Montana Surrender:

A Growing Nation Robert A. Miles, 2013-08-08 This book that has been 22 years in the making is the first printing of the Robert A. Miles Collection of the Southwest History from 1831 to 1889. It is in chronological order by events and dates and is a true and revealing account of the American history of the Southwest. It is an impartial, sometimes disconcerting portrayal of the expanding United States westward. History is not always pleasant, but that is how it transpired, sometimes in those years, and this book recounts both favorable and adverse events that need to be told. This country was expanding. It was growing; there were many heroes, many battles, and many tragedies in the expansion of this country. It was like a glass of water sitting in the frigid cold. It froze and began to expand; the expansion could not be stopped, soon the glass burst. The final results were predictable and inevitable. The expansion couldn't go east because of an ocean; it could only go west to the other ocean, and that it did. This collection is about the events that transpired during the mid to late 1800s as a direct result of that westward growth. I have traveled these mountains for 7 of the 22 years in researching this book from El Paso, Texas, through Silver City, Lordsburg, Las Cruces, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, and into Apache Pass in Arizona. I've explored Carlisle Canyon and drank the water at Goat Camp spring in Goat. I journeyed through Camp Canyon, Hells Canyon, Steeple Rock Canyon, Red Rock, Crook's Peak, and more. I have followed the trails of the old Butterfield Stage Line and found an old stage way station. I have found and taken pictures of over 150 old gold and silver mines and listed their histories and listened to stories from an old miner as old as I am. What is most important is I enjoyed every minute of it. Robert A. Miles

Freight and pioneers would board steamships at St. Joseph, Missouri, and travel the Missouri River to Fort Benton. From there it was up to this road and its feeder roads to provide the people and goods necessary for settling and mining the vast wealth contained in that portion of the Rocky Mountains. Freight wagons and caravans of people would travel the road. Eventually stagecoach travel was added to the traffic along the way. Miscellaneous Documents United States. Congress. House, 1883

Discerning the Dynamics of Jeremiah 25-52 (MT) Mark O'Brien, 2020-06-01 This is the second of a two volume study of the dynamics of the MT version of the Book of Jeremiah The first volume published in 2017 analyzed chapters 1-25 and this volume will focus on chapters 25-52 of the MT version As with the first volume the aim of this one is to show the reader how by paying attention to the Dynamics of the Text namely how individual passages relate to their immediate and wider contexts a new understanding of the book emerges Rather than a loose collection of material assembled over a period of time by a variety of hands one can discern how the parts of the book combine to portray the dramatic unfolding of Jeremiah's prophetic vocation and how his relationship with God and God's people form an integral part of the book's presentation of the Word of God
