sensitive management and adaptations in service provision such as no morning appointments that respect the individual's lifestyle. The conflict for professionals is encapsulated in a brief description of the responses of Vanessa Crawford's patient group when asked what messages they would like to be conveyed to future doctors: don't prejudge us, treat us as individuals, give us proper pain control, and don't trust us. Implicit in this is the recognition that they are in the grip of something that leads them to deceive probably themselves but also others: a wish to pervert a relationship to someone who is trying to help. Crawford conveys the importance of being knowledgeable but not omniscient of helping the individual to overcome the barrier of shame which may lead to information being withheld and the crucial contribution of a collaborative and coherent staff team in containing such challenging patients and in helping them to turn a corner towards recovery.

Aggression and Destructiveness Celia HARDING, 2006-09-27 Why when and how does aggression go wrong? How can we make sense of apparently meaningless destructiveness and violence? Aggression is a part of human nature that energises our relationships, acts as an impetus for psychic development and enables us to master our world. More often we focus on its more destructive aspects such as the violence individuals inflict on themselves or others and overlook the positive functions of aggression. In Aggression and Destructiveness Celia Harding brings together contributions from experienced psychoanalysts and psychoanalytic psychotherapists to explore the roots of aggression and the clinical dilemmas it presents in psychotherapy. Beginning with accounts of aggression and destructiveness from a range of developmental and theoretical perspectives, the book provides useful insights into subjects including Bullying and abusive relationships, Male and female violence and destructiveness, Depressive, perverse and psychotic states of mind, Attacks on therapeutic treatment. This book makes a valuable contribution to the attempt to make sense of human aggression, destructiveness and violence perpetrated against the self, others and reality. It will be of great interest to trainee and qualified psychodynamic counsellors, psychoanalytic psychotherapists and psychoanalysts.

Conjunctions Andrew Cooper, 2018-06-04 Conjunctions engages separately and connectively with therapeutic social work practice, psychoanalytically informed research methods and philosophy as well as contemporary human service organisational cultures and predicaments and the societal dynamics affecting social work and psychoanalysis. The chapters are gathered into several thematic sections: Practice, Organisations, Politics, Policy and Culture, Research, and a final chapter on death, dying and social work. The writing on each topic uses a blend of psychoanalysis, social theory and philosophy to illuminate and develop a psycho-social account of individual, organisational and social processes and dynamics. The author draws directly upon his own and others' lived experience of clinical work, organisational stresses and strains, social processes and research to generate conceptualised accounts of inner and outer experiential worlds in the hope of mobilising emotional and thinking responses in his readership. Conjunctions is therefore intended to be an intervention in modern professional therapeutic and social life as well as a contribution to understanding it.
