Police And Citizen Perceptions Of Police Power:

Police and Citizen Perceptions of Police Power Gina Pisano-Robertiello, 2000      Police and Citizen Perceptions of Police Power Gina Robertiello, 2004 This book explores the perceptions of police power by citizens and by the police officers themselves Using a multi variant survey on police citizen interactions in the urban environment of New Jersey the author brings into focus the difficulties involved in police citizen encounters where the application of police discretion and power is often cognitively and behaviorally misunderstood within larger community understandings      Police Powers and Citizens' Rights Layla Skinns, 2019-01-31 Police detention is the place where suspects are taken whilst their case is investigated and a case disposal decision is reached It is also a largely hidden but vital part of police work and an under explored aspect of police studies This book provides a much needed comparative perspective on police detention It examines variations in the relationship between police powers and citizens rights inside police detention in cities in four jurisdictions in Australia England Ireland and the US exploring in particular the relative influence of discretion the law and other rule structures on police practices as well as seeking to explain why these variations arise and what they reveal about state citizen relations in neoliberal democracies This book draws on data collected in a multi method study in five cities in Australia England Ireland and the US This entailed 480 hours of observation as well as 71 semi structured interviews with police officers and detainees Aside from filling in the gaps in the existing research this book makes a significant contribution to debates about the links between police practices and neoliberalism In particular it examines the police not just the prison as a site of neoliberal governance By combining the empirical with the theoretical the main themes of the book are likely to be of utmost importance to contemporary discussions about police work in increasingly unequal societies As a result it will also have a wide appeal to scholars and students particularly in criminology and criminal justice      Evidence-Based Practice Manual Albert R. Fox, 2023-10-31 Now more than ever the criminal justice system and the programs policies and practices within it are subject to increased public scrutiny due to well founded concerns over effectiveness fairness and potential unintended consequences One of the best means to address these concerns is to draw upon evidence based approaches demonstrated to be effective through empirical research rather than through anecdote standard practice or professional experience alone National Institute of Justice 2011 The goal of this book is to describe the most useful actionable and evidence based solutions to many of the most pressing questions in the criminal justice system today Specifically this edited volume contains brief and accessible summaries of the best available research alongside detailed descriptions of evidence based practices across different areas of the criminal justice system It is written so that practitioners and researchers alike can use the text as reference tool in their work and in training the new generation of individuals working to improve the system Researchers and practitioners in many areas of criminal justice crime prevention policing courts prosecution defendants judges corrections sanctions and sentencing can reference specific chapters in this book to guide their policy and practice decisions Although theory is a guide for the practices described the chapters will address practical issues in implementation and action This book overcomes the limitations of previous criminal justice practice books in that it is written as a practice resource and reference guide and spans practices and policies across different sectors of the criminal justice system from prevention to policing to sanctions and corrections Each chapter contains a list of action items based upon the best available scientific research that can be implemented in practice to address key issues and long standing challenges in the criminal justice system     Measuring Police Subcultural Perceptions Zheng Chen, 2015-11-21 Using survey data collected from 382

Police-Citizen Relations Across the World Dietrich Oberwittler,Sebastian Roché,2017-10-02 Police citizen relations are in the public spotlight following outbursts of anger and violence Such clashes often happen as a response to fatal police shootings racial or ethnic discrimination or the mishandling of mass protests But even in such cases citizens assessment of the police differs considerably across social groups This raises the question of the sources and impediments of citizens trust and support for police Why are police citizen relations much better in some countries than in others Are police minority relations doomed to be strained And which police practices and policing policies generate trust and legitimacy Research on police legitimacy has been centred on US experiences and relied on procedural justice as the main theoretical approach This book questions whether this approach is suitable and sufficient to understand public attitudes towards the police across different countries and regions of the world This volume shows that the impact of macro level conditions of societal cleavages and of state and political institutions on police citizen relations has too often been neglected in contemporary research Building on empirical studies from around the world as well as cross national comparisons this volume considerably expands current perspectives on the sources of police legitimacy and citizens trust in the police Combining the analysis of micro level interactions with a perspective on the contextual framework and varying national conditions the contributions to this book illustrate the strength of a broadened perspective and lead us to ask how specific national frameworks shape the experiences of policing

Handbook of Scales for Research in Crime and Delinquency Stanley L. Brodsky,H. O'Neal Smitherman,2013-06-29 In contrast to the great diversity of other crime and delinquency research measures those drawn from the CPI and the MMPI have much in common They are taken from standardized instruments administered under controlled conditions with known stimulus properties and validity indicators The CPI and MMPI measures will frequently be instruments of choice in research on personality and psychodynamics of offenders CHAPTER 6 Law Enforcement and Police This chapter encompasses a variety of scales that refer to law enforcement or police agencies Unfortunately in the case of many scales these terms are used simply with the assumption that the respondents understand the concepts and use them in the same way as researchers In other cases however specific policing functions are identified and described As noted in Chapter 3 a standard order of scale presentation is followed First the attitudes scales are presented followed by the behavior ratings per sonality measures milieu ratings prediction measures and finally the very broad category of description After the reviews are completed within each subcategory other scales in that category are listed See Chapter 2 for a description of the criteria that were used in deciding upon whether a scale would be reviewed or simply listed Listed scales are presented by title and bibliographic reference followed by a very brief description

Hands Up, Don't Shoot Jennifer E. Cobbina, 2019-07-30 Understanding the explosive protests over police killings and the legacy of racism Following the high profile deaths of eighteen year old Michael Brown in Ferguson Missouri and twenty five year old Freddie Gray in Baltimore Maryland both cities erupted in protest over the unjustified homicides of unarmed black males at the hands of police officers These local tragedies and the protests surrounding them assumed national significance igniting fierce debate about the fairness and efficacy of the American criminal justice system Yet outside the gaze of mainstream attention how do local residents and protestors in Ferguson and Baltimore understand their own experiences with race place and policing In Hands Up Don t Shoot Jennifer Cobbina draws on in depth interviews with nearly two hundred residents of Ferguson and Baltimore conducted within two months of the deaths of Brown and Gray She examines how protestors in both cities understood their experiences with the police how those experiences influenced their perceptions of policing what galvanized Black Lives Matter as a social movement and how policing tactics during demonstrations influenced subsequent mobilization decisions among protesters Ultimately she humanizes people s deep and abiding anger underscoring how a movement emerged to denounce both racial biases by police and the broader economic and social system that has stacked the deck against young black civilians Hands Up Don t Shoot is a remarkably current on the ground assessment of the powerful protestor driven movement around race justice and policing in America

Policing for Peace Matthew Nanes, 2021-11-18 In communities plagued by conflict along ethnic racial and religious lines how does the representation of previously marginalized groups in the police affect crime and security Drawing on new evidence from policing in Iraq and Israel Policing for Peace shows that an inclusive police force provides better services and reduces conflict but not in the ways we might assume Including members of marginalized groups in the police improves civilians expectations of how the police and government will treat them both now and in the future These expectations are enhanced when officers are organized into mixed rather than homogeneous patrols Iraqis indicate feeling most secure when policed by mixed officers even more secure than they feel when policed by members of their own group In Israel increases in police officer diversity are associated with lower crime victimization for both Arab and Jewish citizens In many cases inclusive policing benefits all citizens not just those from marginalized groups      Community Policing Today Deborah A.
