Policies Organizations For Urban Water:

Policies and Organizations for Urban Water Management V. A. Koelzer, B. A. Bigler, 1975 Policies and Organizations for Urban Water Management Victor A. Koelzer, Alexander B. Bigler, 1975 Urban Water Policies and Decision-making in the Detroit Metropolitan Region George M. Walker, 1970 The Private Sector and Water Pricing in Efficient Urban Water Management Cecilia Tortajada, Francisco González-Gómez, Asit K. Biswas, Miguel A. García-Rubio, 2016-01-08 This book focuses on participation of the public and private sectors in urban water management and on the role of water pricing It discusses in depth topics such as public choices of urban water service management dynamics of privatization and regulation of water services adoption of water demand instruments impacts of price and non price policies on residential water demand quality of water services lessons from not for profit public private partnerships and critical examinations of models and projections of demands in water utility resource planning in England and Wales Appropriateness of water prices and tariffs in achieving socially desirable outcomes is also analyzed and a global survey of urban water tariffs is approached with a focus on sustainability efficiency and fairness This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Management Pro-Poor Strategies in Urban Water Provisioning Akosua Sarpong Boakye-Ansah, 2021-02-25 Water utilities are the main instrument for countries to achieve universal service coverage In pursuing universal service coverage water utilities have turned to pro poor water services to extend water services in low income areas This thesis discusses the use of pro poor water services by water utilities in Kenya with the intention of highlighting the dimensions of the approach that require attention of policy makers and practitioners when engaging with the concept Based on the analysis of the technologies financial and organisational arrangements associated with the pro poor concept this thesis shows that the use of pro poor strategies allows water utilities to reduce the risks of servicing low income areas while still claiming to fulfil their mandate of providing access to all in a commercially viable manner The analysis also shows that rather than a decision of the water utility the choice for pro poor strategies emerges as the result of a consensus or compromise between the different actors that constitute the broader institutional environment in which water utilities operate The thesis concludes that while pro poor water services may serve the interests of water utilities and other stakeholders in the absence of well directed subsidies and proper monitoring they will not result in low income households benefiting from more affordable and reliable access to water Data Requirements for Integrated Urban Water Management Tim Fletcher, Ana Deletic, 2008-01-07 Integrated urban water management relies on data allowing us to analyse understand and predict the behaviour of the individual water cycle components and their interactions The concomitant monitoring of the complex of urban water system elements makes it possible to grasp the entirety of relations among the various components of the urban water cycle and so develop a holistic approach to solving urban water problems Data Requirements for Integrated Urban Water Managements issuing from UNESCO s International Hydrological

Programme project on this topic is geared towards improving integrated urban water management by providing guidance on the collection validation storage assessment and utilization of the relevant data The first part of this volume describes general principles for developing a monitoring programme in support of sustainable urban water management The second part examines in detail the monitoring of individual water cycle components Two case studies in the final part illustrating attempts to deliver an integrated monitoring system help demonstrate the fundamental principles of sustainable urban water management elaborated here Water Governance, Policy and Knowledge Transfer Cheryl De Boer, Joanne Vinke-de Kruijf, Gül Özerol, Hans Th. A. Bressers, 2013-05-29 In an increasingly global community of researchers and practitioners new technologies and communication means have made the transfer of policies from one country or region to another progressively more prevalent There has been a lot of attention in the field of public administration paid to policy transfer and institutional transplantation This book aims to create a better understanding of such transfers in the water management sector These include the adoption of modern water management concepts such as integrated water resources management and forms of water governance which are strongly promoted and sometimes also imposed by various international organizations Transfers also occur within the scope of development aid or for the purpose of creating business opportunities In addition many research organisations consultancies and governmental agencies are involved in cross border work The purpose of this book is therefore to present practical examples of the transfer of modern water management from one locality to another and to critically discuss the transferability of policy and governance concepts by analysing the contextual needs and factors Case studies are included from North America Europe the Middle East and Asia It is argued that in many cases context matters in water management and that there is no panacea or universal concept that can be applied to all countries or regions with different political economic cultural and technological contexts Yet it is also shown that some countries are facing pressing and similar water management issues that cut across national borders and hence the transfer of knowledge may be beneficial Urban Water Engineering and Management Mohammad Karamouz, Ali Moridi, 2025-09-29

Urban Water Governance in Postcolonial Zimbabwe Abraham R. Matamanda, Tazviona R. Gambe, Johannes I. Bhanye, Tafadzwa C. Maramura, Oratilwe Annastacia Khoza, 2025-09-04 This book focuses on urban water supply and governance in the Global South using urban Zimbabwe as a case study to provide insights and perspectives into the realities of the water governance Applying a resilience and sustainability perspective we argue that fragmentation of responsibilities between various institutions the difficulty of coordination at various levels and the politics centered on water supply constrain effective water governance in Zimbabwe This has resulted in a downward spiral in urban water services in Zimbabwe s urban centers Additionally the innovative nature of this study is to draw from an often neglected dimension in urban water governance which is the political ecology which brings into perspective the varying interests associated with environmental contests and conflicts that influence water allocation and sharing among urban areas by the public sector Therefore this book dwells on understanding the politics economic and ecology of water governance through an interdisciplinary lens This analysis is critical for this study because Zimbabwe s current state of obsolete water infrastructure has also had a negative impact on the supply of high quality portable water services to the public in urban areas This book will be a critical read for academic and professionals in the fields of urban geographers planners sociologists and water experts It will also be useful for undergraduate and postgraduate students from Geography Urban and regional Planning Political Science Development Studies and Economics

Indian Water Policy at the Crossroads: Resources, Technology and Reforms Vishal Narain,Annasamy Narayanamoorthy,2016-01-12 This book reviews and analyzes emerging challenges in water policy governance and institutions in India Recent times have seen the contours of water policy shaped by new discourses and narratives there has been a pluralization of the state and a changing balance of power among the actors who influence the formulation of water policy Discourses on gender mainstreaming and Integrated Water Resource Management IWRM are influential though they have often remained rhetorical and difficult to put into practice Debate over property rights reform and inter linking of rivers has been polarized At the same time there has been a rising disenchantment with policy initiatives in participatory irrigation management cleaning up of water bodies and pollution control Fast depletion of groundwater resources and the importance of adopting new irrigation methods are getting increased focus in the recent policy dialogue The contributors review current debate on these and other subjects shaping the governance of water resources and take stock of new policy developments The book examines the experience of policy implementation and shows where important weaknesses still lie The authors present a roadmap for the future and discuss the potential of alternative approaches for tackling emerging challenges A case is made for greater emphasis on a discursive analysis of water policy to examine underlying policy processes The contributors observe that the ongoing democratization of water governance coupled with the multiplication of stresses on water will create a more visible demand for platforms for negotiation conflict
