Police Practices An International Review:

Police Practices Dilip K. Das,1990 Police Practices in Global Perspective John A. Eterno,Dilip K. Das,2009-08-15 In an ever changing complex world law enforcement must readily adapt to fight criminals terrorists In this work Eterno and Das bring experts from all over the globe to explain policing in a way that only they can do These experts are well versed in law enforcement methods and operations in their respective countries Nearly every part of the globe is represented in a cornucopia of nations Australia Brazil China India Nigeria Russia and the United States Many of the contributors are world renowned scholars with practical policing experience Each chapter brings a unique viewpoint explaining the country s police from the perspective of that country s culture The focus of the book is on transnational crime and terrorism however each chapter provides a basic understanding of policing in that nation Additionally a chapter on current legal practices throughout the world develops a global understanding of the difficulties faced by law enforcement To combat crime and terrorism on a global scale requires an understanding of other nations their cultures their laws their viewpoints This book written by indigenous authors provides unique insights into the countries being examined The wide range of countries combined with native experts make this book a necessary first step toward properly handling international crime and terrorism Police Practices Dilip K. Das,1994 A comparative study of police practices in Australia Finland India Japan and New Zealand analyzing police officers as the product of their country s culture Includes details on wages personnel practices unions and associations and problems of the police force in each country as well as programs and approaches unique to each force Lacks an index Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR The Making of a Police Officer Tore Bjørge,Marie-Louise Damen,2020-02-17 Does a more academic type of police education produce new police officers that are reluctant to patrol the streets What is the impact of gender diversity and political orientation on a police students career aspirations and attitudes to policing These are some of the questions addressed by this longitudinal project following police students in seven European countries The unique data material makes it possible to explore a wide range of topics relevant to the future development of policing police education and police science more generally Part I presents an overview of the different goals and models of police education in the seven participating countries Part II describes what type of student is attracted to police education taking into consideration educational background political orientation and career aspirations Part III shows the social impact of police education by examining students orientations towards emerging competence areas students career aspirations and students attitudes concerning trust cynicism and legalism The overall results show that police students are strikingly similar across different types of police education Students in academic institutions are at least as interested in street patrolling as students in vocational training institutions Gender and recruitment policies matters more in relation to career preferences than education models The national context plays a more important role than the type of police education system Written in a clear and direct style this book will appeal to students and scholars in policing criminology sociology social theory and cultural studies and those interested in how police education shapes its graduates

International Developments and Practices in Investigative Interviewing and Interrogation David Walsh, Gavin Oxburgh, Allison Redlich, Trond Myklebust, 2017-09-19 Techniques in the investigative interviewing and interrogation of victims witnesses and suspects of crime vary around the world according to a country's individual legal system religion and culture Whereas some countries have developed certain interview protocols for witnesses such as the ABE Guidelines and the NICHD protocol when interviewing children and the PEACE model of interviewing suspects other countries continue to use physical coercion and other questionable tactics to elicit information Until now there has been very little empirical information about the overall interview and interrogation practices in non western countries especially the Middle and Far East This book addresses this gap bringing together international experts from over 25 countries and providing in depth coverage of the various interview and interrogation techniques used across the globe Volume 2 focuses on the interviewing of crime suspects aiming to provide the necessary information for an understanding of how law enforcement agencies around the world gain valuable information from suspects in criminal cases Together the chapters that make up this volume and the accompanying volume on interviewing witnesses and victims draw on specific national case studies and practices examine contemporary challenges and identify best practice to enable readers to develop an international as well as a comparative perspective of developments worldwide in this important area of criminal investigation This book will be an essential resource for academics and students engaged in the study of policing criminal investigation forensic psychology and criminal law It will also be of great interest to practitioners legal professionals and policymakers around the world Effective Police Leadership in the 21st Century Rob Elkington, Christopher D.
