Monkeys And Apes First Discoverys:

Cassell's Natural History Peter Martin Duncan, 1883 Baboons Kevin J. Holmes, 2000 Introduces the baboon's physical characteristics, habits, food, and relationship to humans Cassell's natural history, ed. by P.M. Duncan. People's ed Cassell Ltd, 1901 A Romp Thru Science Bernie Keating, 2012-07-16 Why Science We are fascinated by discovery, who discovered what, and how. This ranges from a look outward at the night sky with scientists like Kepler, astronauts like Neil Armstrong, to physicist like Einstein, chemists like Marie Curie, and Linus Pauling, an inward look at psychologists such as Skinner and Maslow, and philosophers like Plato. Join Keating as he explores the pursuit of scientific discovery from his background as a physicist and a long career in the margins of the academic world From Where We Came Chris Young Kelly, 2021-04-18 Did you know that a significant percentage of us are part Neanderthal in our genetic makeup? So were they as smart as we are? Why and how are we different? Could we talk to them? Or more interestingly, did we? What do these questions have to do with from where we came? A comprehensive overview of how we came to be. If you're searching for answers and tired of information overload from the media, you are not alone. Fortunately, despite all the noise, evolution boils down to a few physics and math principles. A significant part of the basic process by which we evolved from molecules can be summed up with math similar to the process of boarding a city bus. Through pop culture references, personal experiences, humor, graphics, and common sense, let's explore this topic through one physicist's eyes wrapped in plain English. We will dive through evolution at the molecular and human levels, connected by cause and effect. Follow along as we explore how humans have survived and even prospered against all odds through millions of years. It should become apparent that we are all alike in every way except for minute differences in our genes. We cannot help but be motivated to find ways to better ourselves as a species. We are all blood brothers and sisters, all 7.8 billion of us, after all. Global Environments Through the Quaternary David E. Anderson, Andrew S. Goudie, Adrian G. Parker, 2007-01-25 Global Environments through the Quaternary delves into the environmental changes that have taken place during the Quaternary, the two to three million years during which man has inhabited the Earth. It is essential reading for any students seeking a balanced, objective overview of this truly interdisciplinary subject Apes and Human Evolution Russell H. Tuttle, 2014-02-17 In this masterwork, Russell H. Tuttle synthesizes a vast research literature in primate evolution and behavior to explain how apes and humans evolved in relation to one another and why humans became a bipedal tool-making culture, inventing species distinct from other hominoids. Along the way, he refutes the influential theory that men are essentially killer apes, sophisticated but instinctively aggressive and destructive beings. Situating humans in a broad context, Tuttle musters convincing evidence from morphology and recent fossil discoveries to reveal what early primates ate, where they slept, how they learned to walk upright, how brain and hand anatomy evolved simultaneously, and what else happened evolutionarily to cause humans to diverge from their closest relatives. Despite our genomic similarities with bonobos, chimpanzees and gorillas humans are unique among primates in occupying a symbolic niche of values and beliefs based on symbolically mediated cognitive processes Although apes exhibit behaviors that strongly suggest they can think salient elements of human culture speech mating proscriptions kinship structures and moral codes are symbolic systems that are not manifest in ape niches This encyclopedic volume is both a milestone in primatological research and a critique of what is known and yet to be discovered about human and ape potential Debating Humankind's Place in Nature, 1860-2000
