Krenn, 2019-08-08 Following World War II America was witness to two great struggles The first was on the international front and involved the fight for freedom around the globe as millions of people in Asia and Africa rose up to throw off their European colonial masters In the decades following 1945 dozens of new nations joined the ranks of independent countries Following the Civil War the African American voice in U S foreign affairs continued to grow In the late nineteenth century a few African Americans such as Frederick Douglass even served as U S diplomats to the black republics of Liberia and Haiti When America began its overseas thrust during the 1890s African American opinion was divided The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights Volume 2 Nat Rubner, 2023 Landmark study of the African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights Documents on one side the international community's inability to foist a human rights system upon Africa and on the other the process within the OAU now African Union that eventually brought it into being and determined its content The African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights ACHPR which was proposed in 1979 adopted in 1981 and came into effect in 1986 was the first non Western declaration of human rights and the first official statement of an African human rights perspective With Africa largely absent in 1948 when the Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR was adopted it stands in stark historical reproach to the Western conception of universal human rights as a pivotal document in the decolonisation of the continent This book for the first time presents a comprehensive account of the development of the ACHPR which is key to a proper understanding of its fundamental nature Through documenting its process of construction it becomes possible to understand how Africans themselves understood the process and the issues involved and how the ACHPR became a political text asserted by African leaders and not a continuum of a so called universal human rights tradition The result is a radical repositioning of the underlying context of the ACHPR one of the most important documents in modern African history of how it came to be and how it should therefore be understood Volume 2 describes the process through which the ACHPR came into being Analysing the role of Western governments the UN and NGOs it shows that contrary to the prevailing view of African human rights commentators their influence was limited and at times counter productive That in fact the formulation of the ACHPR was a profoundly political process that was primarily a product of an African desire to instigate its own human rights perspective as a counter to the human rights universalism advanced by the Western post war human rights tradition The Tangwa,2010-11-01 For millennia Africans have lived on the African continent in close contact with the diversities of nature floral faunal and human and in so doing they have developed cultures values attitudes and perspectives to the problems ethical and otherwise that have arisen from the existential pressures of their situation The problem however is that such values and perspectives do not necessarily form coherent ethical theories Theory making is a second order activity requiring a certain amount of leisure and comfort which the existential conditions of life on the African continent have not easily permitted in the retrospect able past The elements of African bioethics are to be found in its cultural values traditions customs and practices These are research able highlight able and usable by those who would The bioethical problems of our current global existential situation are such that all possible solutions no matter their provenance ought to be tried Western culture has far too loud a voice combined with deaf ears in contemporary ethical discourse But it should never be forgotten that other cultures have their own word to say and that alternative values ways of thinking and practices exist and attempt should always be made to bring these out and to highlight them if they could possibly contribute to the satisfactory solution of a global problem This book brings together various papers on bioethical issues and problems written at different times some previously published each of which attempts to bring out some African elements perspective or concern The African narrative style predominates through these essays but their framing conforms more or less to the Western paradigm for presenting academic issues Raising an African Child in America: from the Perspective of an Immigrant Nigerian Mom Marcellina Ndidi Oparaoji,2015-07-25 Like other African born immigrants I came to the shores of America from Nigeria West Africa some twenty plus years ago as a young adult freshly married to my Nigerian immigrant spouse All we knew was what we learnt from our parents and community growing up Except for what we read in books about the outside world we had no idea what lay ahead surviving in another environment outside our Third World Our parents had sent us forth to study some more in an environment different from what we were used to in so many ways We had to make success of this opportunity that was costing them so much Immigrant Nigerians coming to America are then faced with questions of how to raise their children Should their offsprings be raised as Nigerians Americans or to help them benefit from both worlds as Nigerian Americans Who decides the parents the children or the society What will be the fate of the next generation to come AF Press Clips United States Department of State. Bureau of African Affairs,1981 Impacts of Incarceration on the African American Family Othello Harris,R. Robin Miller, The criminal justice system has driven a wedge between black men and their children African American men are involved in the criminal justice system whether through incarceration probation or parole at near epidemic levels At the same time the criminal justice system has made little or no institutional efforts to maintain or support continuing relationships between these men and their families Consequently African American families are harmed by this in countless ways from the psychological physical and material suffering experienced by the men themselves to losses felt by their mates children and extended family members The volume opens with an introduction and brief review by R Robin Miller Sandra Lee Browning and Lisa M Spruance outlining the impacts of incarceration on the African American family Brad Tripp explores changes in family relationships and the identity of incarcerated African American fathers Mary Balthazar and Lula King discuss the loss of the protective effect of marital and nonmarital relationships and its impact on incarcerated African American men and the implications for African American men and those who work with them in the helping professions Theresa Clark explores the relationship between visits by family and friends and the nature of inmate behavior In a research note Olga Grinstead Bonnie Faigeles Carrie Bancroft and Barry Zack investigate the actual costs families incur to maintain contact with family members be it emotional social or financial Patricia E O Connor uses data from sociolinguistic interviews of male inmates from a maximum security prison to study how some of these men manage to continue to fulfill the fatherhood role long distance In a concluding chapter Sandra Lee Browning Robin Miller and Lisa Spruance focus on actions of the criminal justice system that undermine the black family on reasons that black male inmate fathers are studied so rarely and discuss the role restorative justice may play This insightful volume fills a void in the literature on the role of African American men in the functioning of families It will be of interest to students of African American studies social workers and policy makers
