Political Space Reading The Global Through Clayoquot Sound:

A Political Space Warren Magnusson, Karena Shaw, 2002-12-09 An innovative look at the convergence of global trends and local struggles in this out of the way place Clayoquot Sound on the remote outer coast of Vancouver Island might seem to be at the periphery of contemporary power and authority Yet as the disputed land of Native peoples and the contentious site of corporate logging in one of the world's last remaining temperate rain forests it is squarely in the middle of global politics A Political Space develops a new way of making sense of the rapidly changing character of political life in our day and reveals the political problems and possibilities inherent in the convergence of the global and the local so dramatically A Political Space Warren Magnusson, 2002 The authors develop a new way of making sense enacted in Clayoquot Sound of the rapidly changing character of political life in our day revealing the political problems and possibilities inherent in the convergence of the global and the local so dramatically enacted in Clayoguot Sound A Political Space Warren Magnusson, Karena Shaw, 2003 An innovative look at the convergence of global trends and local struggles in this out of the way place On the remote outer coast of Vancouver Island in British Columbia Clayoquot Sound might seem to be situated at the periphery of contemporary power and authority And yet as the disputed land of native peoples and the contentious site of corporate logging in one of the world's last remaining temperate rain forests Clayoquot Sound is also squarely in the middle of global politics today These authors develop a new way of making sense of the rapidly changing character of political life in our day revealing the political problems and possibilities inherent in the convergence of the global and the local so dramatically enacted in Clayoguot Sound Contributors Umeek of Ahousaht E Richard Atleo Malaspina U College British Columbia William Chaloupka U of Montana Thom Kuehls Weber State U Timothy W Luke Virginia Polytechnic R Michael M Gonigle U of Victoria Catriona Sandilands York U Toronto Gary C Shaw California State U Stanislaus R B J Walker Keele U UK Sharon Zukin Brooklyn College and CUNY rights CAN

Leisure and the Politics of the Environment Louise Mansfield, Belinda Wheaton, 2023-04-14 Within leisure studies there is a growing awareness and intensifying conscience about the potential environmental threat posed by the continued and unmanaged economic growth and development of sport tourism and leisure This collection brings together explicit discussions from a range of fields including environmental geography consumer research sociology and politics of the increasing relevance and complexities of environmental politics in leisure studies It provides a snapshot into the wide ranging debates on the politics of the environment and leisure sport tourism and serves as a starting point for further dialogue between leisure studies scholars and those in other disciplines where many of environmental debates have been advanced The volume will be of great value to scholars and practitioners in the areas of leisure studies conservation and local politics This book was published as a special issue of Leisure Studies

An Introduction to Political Geography Martin Jones, Rhys Jones, Michael Woods, Mark Whitehead, Deborah Dixon, Matthew Hannah, 2014-11-13 An Introduction to Political Geography continues to provide a broad based introduction to contemporary political geography for students following undergraduate degree courses in geography and related subjects The text explores the full breadth of contemporary political geography covering not only traditional concerns such as the state geopolitics electoral geography and nationalism but also increasing important areas at the cutting edge of political geography research including globalization the geographies of regulation and governance geographies of policy formulation and delivery and themes at the intersection of political and cultural geography including the politics of place consumption landscapes of power citizenship identity politics and geographies of mobilization and resistance This second edition builds on the strengths of the first The main changes and enhancements are four new chapters on political geographies of globalization geographies of empire political geography and the environment and geopolitics and critical geopolitics significant updating and revision of the existing chapters to discuss key developments drawing on recent academic contributions and political events new case studies drawing on an increasing number of international and global examples additional boxes for key concepts and an enlarged glossary As with the first edition extensive use is made of case study examples illustrations explanatory boxes guides to further reading and a glossary of key terms to present the material in an easily accessible manner Through employment of these techniques this book introduces students to contributions from a range of social and political theories in the context of empirical case study examples By providing a basic introduction to such concepts and pointing to pathways into more specialist material this book serves both as a core text for first and second year courses in political geography and as a resource alongside supplementary textbooks for more specialist third year courses Line R.B.J. Walker, 2015-08-27 A collection of essays on the politics of boundaries this book addresses a broad range of cases some geographical some legal and some involving less tangible practices of inclusion and exclusion The book begins by exploring the boundary between modern Western forms of international relations and their constitutive outsides Beyond this the author engages with relations between subjectivity and security security and nature social movements and a world politics as well as the politics of spatiotemporal dislocation Two chapters address the work of Thomas Hobbes and Max Weber as exemplary accounts of the relationship between boundaries and the constitution of modern forms of politics Each chapter speaks not only to the politics of specific boundary practices but also to the limits within which modern politics has been shaped in relation to claims about spatiality temporality sovereignty and subjectivity In this way the book draws attention to a pervasive account of a scalar order of higher and lower that has shaped more familiar distinctions between internality and externality Offering an analysis of the relation between concepts of internationalism imperialism and exceptionalism as well as the implications of spatiotemporal dislocation for claims about democracy the book links contemporary claims about the transformation of boundaries to various ways in which political life is said to be in crisis and in need of novel forms of critique Brought up to date by a new and extensive introductory essay and an assessment of the status of political judgement after 9 11 this book is essential reading for students and scholars of politics international

