(Based on the Proceedings of the Conference on the Neural Mechanisms of the Auditory and Vestibular Systems Held at Bethesda, June 1959.) Edited by Grant L. Rasmussen ... and William F. National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, Grant Lister RASMUSSEN (and WINDLE (William Frederick)), William Frederick WINDLE, 1960 Auditory System Moshe Abeles, Göran Bredberg, Robert A. Butler, John H. Casseday, John E. Desmedt, Irving T. Diamond, Solomon D. Erulkar, E. F. Evans, Jay M. Goldberg, Moise H. Goldstein, David M. Green, Ivan M. Hunter-Duvar, Lloyd A. Jeffress, William D. Neff, William A. Yost, E. Zwicker, 2012-12-06 nerve subsequently however they concluded that the recordings had been from aberrant cells of the cochlear nucleus lying central to the glial margin of the VIII nerve GALAMBOS and DAVIS 1948 The first successful recordings from fibres of the cochlear nerve were made by TASAKI 1954 in the guinea pig These classical but necessarily limited results were greatly extended by ROSE GALAMBOS and HUGHES 1959 in the cat cochlear nucleus and by KATSUKI and co workers KATSUKI et al 1958 1961 1962 in the cat and monkey cochlear nerve Perhaps the most significant developments have been the introduction of techniques for precise control of the acoustic stimulus and the quantitative analysis of neuronal response patterns notably by the laboratories of KIANG e g GERSTEIN and KIANG 1960 KIANG et al 1962b 1965a 1967 and ROSE e g ROSE et al 1967 HIND et al 1967 These developments have made possible a large number of quantitative investigations of the behaviour of representative numbers of neurons at these levels of the peripheral auditory system under a wide variety of stimulus conditions Most of the findings discussed herein have been obtained on anaesthetized cats Where comparative data are available substantially similar results have been obtained in other mammalian species e g guinea pig monkey rat Certain significant differences have been noted in lizards frogs and fish as would be expected from the different morphologies of their organs of hearing e g Sensory Processes at the Neuronal and Behavioral Levels G. V. Gersuni, 2013-09-11 Sensory Processes at the Neuronal and Behavioral Levels is a collection of papers dealing with problems of functional organization of the visual and auditory systems One paper points out that neurophysiological and psychophysiological research in vision can be combined The paper compares the cat's contrast stimulation by Hermann's grid that elicits neuronal responses of cells with concentric and simple fields as being similar to the subjective vision in man Another paper addresses the sources of information in the perception of visual spatial relations For example eye movements as the source of information about visual spatial relations are refuted The visual system already estimates accurately the spatial properties of an object before the onset of eye movements Another paper discusses certain concepts about the mechanisms of the auditory system One paper presents the results of an experiment involving some adult cats They were lightly anesthetized and their responses were recorded when the inferior colliculus or the left and right auditory cortex were stimulated electrically Another paper analyzes the mechanism used by insect in recognizing species specific songs This book is suitable for neurophysiologists neurochemists and researchers dealing with physiological acoustics and the psychophysics of the visual system
