Talking Books James Carter, 2013-01-11 Talking Books sets out to show how some of the leading children's authors of the day respond to these and other similar questions. The authors featured are Neil Ardley, Ian Beck, Helen Cresswell, Gillian Cross, Terry Deary, Berlie Doherty, Alan Durant, Brian Moses, Philip Pullman, Celia Rees, Norman Silver, Jacqueline Wilson, and Benjamin Zephaniah. They discuss with great enthusiasm their childhood reading habits, how they came to be published, how they write on a daily basis, how a particular book came together, a type of writing that they are especially known for. Through in-depth interviews, they each reveal their approach to their craft. Much is known and spoken of the product that is the children's book, but it is rare that writers are given the opportunity to talk at length about the process of writing for children. Talking Books redresses the balance by presenting a wide selection of authors of fiction, non-fiction, and poetry reflecting upon the joys and challenges of the craft, creativity, and process of writing for children.

She also provides guidance for planning and developing ideas with colleagues and with children, and offers suggestions for teaching strategies with photocopiable sheets and formats, and ways to evaluate teaching. Separate sections deal with reading, writing, speaking, and listening, and these different threads are drawn together in sections on knowledge about language, including spelling, grammar, and punctuation, and study of texts, including media, poetry, drama, response to literature, and the use of non-fiction texts. The final section deals with policy and schemes of work. Each chapter also offers information on assessment, recording, and reporting, linked to scales of progression, frameworks for screening, and supporting children who have difficulties with English, gender, working with parents, linguistic and cultural diversity. Eve Bearne teaches at Homerton College, Cambridge.

Voices Off Morag Styles, Eve Bearne, Victor Watson, 1996 The culmination of a trilogy on children literature that began with After Alice and The Prose and the Passion The 20 essays address a variety of genres and issues both in contemporary contexts and in the past Among the contributors are novelists Jan Mark Jill Paton Walsh and John Rowe Townsend others include artists and booksellers Their topics range from a bookseller s view of wasting money the revenge of the teenage horror and Aesop for children to reading picture books letter writing picture books as small portable galleries the masks of the narrator and critical literacy as a dangerous underground movement      Literacy and Popular Culture Jackie

Marsh, Elaine Millard, 2000-12-22 Most children engage with a range of popular cultural forms outside of school. Their experiences with film, television, computer games and other cultural texts are very motivating but often find no place within the official curriculum where children are usually restricted to conventional forms of literacy. This book demonstrates how to use children's interests in popular culture to develop literacy in the primary classroom. The authors provide a theoretical basis for such work through an exploration of related theory and research drawing from the fields of education, sociology and cultural studies. Teachers are often concerned about issues of sexism, racism, violence and commercialism within the discourse of children's media texts. The authors address each of these areas and show how such issues can be explored directly with children. They present classroom examples of the use of popular culture to develop literacy in schools and include interviews with children and teachers regarding this work. This book is relevant to all teachers and students who want to develop their understanding of the nature and potential role of popular culture within the curriculum. It will also be useful to language coordinators, advisers, teacher educators and anyone interested in media education in the 5-12 age range.