From Kyoto to the Town Hall Anders Biel, Lennart J. Lundqvist, 2013 relations political theory and political sociology International agreements such as the Kyoto Protocol EU regulation and country specific national climate policies offer some hope of addressing climate change But all too often implementation of these high level objectives is derailed at the subnational local and perhaps most important individual level by a variety of structural policy and perceived barriers that result in a failure of effective action Drawing on original research from Sweden a world leader in effective environmental solutions this volume examines the difficulties of aligning climatepolicy from international to national and sub national levels The authors address the full range of barriers and complexities including governance structures the relationship between experts and the public political feasibility tax measures perceptions of fairness and self interest and the importance of environmental values Also covered are the roles and perceptions of organizations and professions the place of carbon free technologies such as wind power the relationship between national and EU regulations and the monumental challenge of governing the climate in a bordered and divided world This volume is a vital source of information for all those seeking to create effective coordinated responses to the challenge of climate change Temagami's Tangled Wild Jocelyn Thorpe, 2012-02-03 Canadian wilderness seems a self evident entity yet as this volume shows in vivid historical detail wilderness is not what it seems In Temagami's Tangled Wild Jocelyn Thorpe traces how struggles over meaning racialized and gendered identities and land have made the Temagami area in Ontario into a site emblematic of wild Canadian nature even though the Teme Augama Anishnabai have long understood the region as their homeland rather than as a wilderness Eloquent and accessible this engaging history challenges readers to acknowledge the embeddedness of colonial relations in our notions of wilderness and to reconsider our understanding of the wilderness ideal Understanding Sustainable Development John Blewitt, 2017-12-22 A truly comprehensive introduction to the topic Understanding Sustainable Development is designed to give students on a wide range of courses an appreciation of the key concepts and theories of sustainable development Fully updated the third edition includes detailed coverage of the Sustainable Development Goals and their impact on global development Major challenges and topics are explored through a range of international case studies and media examples which maintain the global to local structure of the previous edition With an extensive website and pedagogy Understanding Sustainable Development is the most complete guide to the subject for course leaders undergraduates and postgraduates

Aboriginal Peoples and Forest Lands in Canada D.B. Tindall,Ronald Trosper,Pamela Perreault,2013-02-11 Aboriginal people in Canada have long struggled to regain control over their traditional forest lands Aboriginal Peoples and Forest Lands in Canada brings together the diverse perspectives of Aboriginals and non Aboriginals to address the political cultural environmental and economic implications of forest use This book discusses the need for professionals working in forestry and conservation to understand the context of Aboriginal participation in resource management It also addresses the importance of researching traditional knowledge and traditional land use and examines the development of co management initiatives and joint ventures between government forestry companies and Aboriginal communities Global Civil Society Gideon Baker, David Chandler, 2004-11-23 For many commentators global civil society is revolutionising our approach to global politics as new non state based and border free expressions of political community challenge territorial sovereignty as the exclusive basis for political community and identity This challenge from below to the nation state system is increasingly seen as promising nothing less than a reconstruction or a re imagination of world politics itself Whether in terms of the democratisation of the institutions of global governance the spread of human rights across the world or the emergence of a global citizenry in a worldwide public sphere global civil society is understood by many to provide the agency necessary for these hoped for transformations Global Civil Society asks whether this idea is such a qualitatively new phenomenon after all whether the transformation of the nation state system is actually within its reach and what some of the drawbacks might be

