Making Sense of Media and Politics Gadi Wolfsfeld, 2011-06-23 Politics is above all a contest and the news media are the central arena for viewing that competition One of the central concerns of political communication has to do with the myriad ways in which politics has an impact on the news media and the equally diverse ways in which the media influences politics Both of these aspects in turn weigh heavily on the effects such political communication has on mass citizens In Making Sense of Media and Politics Gadi Wolfsfeld introduces readers to the most important concepts that serve as a framework for examining the interrelationship of media and politics political power can usually be translated into power over the news media when authorities lose control over the political environment they also lose control over the news there is no such thing as objective journalism nor can there be the media are dedicated more than anything else to telling a good story the most important effects of the news media on citizens tend to be unintentional and unnoticed By identifying these five key principles of political communication the author examines those who package and send political messages those who transform political messages into news and the effect all this has on citizens The result is a brief engaging guide to help make sense of the wider world of media and politics and an essential companion to more in depths studies of the field

Political Communication in American Campaigns Joseph S. Tuman, 2007-10-19 In Political Communication in American Campaigns Joseph S Tuman provides a comprehensive clear and accessible treatment of American campaign rhetoric and argues that modern elections are not really about contests between candidates or political parties rather they are more about the competing messages each player in the political process must present to persuade and reach voters This book s triangulated approach to political communication includes 1 all forms of campaign speech and oratory 2 the rhetorical dimensions of campaign debates and 3 candidate campaign interaction with mass media Key Features Allows readers to deconstruct and understand how and why speeches affect voters Offers methods for understanding how political speeches are constructed and targeted as well as how to apply these methodologies to a variety of campaign oratories Provides a comprehensive and entertaining explanation of the history of campaign debates in the United States A historical description of the evolution of political campaign helps situate modern debates within the context of specific mass media strategies and tactics employed by campaigns Reflects how changes in mass media have now influenced how campaigns communicate messages to voters Explores the relationship between campaigns and mass media with an emphasis on paid and free media and addresses the contemporary intersection of campaign Web sites and blogs with campaign main messages fundraising manipulating news coverage and creating ads Offers an insider's view of how campaigns work and how news media coverage of campaigns works The book is written with additional insights from the author's experiences as a political consultant and as a political analyst for news media Presents contemporary examples that all readers will understand Real life case studies of debates from both state and national elections all forms of campaign oratories and mass mediated campaigns Intended Audience This text is designed for advanced courses dealing with such topics as political communication media politics presidential rhetoric and persuasion as found in departments of communication media studies and political science
