Manufacturing Consent Michael Burawoy,2012-10-15 Since the 1930s industrial sociologists have tried to answer the question Why do workers not work harder Michael Burawoy spent ten months as a machine operator in a Chicago factory trying to answer different but equally important questions Why do workers work as hard as they do Why do workers routinely consent to their own exploitation Manufacturing Consent the result of Burawoy s research combines rich ethnographical description with an original Marxist theory of the capitalist labor process Manufacturing Consent is unique among studies of this kind because Burawoy has been able to analyze his own experiences in relation to those of Donald Roy who studied the same factory thirty years earlier Burawoy traces the technical political and ideological changes in factory life to the transformations of the market relations of the plant it is now part of a multinational corporation and to broader movements since World War II in industrial relations Theory of Societal Constitutionalism David Sciulli,1992 The author argues that the existing conceptual frameworks of political and social theory restrict both theorists and empirical researchers to a narrow definition of authoritarianism that focuses on governmental structure and fails to take account of forms of social control exercised outside the governmental sphere Rather than define authoritarianism primarily by contrast to liberal democracy Sciulli argues we need to broaden our conception of authoritarianism to include social authoritarianism referring to social control imposed by private organizations and institutions such as business corporations and professional associations In this book Sciulli develops an alternative conceptual framework which he calls the theory of societal constitutionalism and he explains how the theory can be used to assess whether social order in a society whether democratic or authoritarian in political rule is characterized by some degree of social authoritarianism The book will be important reading for theorists in sociology political science and legal studies Max Weber and Contemporary Capitalism N.
