Military Industry in Taiwan and South Korea Janne E. Nolan, 1986-02-24 Since World War II the United States has done much to support economic political and social development in the Third World At the same time its policies toward developing nations often reflect an overly narrow conception of national and global security in which the influences of the modernization process seem scarcely to have been taken into account Both strains in US policy are mirrored in strong academic traditions upon which policy makers have drawn liberally in the postwar years Developmentalists and security scholars alike will find much that is familiar in the case studies presented in Military Industry in Taiwan and South Korea Dr Nolan s discussion of the stresses of rapid economic and political development in both states draws deeply on the modernization and dependencia studies of the last two decades while her treatment of the security environment within which domestic policies must be made will satisfy the international relationist concerned with states as actors within the international system Throughout Dr Nolan provides a detailed presentation of the behaviour of both polities that will be of interest to North east Asian area specialists and students of US arms policy      State, 1994      International

Singapore Carl A. Trocki, 2006-03-23 This volume examines Singapore s culture of control exploring the city state s colonial heritage as well as the forces that have helped to mould its current social landscape Taking a comparative approach Trocki demonstrates the links between Singapore s colonial past and independent present focusing on the development of indigenous social and political movements In particular the book examines the efforts of Lee Yew Kuan leader of the People s Action Party from 1959 until 1990 to produce major economic and social transformation Trocki discusses how Singapore became a workers paradise but what the city gained in material advancement it paid for in intellectual and cultural sterility Based on the latest research Singapore addresses the question of control in one of the most prosperous and dynamic economies in the world providing a compelling history of post colonial Singapore      Newsletter United States. Department of State, 1994      Relative Histories Rocio G. Davis, 2022-04-30 Relative Histories focuses on the Asian American memoir that specifically recounts the story of at least three generations of the same family This form of auto biography concentrates as much on other members of one s family as on oneself generally collapses the boundaries conventionally established between biography and autobiography and in many cases as Roc o G Davis proposes for the auto biographies of ethnic writers crosses the frontier into history promoting collective memory Davis centers on how Asian American family memoirs expand the limits and function of life writing by reclaiming history and promoting community cohesion She argues that identity is shaped by not only the stories we have been told but also the stories we tell making these narratives important examples of the ways we remember our family's past and tell our community's story In the context of auto biographical writing or filmmaking that explores specific ethnic experiences of diaspora assimilation and integration this work considers two important aspects These texts re imagine the past by creating a work that exists both in history and as a historical document making the creative process a form of re enactment of the past itself Each chapter centers on a thematic concern germane to the Asian American experience the narrative of twentieth century Asian wars and revolutions which has become the subtext of a significant number of Asian American family memoirs Pang Mei Natasha Chang's Bound Feet and Western Dress May lee and Winberg Chai's The Girl from Purple Mountain K Connie Kang's Home Was The Land of Morning Calm Dounq Van Mai Elliott's The Sacred Willow family experiences of travel and displacement within Asia in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries which unveil a history of multiple diasporas that are often elided after families immigrate to the United States Helie Lee's Still Life With Rice Jael Silliman's Jewish Portraits Indian Frames Mira Kamdar's Motiba's Tattoos and the development of Chinatowns as family spaces Maxine Hong Kingston's China Men Lisa See's On Gold Mountain Bruce Edward Hall's Tea that Burns The final chapter analyzes the discursive possibilities of the filmed family memoir family portrait documentary examining Lise Yasui's A Family Gathering Ruth Ozeki Lounsbury's Halving the Bones and Ann Marie Fleming's The Magical Life of Long Tack Sam Davis concludes the work with a metaliterary engagement with the history of her own Asian diasporic family as she demonstrates the profound interconnection between forms of life writing

Yearbook of International Law and Affairs, 1994      Directory of Taiwan Scholars, 1995      Taiwan Studies Newsletter, 1992      Political Stability and Economic Growth, 1994      China (the Mainland and Taiwan) in Transition David Decker, 1997      Democracy or Alternative Political Systems in Asia Hsin-Huang Michael Hsiao, 2014-01-10 From the 1980s onwards a tide of democratization swept across the Asian region as the political strongmen who had led since the end of World War II began to fall Although it is generally assumed that once authoritarian leaders no longer hold power the political landscape will drastically change and the democratic transition will simply be a matter of time this book shows that the move towards democracy in Asia has by no means been linear process and there have been a number of different outcomes that reflect the vastly divergent paths towards liberalization the Asian nations have followed This book examines seven countries that were previously under authoritarian or semi authoritarian rule but then followed very different trajectories towards increasing liberalization after the fall of political strongmen South Korea Taiwan China the Philippines

