the United States as a general defense preparedness measure. Alaska was recognized as one of the nation's six strategic regions and two bases one at Anchorage the other at Fairbanks were recommended in part because Alaska was closer to Japan than it is to the center of the continental United States. Fortunately for Alaska defense advocates General Douglas MacArthur stepped down as Chief of Staff of the Army and was replaced by Major General Malin Craig in October 1935. Craig and Brigadier General Stanley D Embick advocated a substantial reconfiguration of Plan Orange arguing that the Philippines presented an invitation to attack and should be neutralized in favor of defending the Alaska-Hawaii-Panama Triangle. Both the Army and Navy were charged with defending Alaska as far west as Dutch Harbor and the army pledged to mobilize 6,600 troops in Alaska within a month of attack by Japan. In contemplating the defense of Alaska the Army General Staff formulated five priority objectives: first increase the Alaska garrison; second establish a major base for Army operations near Anchorage; third develop a network of air bases within Alaska; fourth garrison these bases with combat troops; and fifth protect the naval installations at Sitka, Kodiak and Dutch Harbor. Alaska was about to go to war.

Last Explorer Simon Nasht, 2012-08. In the tradition of The Ice Master and Endurance here is the incredible story of the first truly modern explorer whose death-defying adventures and uncommon modesty make this book itself an extraordinary discovery. Hubert Wilkins was the most successful explorer in history: no one saw with his own eyes more undiscovered land and sea. Largely self-taught, Wilkins became a celebrated newsreel cameraman in the early 1900s as well as a reporter, pilot, spy-war hero, scientist and adventurer capturing in his lens war and famine, cheating death repeatedly, meeting world leaders like Lenin and Stalin and circling the globe on a zeppelin. Apprenticing with the greats of polar exploration including Shackleton in the Antarctic, Wilkins recognized the importance of new technologies such as the airplane and submarine. He helped map the Canadian Arctic and plumbed the ocean depths from the icecap. A pioneer in the truest sense of the word, he became the first man to fly across the North Pole which won him a knighthood; the first to fly to the Antarctic and discover land there by airplane; and the first to take a submarine under the Arctic ice. Grasping the link between the poles and changing global weather, Wilkins was a visionary in weather forecasting and the study of global warming. A true hero of the earth, he changed the way we look at our world.

Noel Merrill Wien Noel Merrill Wien, 2016-04-19. Born into a family of aviators, Merrill Wien was destined to become a pilot. 29 bomber to the Hiller UH 12E chopper Although fundamentally modest by nature family and friends encouraged Merrill to share his remarkable stories given his accomplishments and experiences with so many famous people and events His tone is engagingly informal as he recounts crossing paths with such luminaries as Joe Crosson Howard Hughes Lowell Thomas Sr and Lowell Thomas Jr Sam White Don Sheldon Brad Washburn Wally Schirra and Bill Anders He re creates for readers his firsthand experiences flying top secret missions for the Air Force viewing the devastation of the Good Friday Earthquake in Anchorage and the challenges of starting his own helicopter company to name just a few His fascinating narrative is complemented by photographs from his personal archives
