Birkland,2015-09-04 The fourth edition of this widely used text relates theory to practice in the public policy process In a clear conversational style author Tom Birkland conveys the best current thinking on the policy process with an emphasis on accessibility and synthesis This new edition has been reorganized to better explain the role of policy analysis in the policy process New to this edition A new section on the role of policy analysis and policy analysts in the policy process A revised and updated chapter surveying the social economic and demographic trends that are transforming the policy environment Fully updated references to help the advanced reader locate the most important theoretical literature in policy process studies New illustrations and an improved layout to clarify key ideas and stimulate classroom discussion The book makes generous use of visual aids and examples that link policy theory to the concrete experience of practitioners It includes chapter at a glance outlines definitions of key terms provocative review questions recommended reading and online materials for professors and students

Media Inequality Victoria Fielding,2024-09-04 News media notionally underpins a vibrant and diverse democracy by representing political industrial and social conflict to mass audiences Yet few studies measure how equitably journalists frame public contestation Despite framing theory s extensive use in media and communication scholarship little is known about how frames are created and disseminated how frames are built to explain how and why journalists frame news the way they do Media Inequality proposes that frame building occurs through a two step process of frame adoption and replication This two step frame building process is explored by identifying the newspaper master narratives used in five historical industrial dispute case studies These master narratives are then mapped to public narratives used by unionised firefighters and their employer in the Australian case of the 2016 Victorian Country Fire Authority industrial dispute By theorising about the causes of journalists inequitable framing of contested narratives Media

Inequality tells the story of unconscious structural media bias interrogates the power of news media to reinforce dominant frames offers valuable theoretical perspectives about the influence of media power on the accumulation of power in society and provides lessons for groups communicating in competitive contexts Media Inequality is thus valuable to scholars academics and research students in the fields of journalism communication and media particularly scholars interested in how journalists represent political industrial and social contestation The Handbook of Life-Span Development, Volume 2
