Policy Studies: Review Annual Bruce B. Zellner, 2019-01-22 Every editor of the Policy Studies Review Annual brings a unique perspective to bear in selecting articles to be included This perspective reflects varying methodological and disciplinary judgments varying judgments on what the field of policy studies or policy analysis is and where it should be going and varying judgments regarding the quality of articles which are or claim to be in the field Because it is the objective to assemble a set of essays which are both interesting and topical there will be varying perspectives on these matters as well The volume clearly reflects the editors perspectives They are explicit about these judgments and perspectives and then let the content of the volume speak for itself First we are both economists As a result the general topics selected and the articles chosen under each topic tend to emphasize economics more than the other disciplines involved in the field of policy studies sociology psychology political science law and so on This emphasis is clearly seen by comparing the contents of volume I edited by Stuart Nagel a political scientist and volume II edited by Howard Freeman a sociologist with that of this volume Second the editors have a particular view of what policy studies or policy analysis is That view has several aspects In the first place they feel that the field of policy studies or policy analysis must define itself and this definition will develop as researchers do just what the title of the field says study or analyze policies A corollary of this view is that we place a low weight on papers which discuss the policy process or reforms in policy making relative to papers which analyze a policy a policy proposal or a problem which leads to calls for policy action

Leeuw, Ray C. Rist, Richard C. Sonnichsen, There is continual concern about the ability of governments to perform the duties and responsibilities that their citizens have come to expect from them Many citizens view government as inept arthritic and dedicated to the preservation of the bureaucratic status quo As we close the twentieth century the challenge for democratic governments is to become adaptive flexible innovative and creative In short they need to become learning organizations This book explores what it will take for governments to break out of their traditional ways of approaching problems and learn new approaches to finding solutions Can Governments Learn examines organizational learning in the public sector It seeks to understand what role policy and program evaluation information can play in helping governments to learn Among the democratic societies that are studied are Belgium Canada the Netherlands Sweden and the United States Their governmental systems have produced and learned from evaluation information in quite different ways Significantly the studies documented here show that the concept of organizational learning has vitality and applicability cross nationally Can

Implementation of Oil Related Environmental Policies in Nigeria Fidelis Allen, 2011-10-18 Fidelis Allen situates violent conflict in the Niger Delta in the context of failure by government to effectively implement relevant oil related environmental policies intended to achieve sustainable development arguing that oil and environment related conflicts in the region are reflections of this failure This failure is premised on the notion that the goal of sustainable development as clearly outlined in Nigeria s National Environmental Policy and implied in various other policies can be pursued through the activities of government individuals and business organisations that are capable of engendering economic and social progress for communities that depend on the environment for their survival In fact available evidence shows that government and oil company activities or failures to act actually contribute to the despoliation of the environment in the Niger Delta Despite existing environmental legislations and guidelines unsafe waste disposal flaring of gas and oil spillage remain key features of oil industry operations in the Niger Delta Not surprisingly the book highlights a lack of synergy between government and oil company activities and the attainment of sustainable development as a key goal of the environmental policy of the government In other words the activities of the government and oil companies do not sufficiently promote sustainable development The net consequence is reflected in the frustrations of local justice and environmental movement groups about the political processes which deter rather than enable their agitation for improvements in local living conditions and development in the Niger Delta Over time those frustrations begin to manifest at different levels including aggressive and violent behaviours against oil companies and government security agencies for their contributory roles
