A Cultural History of Education in the Age of Empire

Heather Ellis, 2023-04-20 A Cultural History of Education in the Age of Empire presents essays that examine the following key themes of the period church religion and morality knowledge media and communications children and childhood family community and sociability learners and learning teachers and teaching literacies and life histories The period between 1800 and 1920 was pivotal in the global history of education and witnessed many of the key developments which still shape the aims context and lived experience of education today These developments included the spread of state sponsored mass elementary education the efforts of missionary societies and other voluntary movements the resistance agency and counter initiatives developed by indigenous and other colonized peoples as well as the increasingly complex cross border encounters and movements which characterized much educational activity by the end of this period An essential resource for researchers scholars and students in history literature culture and education Gender, Colonialism and Education Joyce Goodman, Jane Martin, 2013-04-15 An examination of the ways in which gender intersects with informal and formal education in England Germany Indonesia South Africa USA and the Netherlands The book looks at various issues including citizenship authority colonialism and education and the construction of national identities No Distinction Of Sex? Carol Dyhouse, 2016-09-17 In 1939 women represented nearly one quarter of the student population in British universities Though tantamount to a social revolution in the eyes of many contemporaries the process has received scant attention from historians Whilst prejudice and hostility towards women lingered on in Oxford and Cambridge it has often been assumed that the female presence was welcomed elsewhere The younger civic universities commonly advertised themselves as making no distinction of sex in admissions appointments or in educational policy This work of social history based on extensive archival research examines the truth of these claims and explores the experiences of women teachers and students in this period

Probation and the Policing of the Private Sphere in Britain, 1907-1962 Louise Settle, 2021-12-16 In 1907 the Probation of Offenders Act introduced a system which allowed offenders to be rehabilitated at home under supervision rather than being sent to prison This book explores how the probation system was used to regulate the private lives emotions and behaviours of people in Britain between 1907 and 1962 Access to the private sphere both physically and psychologically meant that the probation system was particularly well suited to offences related to intimate and personal relations With each chapter focusing on a particular type of offence including wife assault attempted suicide male sexual offences and female prostitution Settle shows how experiences of the probationers were shaped by the everyday practices of probation and assesses the extent to which probation was successful in rehabilitating offenders and protecting the public Also examining the role of probation officers in marriage reconciliation the book explores how ideas about gender and domesticity were crucial to both the process of rehabilitation and the endeavour to make the home a safe environment in which these domestic ideals could come into fruition Probation and Policing of the Private Sphere in Britain enriches our understanding of the role of the state in policing monitoring and promoting the well being of its citizens and explores the nuances of probation's dual purpose as a form of social control as well as a social work service designed to help the most vulnerable in society Sex for Sale in Scotland Louise Settle, 2016-05-31 Sex for Sale in Scotland examines the various formal and informal methods that were used to police female prostitution in Edinburgh and Glasgow between 1900 and 1939 and explores how these policies influenced women's lives. The book uses a rich combination of police probation magistrates' poor law and voluntary organisations' records to demonstrate how these organisations combined to establish a penal welfare approach towards regulating prostitution in Scotland. By mapping the geography of prostitution, the book argues that prostitution was not forced into the outskirts of society either physically or socially. The book examines both indoor and outdoor prostitution and the relationships that developed among the wide range of people who profited from commercial sex. Particular emphasis is placed on the experiences of the women involved in prostitution, highlighting the poverty, exploitation and abuse they faced, but also the ways in which they negotiated these dangers. This social history of prostitution maps how the organisation of policing and experiences of prostitution developed in an ever-changing urban landscape during a period of extraordinary developments in technology and entertainment alongside the wider socio-economic changes brought about by the First World War.

Crimes Of Outrage Shani D'Cruze, 2024-11-01 This provocative study explores the subordination of Victorian working women in the home, neighborhood and workplace. Drawing on courtroom proceedings, D'Cruze reveals that women's interest in speaking out against violent crimes often coincides with the court's agenda to discipline the unruly behavior of working men. However, while women used local courts to vindicate their reputation, before their neighbors doing so often compromised their respectability in the eyes of the public.

