Political Protest and Social Change Charles F. Andrain, David Ernest Apter, 1995 At the close of the twentieth century political protests have erupted throughout the world While the collapse of communism was certainly one of the most spectacular protest related events smaller protests have become ubiquitous In Los Angeles labor activists campaign against commercial real estate owners to unionize janitors mainly Latina immigrants In the People s Republic of China peasants revolt against tax collectors Amazonian Indians protest public and economic policies that destroy their culture and rainforest habitat This book analyzes the reciprocal impact of cultural beliefs sociopolitical structures and individual behaviors on protests throughout the world Why do individuals participate in protest activities How do cultural beliefs personal attitudes and subjective perception influence the potential protester Addressing the issue of agency in protest the authors also examine why protestors enlist different tactics to achieve their goals Why are some protests violent and others nonviolent When and why do activists conclude that it is better to accommodate than confront Finally and crucially what are the consequences of protest movements

Political Protest and Social Change C. Andrain, D. Apter, 1994-12-19 This book probes three issues about the linkage between political protests and social change First why do individuals participate in protest activities including nonviolent movements and revolutions How do cultural beliefs sociopolitical structures personal attitudes motives and perceptions shape the decision to participate Second why do participants choose certain tactics Protesters use different types of tactics violent vs nonviolent public vs covert organized vs spontaneous and confrontation vs accommodation with other groups political parties and government agencies Most activists view a particular tactic as a useful means to attain their policy demands Third what policy consequences emerge from the activities of protest movements The book explores the impact of protests on social change and on the distribution of political power particularly greater access of subordinate groups to government policymakers A theory of political opportunities helps explain these issues about the origins activities and outcomes of protests

Peace Movements: International Protest and World Politics Since 1945 April Carter, 2014-09-11 There is a long tradition of opposition to war and organized peace campaigns date from 1815 Since 1945 however modern weapons technology has threatened world wide destruction and has stimulated widespread protests This book sketches in the background of thinking about peace and resistance to war before 1945 and then examines how public opposition to nuclear weapons and testing grew in the 1950s and early 1960s Later chapters cover the major resurgence of nuclear disarmament campaigns in the 1980s The book also looks at how peace protest has spread from its origins in North America and North West Europe to embrace many parts of the world opposition to nuclear testing has indeed been particularly strong in Japan Australia New Zealand and the Pacific islands The period 1945 to 1990 was dominated by the Cold War between the USA and USSR and the role of the Soviet sponsored World Peace Council caused difficulties for independent peace groups in the West During the 1980s the emergence of autonomous peace activity in a number of East European countries and even on a very small scale in the USSR itself transformed the possibilities for East West co operation between citizens to urge disarmament and political change A chapter examines these developments Opposition to all forms of militarism has spread in the last 30 years This book charts the struggles to extend the right to conscientious objection to military service and draft resistance to particular wars for example in Southern Africa and Israel It also looks in some detail at the growing opposition to the war in the Vietnam The recent protests against the Gulf War are surveyed briefly in an epilogue Power, Politics and Territory in the 'New Northern Ireland' Elizabeth

DeYoung, 2023-10-15 Winner of the ACIS Donald Murphy Prize for Distinguished First Book 2023 In the wake of the Good Friday Agreement the redevelopment of the former Girdwood Army Barracks in North Belfast was hailed as a symbol of hope for Northern Ireland It was a major investment in a former conflict zone and an internationally significant peacebuilding project Instead of adhering to the tenets of the Agreement sectarianism dominated the regeneration agenda Throughout the process politicians community groups and paramilitaries wrangled over the site's future and territorial contest won out over housing need After eleven years of negotiation and 11.7 million the EU funded Girdwood Community Hub opened its doors to the public in 2016 but its impact has been underwhelming The Hub's redevelopment is a microcosm of the peace process itself and the ways in which post Agreement politics have failed to deliver a shared future for the people of Northern Ireland twenty five years on This ethnography provides a lively account of Girdwood's redevelopment and a wry critique of the fractious political context around it Through familiarity and encounter the author brings us across peace walls into community meetings and behind the scenes of decision making in Northern Ireland Girdwood's story also sheds light on how power politics and territory intersect in divided cities globally Irish Political Prisoners 1960-2000 Seán

Writing Resistance in Northern Ireland Aimée Walsh, 2024-04-02 Writing Resistance in Northern Ireland is an examination of feminist republicanism s in the north of Ireland between 1975 and 1986 Republican prison protest was rife during this period and fractures opened up between the feminist and republican movements Despite their shared objective of self determination the two movements did not achieve a natural or total congruence While it has been argued that there is a disjuncture between feminism and nationalism this book argues for a new perspective on feminist republicanism s in the north and tells the story of a niche collective of republican feminists who came to the fore during the Troubles and sought bodily political and economic autonomy The book examines source material including historical narratives jail writings journalism documentary film and literary texts and paints a vivid picture of a movement of republican feminist women s writing concerned with political crisis gender and the nation Aimée Walsh uses the plural republicanism s as a way of encapsulating the varied iterations of nationalist feminism from militant republicanism in Armagh Gaol to a non violent literary nationalist feminism This examination of the interaction between nationalism and gender shows how the study of women s writing can offer a paradigm shift in the history of the Troubles as seen through a feminist lens

Robertson, 2010-12-20 Since the end of the Cold War more and more countries feature political regimes that are neither liberal democracies nor closed authoritarian systems Most research on these hybrid regimes focuses on how elites manipulate elections to stay in office but in places as diverse as Bolivia Georgia Kyrgyzstan Serbia Thailand Ukraine and Venezuela protest in the streets has been at least as important as elections in bringing about political change The Politics of Protest in Hybrid Regimes builds on previously unpublished data and extensive fieldwork in Russia to show how one high profile hybrid regime manages political competition in the workplace and in the streets More generally the book develops a theory of how the nature of organizations in society state strategies for mobilizing supporters and elite competition shape political protest in hybrid regimes