Indonesia Malaysia and Thailand Importantly the case studies reveal the factors that may enable transition to a more democratic system and alternatively the factors that inhibit democratic transition and push countries down a more authoritarian path In turn three key models that follow the fall of a political strongman emerge democratization with substantial political reform and consolidation democratization with limited political reform leading to weak democratic institutions and instability and an alternative political system with sustained authoritarianism By tracing these very different paths and outcomes in the wake of a strongman s fall the contributors present valuable information for countries on the course towards democratization as well as governments and organisations who work to facilitate this process This book will be welcomed by students and scholars interested in Asian politics governance and democratization studies Asia: Case Studies in the Social Sciences - A Guide for Teaching Myron L. Cohen,2016-09-16 The material in this study is covered by Myron L Cohen on religion and family organization in China John R Bowen on family kinship and Islam in Indonesia Robert W Hefner on hierarchy and stratification in Java and Nancy Rosenberger on gender roles in Japan Further material is provided by William W Kelly on rural society in Japan Theodore C Bestor on urban life in Japan Stephen R Smith on the family in Japan Doranne Jacobson on gender relations in India Lawrence A Babb on religion in India Owen M Lynch on stratification inequality and the caste system in India Laurell Kendall on changing gender relations in Korea Andrew G Walder on comparative revolution in China and Vietnam Maoism and the sociology of work in China and Japan Moni Nag on the comparative demography of China Japan and India and Helen Hardacre on the new religions of Japan Other contributors offering information through case studies are Hiroshi Ishida on stratification and mobility in Japan Robert C Liebman on work and education compared in Japan and the US Joseph W Elder on education urban society urban problems and industrial society in India Andrew J Nathan on totalitarianism authoritarianism and democracy in China Jean C Oi on mobilisation and participation in China Edwin A Winckler on political development in Taiwan Carl H Lande on political parties and representation in the Philippines Clark N Neher on political development and political participation in Thailand and Benedict R O G Anderson on political culture the military and authoritarianism in Indonesia The final chapters of this work include studies by Stephen Philip Cohen on the military in India and Pakistan Paul R Brass on democracy and political participation in India T J Pempel on Japanese democracy and political culture political parties and representation and bureaucracy in Japan Han kyo Kim on political development in South Korea and Thomas G Rawski on the economies of China and Japan The Development of Political Science David Easton,Luigi Graziano,John Gunnell,2002-03-11 In recent years the history of political science has become recognised as an important but neglected area of study The Development of Political Science is the first comprehensive discussion of the subject in a comparative international perspective Offering a wide ranging account of the development of the subject and its dissemination across national borders and cultural divides the book begins with a study of the historiography of the discipline in the United States a country which has been at the forefront of the field Widening its discussion to emphasise Western Europe as a focus for comparison the contributors provide studies of further areas of interest such as China and Africa This particular approach emphasises the book's vision of political science as a growing transnational body of knowledge In presenting critical analysis of the state of the field this vigorous study aims to further the development of the discipline in the countries discussed and to provide a work that is interesting not only to political scientists but to all those concerned with the development of the social sciences

Political Development and Democratic Theory Steven J. Hood, 2015 Most comparativists have assumed that democratization is best understood by looking at regimes in the transition and consolidation phases of democracy without really considering the essence of democracy liberal rights and democratic virtues Democracy is seen as a mechanistic process without considering the ideas that build democratic regimes This book begins afresh by proposing that comparativists need to consider democracy to be a combination of rights and virtues and that the difficulties of democratic transitions consolidation and maintenance are essentially problems relating to balancing rights and virtues in the regime How do we reemphasize these aspects of democracy at a time when comparative literature focuses almost solely on democratic procedure By combining the best elements of comparative theory and liberal democratic philosophy Hood argues that comparativists can sharpen the scholarly tools we need to understand both the problems of democratization and maintaining democracy He provides the reader with a valuable overview of comparative theory and how our abandonment of political philosophy has led to our acceptance of social science methods

Human Rights in Asia Randall Peerenboom, Carole J. Petersen, Albert H.Y. Chen, 2006-09-27 Human Rights in Asia considers how human rights are viewed and implemented in Asia It covers not just civil and political rights but also social economic and cultural rights This study discusses the problems arising from the fact that ideas of human rights have evolved in Western liberal democracies and examines how far such values are compatible with Asian values and applicable in Asian contexts Core chapters on France and the USA provide a benchmark on how human rights have emerged and how they are applied and implemented in a civil law and a common law jurisdiction These are then followed by twelve chapters on the major countries of East Asia plus India each of which follows a common template to consider the context of the legal system in each country black letter law legal discussions and debates and key current issues concerning human rights in each jurisdiction