Gender and Crime in Modern Europe Margaret L. Arnot, Cornelia Osborne, 1999 This work explores the construction of gender norms and examines how they were reflected and reinforced by legal institutional practices in Europe in this period, taking a gendered approach. Criminal prosecution and punishment are discussed in relation to the victims and perpetrators. This volume investigates various representations of femininity by assessing female experiences including wife beating, divorce, abortion, prostitution, property crime and embezzlement at the workplace. In addition, issues such as neglect, sexual abuse and the invention of the juvenile offender are analyzed.

Juvenile Nation Stephanie Olsen, 2014-01-16 In the first five months of the Great War, one million men volunteered to fight. Yet by the end of 1915, the British government realized that conscription would be required. Why did so many enlist and conversely, why so few? Focusing on analyses of widely felt emotions related to moral and domestic duty, Juvenile Nation broaches these questions in new ways. Juvenile Nation examines how religious and secular youth groups, the juvenile periodical press and a burgeoning new group of child psychologists, social workers and other experts affected society's perception of a new problem character: the adolescent. By what means should this character be turned into a fit citizen? Considering qualities such as loyalty, character, temperance, manliness, fatherhood and piety, Stephanie Olsen discusses the idea of an informal education focused on building character through emotional control and how this education was seen as key to shaping the future citizenry of Britain and the Empire Juvenile Nation recasts the militarism of the 1880s onwards as part of an emotional outpouring based on association to family to community and to Christian cultural continuity Significantly the same emotional responses explain why so many men turned away from active militarism with duty to family and community perhaps thought to have been best carried out at home By linking the historical study of the emotions with an examination of the individual's place in society Olsen provides an important new insight on how a generation of young men was formed Gender, Civic Culture and Consumerism Alan Kidd, David Nicholls, 1999-10-08 The labour movement in Lebanon Power on hold narrates the history of the Lebanese labour movement from the early twentieth century to today Bou Khater demonstrates that trade unionism in the country has largely been a failure for reasons including state interference tactical co-optation and the strategic use of sectarianism by an oligarchic elite together with the structural weakness of a service based laissez faire economy Drawing on a vast body of Arabic language primary sources and difficult to access archives the book's conclusions are significant not only for trade unionism but also for new forms of workers organisations and social movements in Lebanon and beyond The Lebanese case study presented here holds significant implications for the wider Arab world and for comparative studies of labour This authoritative history of the labour movement in Lebanon is vital reading for scholars of trade unionism Lebanese politics and political economy Cohabitation, 1990 Regulating Sexuality Leanne McCormick, 2009 This is a groundbreaking examination of the attempts to regulate female sexuality in twentieth century Northern Ireland which opens up new and exciting areas of a previously neglected history A wide ranging study it explores the sexual experiences of women in the context of the distinctive religious political and social circumstances of Northern Ireland during the twentieth century The commonality of attitudes of the Catholic Churches toward the control of female sexuality is revealed along with the similarity of views concerning female behavior While the ways in which various authorities tried to control female behavior are explored it is also argued that women were not simply victims but employed a variety of survival strategies and active agency no matter how difficult their circumstances were This work will appeal not only to an academic audience but also to non academic readers interested in a new and exciting view of Northern Ireland's past Residential Schools and Indigenous Peoples Stephen Minton, 2019-10-08 Residential Schools and Indigenous Peoples provides an extended multi country focus on the transnational phenomenon of genocide of Indigenous peoples through residential schooling It analyses how such abusive systems were legitimised and positioned as benevolent during the late nineteenth century and examines Indigenous and non Indigenous agency in the possibilities for process of truth restitution reconciliation and reclamation The book examines the immediate and legacy effects that residential schooling had on Indigenous children who were removed from their families and communities in order to be educated away from their savage backgrounds into the civilised ways of the colonising societies It brings together Indigenous and non Indigenous authors from Aotearoa New Zealand Australia Greenland Ireland Norway the United Kingdom and the United States in telling the stories
