Bainham,Shelley Day Sclater,Martin Richards,1999-07-01 This collection of essays is the product of a series of seminars held at the University of Cambridge in 1998 under the auspices of the newly formed Cambridge Socio Legal Group The book presents an interdisciplinary exploration of the nature of parenthood and its various manifestations in contemporary society It is divided into three sections dealing respectively with defining parenthood new issues in contemporary parenting and parenting post divorce Each contributor addresses the central question What is a Parent from the perspective of his or her own discipline thus bringing together ideas about parents derived from law sociology psychology biology and criminology Despite the familiar and apparently obvious answer to this question the notion of parent emerges from the analysis as a contested concept Definitions are various and fluid parenting practices are by no means fixed and ideologies which frame who parents are and what they do are subject to disruptions from several quarters In short the essays in this book show the ways in which parent like child is a term with a shifting meaning and parenthood refers to a fluid set of social practices which are historically and culturally situated Contributors Andrew Bainham Carol Brayne Stuart Bridge Rachel Cook Shelley Day Sclater Margaret Ely Loraine Gelsthorpe Susan Golombok Jack Goody Jonathan Herring Felicia Huppert Allison James Martin Johnson Bridget Lindley Mavis Maclean Juliet Mitchell Ros Pickford Martin Richards Wendy Solomou Candida Yates

Mavis Hetherington, 2014-04-08 In this volume leading researchers offer an interesting and accessible overview of what we now know about risk and protective factors for family functioning and child adjustment in different kinds of families They explore interactions among individual familial and extrafamilial risk and protective factors in an attempt to explain the great diversity in parents and children s responses to different kinds of experiences associated with marriage divorce life in a single parent household and remarriage The Art of Family Gina Bria, 2011-11-28 It is not the lack of time that crushes our family lives it is the lack of presence overwhelmed as we are with the tasks anxieties and guilt of being in a family Between working housecleaning and parenting how do we carve out a minute for ourselves How can we give ourselves to our spouses and children in the conditions we find ourselves in Gina Bria writes This is how by being present not in every moment were tired enough but in key daily activities such as play spiritual discussions tender physical attention and little daily rituals that can see us through the pace of life today to a strong coherent lived family life With a warm compassionate tone anthropologist nutritionist and public speaker Gina Bria provides ideas for creating families that withstand the pressures of modern society The key is creating a personal family culture around the domestic rituals associated with family such as making your home your true haven from the outside world really understanding how to play with your children and in your marriage caring for each others bodies young and old and finding a spiritual path to travel together In essence Gina Bria shows us how to assign meaning to everyday tasks which builds a family that withstands conformity rejection and conflict Divorce, Separation, and Remarriage Giovanna Ganesini, Sampson Lee Blair, 2016-10-10 Divorce separation and remarriage have become a normative part of family life These changes have led to a diversification of the behaviors attitudes and norms concerning marriage and family To better comprehend these issues this volume addresses topics including marital instability step parenting and extra marital affairs among others The Limits of Marriage Gary R. Lee, 2015-04-08 This book documents and explains the remarkable decline in the American marriage rate that began about 1970 This decline has occurred in spite of the fact that married people are better off than unmarried people in many ways Many other attempts to explain the retreat from marriage blame it on culture change involving a devaluation of marriage and or on ignorance of the benefits of marriage among the unmarried population. In turn, because unmarried adults and single parent families are poorer than others, poverty and its associated problems are attributed to the failure to marry. The argument presented here is that the declining marriage rate is due to the deteriorating position of workers, particularly men, in the American economy. Not only have jobs disappeared and wages decreased, especially for the less educated, but existing jobs have become more precarious. Less educated workers can't count on having jobs in the future and can't count on earning enough to support families if they have jobs because their wages have stagnated. In this economic environment, the flexibility to change partners becomes a survival strategy for the economically marginalized population, which has been increasing in size for the past four decades. Arrangements such as cohabitation allow for this flexibility; marriage does not. This argument implies that marriage is not a realistic choice for many Americans. In fact, it is a choice that many people don't actually have. Marriages between economically marginal men and women would not eventuate in the benefits that middle class people experience when they marry and would eliminate an option they may need to survive in the face of unrelenting poverty. We won't convince these people that marriage would improve their lives because in most cases it wouldn't be true. To return the marriage rate to its pre 1970 level, we need to address the economic factors that have caused the decline.

Home, School, and Community Collaboration Kathy B. Grant, Julie A. Ray, 2018-02-27 Filled with practical suggestions and reflective opportunities, this book uses the culturally responsive family support model as a framework to prepare readers to work with children from diverse families.