Planting the Anthropocene Jennifer Clary-Lemon, 2019-03-15 Planting the Anthropocene is a rhetorical look into the world of industrial tree planting in Canada that engages the themes of nature culture and environmental change Bringing together the work of material ecocriticism and critical affect studies in service of a new materialist environmental rhetoric Planting the Anthropocene forwards a frame that can be used to work through complex scenes of anthropogenic labor Using the results of interviews with seasonal Canadian tree planters Jennifer Clary Lemon interrogates the complex and messy imbrication of nature culture through the inadequate terminology used to describe the actual circumstances of the planters work and lives and offers alternative ways to conceptualize them Although silvicultural workers do engage with the limiting rhetoric of efficiency and humanism they also make rhetorical choices that break down the nature culture divide and orient them on a continuum that blurs the boundaries between the given and the constructed the human and nonhuman Tree planting work is approached as a site of a deep seated materiality a continued re creation of the land s disturbance rather than a simplistic form of doing good that further separates humans from landscapes Jennifer Clary Lemon s view of nature and the Anthropocene through the lens of material rhetorical studies is thoroughly original and will be of great interest to students and scholars of rhetoric and composition especially those focused on the environment Freedom and Indigenous Constitutionalism John Borrows, 2016-01-01 John Borrows uses Ojibwe law stories and principles to suggest alternative ways in which Indigenous peoples can work to enhance freedom Social Transformation in Rural Canada John R. Parkins, Maureen G. Reed, 2012-12-06 The rapidly changing nature of life in Canadian rural communities is more than a simple response to economic conditions People living in rural places are part of a new social agenda characterized by transformation of livelihoods landscapes and social relations these profound changes invite us to reconsider the meanings of community culture and citizenship Social Transformation in Rural Canada presents the work of researchers from a variety of fields who explore the dynamics of social transformation in rural settlements across several regions and sectors of the Canadian landscape This volume provides a nuanced portrait of how local forms of action adaptation identity and imagination are reshaping aboriginal and non aboriginal communities in rural Canada Unlike many previous studies this work looks at rural communities not simply as places affected by external forces but as incubators of change and social units with agency and purpose many of which provide exemplary models for other communities facing challenges of transition Environmental Politics Ronnie D. Lipschutz, 2003-07-30 Traditional views of global environmental politics take the structures and relations of international politics as a given Solutions to environmental problems then must be products of concession negotiation and inevitable compromise a world of top down planetary management Lipschutz challenges students to question these conventional approaches He argues that much light can be shed on global environmental degradation if we look beyond the politics of conflict and cooperation and explore environmental problems from their very roots Using a framework that accounts for the ontologies material conditions and power relations that structure global environmental problems Lipschutz is able to more effectively guestion attempts to clean up the globe and sustain the world's natural resources Throughout the text the author uses compelling cases to illustrate the effects of globalization and capitalism yet is careful to make the link between the local and the global to show how we as individuals are both consumers of goods and producers of pollution A powerful new approach How is the financing of a water system in Bolivia linked to long standing forestation practices in India Taking nothing for granted the root causes of major global environmental problems are exposed and subjected to rigorous analysis Lipschutz shows for instance how privatization operates in different global contexts with strikingly similar consequences In what ways are liberalism and realism actually two sides of the same coin Both make self interest of the individual and of the state key operating terms In a revealing comparison Lipschutz explores the limits of these dominant political models to effectively frame and solve environmental problems What kinds of political social and environmental practices bring about meaningful change By emphasizing the global impacts of local actions the text shows how attempts to control environmental problems may actually reproduce the very systems they are meant to ameliorate Combined with practical pedagogy Rich historical background helps contextualize contemporary issues Extensive suggested reading lists at the end of each chapter guide students to further research while tables and figures elegantly show data and concepts The emphasis on assessing the root causes of global environmental problems and models encourages critical thinking Students are also encouraged to rethink their own role in the global environmental system and to get involved in Renegotiating Community William D. Coleman, Diana Brydon, 2009-01-01 Both as a effective forms of social change concept and a set of social relationships community is central to contemporary debates about globalization Faced with finding a livable response to globalization many communities are renegotiating their identities and functions and in some instances entirely new communities are being formed Yet there is no clear consensus on why community matters or on how globalization affects particular communities Renegotiating Community asks what happens to the autonomy of individuals and communities under the influence of globalization Original case studies show how a range of communities are renegotiating

the meanings of community and autonomy while living with and sometimes challenging the processes of globalization By addressing the coercive and comforting dimensions of community as well as the need to reconcile conflicting claims to autonomy this book redraws the conceptual maps through which community globalization and autonomy are understood

