Fogg, 2017-11-28 A riveting look at how dog and humans became best friends and the first history of dog domestication to include insights from indigenous peoples. Rather than describe how people mastered and tamed an aggressive dangerous species the authors describe coevolution and mutualism. Wolves particularly ones shunned by their packs most likely initiated the relationship with Paleolithic humans forming bonds built on mutually recognized skills and emotional capacity. This interdisciplinary study draws on sources from evolutionary biology as well as tribal and indigenous histories to produce an intelligent insightful and often unexpected story of cooperative hunting wolves protecting camps and wolf human companionship This fascinating assessment is a must read for anyone interested in human evolution ecology animal behavior anthropology and the history of canine domestication
