Effects of Nuclear Earth-Penetrator and Other Weapons National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Committee on the Effects of Nuclear Earth-Penetrator and Other Weapons, 2005-10-06 Underground facilities are used extensively by many nations to conceal and protect strategic military functions and weapons stockpiles Because of their depth and hardened status however many of these strategic hard and deeply buried targets could only be put at risk by conventional or nuclear earth penetrating weapons EPW Recently an engineering feasibility study the robust nuclear earth penetrator program was started by DOE and

DOD to determine if a more effective EPW could be designed using major components of existing nuclear weapons This activity has created some controversy about among other things the level of collateral damage that would ensue if such a weapon were used To help clarify this issue the Congress in P L 107 314 directed the Secretary of Defense to request from the NRC a study of the anticipated health and environmental effects of nuclear earth penetrators and other weapons and the effect of both conventional and nuclear weapons against the storage of biological and chemical weapons This report provides the results of those analyses Based on detailed numerical calculations the report presents a series of findings comparing the effectiveness and expected collateral damage of nuclear EPW and surface nuclear weapons under a variety of conditions