Urban Policy in the Time of Obama James DeFilippis, 2016-11-08 With his background as a community organizer and as a state legislator representing Chicago's South Side Barack Obama became America's most urban president since Teddy Roosevelt But what has been his record in dealing with the issues most impacting our metropolitan areas today Looking past the current administration what are the future prospects of the nation's cities and how have they been shaped by our policies in this century Seeking to answer these questions the contributors to Urban Policy in the Time of Obama explore a broad range of policy arenas that shape both directly and indirectly metropolitan areas and urbanization processes This volume reveals the Obama administration's surprisingly limited impact on cities through direct policy initiatives such as Strong Cities Strong Communities Promise Neighborhoods and Choice Neighborhood Initiatives There has been greater impact with broader policies that shape urban life and governance including immigration reform education and health care Closing with Cedric Johnson's afterword illuminating the Black Lives Matter movement and what its broader social context says about city governance in our times Urban Policy in the Time of Obama finds that most of the dominant policies and policy regimes of recent years have fallen short of easing the ills of America's cities and calls for a more equitable and just urban policy regime Contributors Rachel G Bratt Tufts University Christine Thurlow Brenner University of Massachusetts Boston Karen Chapple University of California Berkeley James Fraser Vanderbilt University Edward G Goetz University of Minnesota Dan Immergluck Georgia Tech Amy T Khare University of Chicago Robert W Lake Rutgers University Pauline Lipman University of Illinois at Chicago Lorraine C Minnite Rutgers University Camden Kathe Newman Rutgers University Deirdre Oakley Georgia State Frances Fox Piven City University of New York Hilary Silver Brown University Janet Smith University of Illinois at Chicago Preston H Smith II Mount Holyoke College Todd Swanstrom University of Missouri St Louis Nik Theodore University of Illinois at Chicago J Phillip Thompson MIT The Changing Nature of Eco/Feminism Niamh Moore, 2015-04-15 In the summer of 1993 activists set up a peace camp blocking a logging road into an extensive area of temperate rainforest in Clayoquot Sound that was slated for clear cutting Twenty odd years later Clayoquot holds a prominent place in environmental discourse yet it is not generally associated with feminist or eco feminist movements The Changing Nature of Eco Feminism argues that Clayoquot offers a potent site for examining a whole range of feminist issues Through a careful study of eco feminist activism against clear cut logging practices in British Columbia the book explores how a transnational eco feminist practice insisted on an account of logging situated in histories of colonialism holding the Canadian state to account for its deforestation practices Moore demonstrates that the sheer vitality of eco feminist politics at the Peace Camp in the summer of 1993 confounded dominant narratives of contemporary feminism and has re imagined eco feminist politics for new times Sovereign Lives Jenny Edkins, Michael J. Shapiro, Veronique Pin-Fat, 2012-10-02 For International Relations scholars discussions of globalization inevitably turn to questions of sovereignty How much control does a country have over its borders people and economy Where does that authority come from Sovereign Lives explores these changes through reading of humanitarian intervention human rights discourses securitization refugees the fragmentation of identities and the practices of development Politics of Urbanism Warren Magnusson, 2013-07-03 To see like a city rather than seeing like a state is the key to understanding modern politics In this book Magnusson draws from theorists such as Weber Wirth Hayek Jacobs Sennett and Foucault to articulate some of the ideas that we need to make sense of the city as a form of political order Locally and globally the city exists by virtue of complicated patterns of government and self government prompted by proximate diversity A multiplicity of authorities in different registers is typical Sovereignty although often claimed is infinitely deferred What emerges by virtue of self organization is not susceptible to control by any central authority and so we are impelled to engage politically in a world that does not match our expectations of sovereignty How then are we are to engage realistically and creatively We have to begin from where we are if we are to understand the possibilities Building on traditions of political and urban theory in order to advance a new interpretation of the role of cities urbanism in contemporary political life this work will be of great interest to scholars of political theory and urban theory international relations theory and international relations
