We Count, We Matter Christopher Steed, 2018-02-05 This book examines the meaning of Brexit the election of Trump and the rising tide of populist revolt on the right amidst the collapse of the left Exploring the reaction against the establishment or the system the author contends that we are witnessing a new divide between those who wish to see an interconnected world and those who seek distance as transport and technology shrink the world we witness a backlash that favours protectionism and opposes immigration Distance is the new frontier for some remote players are rejected in favour of identities closer to home This divide plays out in relation to the notion of face as individuals react to faceless organisations and processes such as globalisation and automation responding to a sense of alienation on social media and developing a conception of themselves as networked individuals Thus we move towards a type of society characterised not by honour and dishonour or right and wrong but by voice and choice A fascinating and very accessible analysis of the divisions and transformations that have come to dominate the contemporary landscape this book will appeal to political leaders and social scientists with interests in globalisation social movements and social theory
