Political Power In Pre Colonial Buganda:

Political Power in Pre-colonial Buganda Richard J. Reid, 2002 Buganda was one of the most favoured of East Africa's inter-lacustrine kingdoms. Blessed with fertile and well-watered soil capable of supporting a relatively dense population, it became a major regional power by the mid-19th century. North America: Ohio University Press; Uganda: Fountain Publishers.

African Political Systems Revisited Aleksandar Bošković, Günther Schlee, 2022-04-08 Reexamining a classical work of social anthropology, African Political Systems (1940) edited by Fortes and Evans Pritchard, this book looks at the colonial and academic context from which the work arose as well as its reception and its subject matter and looks at how the work can help with analysis of current politics in Africa. This book critically reflects upon the history of anthropology. It also contributes to a political anthropology which is aware of its antecedents, self-reflexive as a discipline conscious of pitfalls and biases and able to locate itself in its academic, social and political environment.

Crisis of Legitimacy and Political Violence in Uganda, 1890 to 1979 Ogenga Otunnu, 2016-12-26 This book demonstrates that societies experiencing prolonged and severe crises of legitimacy are prone to intense and persistent political violence. The most significant factor accounting for the persistence of intense political violence in Uganda is the severe crisis of legitimacy of the state, its institutions, political incumbents and their challengers. This crisis of legitimacy, which is shaped by both internal and external forces, past and present, accounts for the remarkable continuity in the history of political violence since the construction of the state.

A History of Modern Uganda Richard J. Reid, 2017-02-17 This book is the first major study in several decades to consider Uganda as a nation from its precolonial roots to the present day. Here Richard J. Reid examines the political, economic and social history of Uganda, providing a unique and wide-ranging examination of its turbulent and dynamic past for all those studying Uganda's place in African history and African politics. Reid identifies and examines key points of rupture and transition in Uganda's history, emphasising dramatic political and social change in the precolonial era, especially during the nineteenth century, and he also examines the continuing repercussions of these developments in the colonial and postcolonial periods. By considering the ways in which historical culture and consciousness have been ever-present in political discourse, art and literature, and social relationships, Reid defines the true extent of Uganda's viable national history.

The Palgrave Handbook of African Politics, Governance and Development Samuel Ojo Oloruntoba, Toyin Falola, 2017-10-10 This handbook constitutes a single collection of well-researched articles and essays on African politics, governance and development from the pre-colonial through colonial to the post-colonial eras. Over the course of these interconnected periods, African politics have evolved with varied experiences across different parts of the continent. As politics is embedded both in the economy and the society, Africa has witnessed some changes in politics, economics, demography and its relations with the world in ways that require in-depth analysis. This work provides an opportunity for old and new scholars to engage in the universe of the debate around African politics, governance and development and will serve as a ready reference material for students, researchers, policy makers and investors that are concerned with these issues A Military History of Africa Timothy J. Stapleton, 2013-10-21 A detailed and thorough chronological overview of the history of warfare and military structures in Africa covering ancient times to the present day A Military History of Africa achieves a daunting task it synthesizes decades of specialized academic research and literature including the most recent material to offer an accessible survey of Africa's military history from the earliest times to the present day The first volume examines the precolonial period beginning with warfare in ancient North Africa including ancient Egypt and Carthage and continues through the cavalry based Muslim empires of the trans Sahara trade and the wars of the slave trade in West and East Africa The second volume focuses on the wars of European colonial conquest and African resistance during the late 19th century African participation in both world wars and the early violent struggles for independence from the 1950s and early 1960s The third volume explores warfare in postcolonial Africa including coverage of the impact of the global Cold War conflicts in Southern Africa from the 1960s to 1980s the development of postcolonial African armed forces and civil wars sparked by the discovery of precious resources such as diamonds in Sierra Leone Readers of this three volume work will understand how warfare and military structures have been consistently central to the development of African societies Before Colonization Charles R. Butcher, Ryan D. Griffiths, 2025-07-08 Prior to European colonization the world was thickly populated with hundreds of independent states and vibrant regional state systems Yet these states are typically excluded from traditional international relations scholarship which has mostly focused on the European experience This book provides a groundbreaking comparative analysis of non Western states and state systems in the nineteenth century Using an original data set on independent states during this period Charles R Butcher and Ryan D Griffiths answer fundamental questions such as how many states there were when they arose and when they died documenting the large number of states that were extinguished as a consequence of European colonialism They explore the structure of nineteenth century state systems in East Asia South Asia maritime Southeast Asia and West Africa examining the effects of war trade and interaction capacity Through these case studies Butcher and Griffiths provide novel perspectives on longstanding debates over state centralization and the choice between indirect and direct forms of rule Shedding new light on the dynamics of non Western interstate relations during the nineteenth century Before Colonization reveals striking similarities between state systems across diverse historical settings Africa and World War II Judith Ann-Marie Byfield, Carolyn A. Brown, Timothy Parsons, Ahmad Alawad Sikainga, 2015-04-20 This volume offers a fresh perspective on Africa's central role in the Allied victory in World War II Its detailed case studies from all parts of Africa enable us to understand how African communities sustained the Allied war effort and how they were transformed in the process Together the chapters provide a continent wide perspective Communal Labor in Colonial Kenya O. Okia, 2012-07-25 This book advances research into the government forced labor used widely in colonial Kenya from 1930 to 1963 after the passage of the International Labor Organization's Forced Labour Convention While the 1930 Convention intended to mark the suppression of forced labor practices various exemptions meant that many coercive labor practices continued in colonial territories Focusing on East Africa and the Kenya Colony this book shows how the colonial administration was able to exploit the exemption clause for communal labor thus ensuring the mobilization of African labor for infrastructure development As an exemption communal labor was not defined as forced labor but instead justified as a continuation of traditional African and community labor practices Despite this ideological justification the book shows that communal labour was indeed an intensification of coercive labor practices and one that penalized Africans for non compliance with fines or imprisonment The use of forced labor before and after the passage of the Convention is examined with a focus on its use during World War II as well as in efforts to combat soil erosion in the rural African reserve areas in Kenya The exploitation of female labor the Mau Mau war of the 1950s civilian protests and the regeneration of communal labor as harambee after independence are also discussed The Names of the Python David L. Schoenbrun,2021-05-11 David Schoenbrun examines groupwork the imaginative labor that people do to constitute themselves as communities in an iconic and influential region in East Africa The Names of the Python supplements and redirects current debates about ethnicity in ex colonial Africa and beyond

Examines the historical political religious and social dynamics of Muslim minority status in Uganda and important themes of pre and post colonial political community religion and national identity Between 2012 and 2016 several Muslim clerics were murdered in Uganda there is still no consensus as to who was responsible In this book Joseph Kasule seeks to explain this by examining the colonial and postcolonial history of the Muslim minority and questions of Muslim identity within a non Muslim state Challenging prevalent scholarship that has homogenized Muslims political identity Kasule demonstrates that Muslim responses to power have been varied and multiple Beginning with the pre colonial political community in Buganda and Muteesa I s attempted Islamization of the country using Islam as a centralizing ideology the author discusses how the political status of Islam and Muslims in Uganda has been defined under successive regimes Muteesa I s Islamization faltered when Christianity entered Buganda in the latter half of the 19th century resulting in division between Muslim and Christian sections The colonial period created a new type of political project that defined the Muslim question as one of representation and Kasule discusses how this laid the foundation for a politics of Muslim containment within a predominantly Christian power He examines contrasting urban based Muslim organizations and rural expressions of Islam tension between representative claims of Muslim leaderships within the demand for Muslim autonomy and the rise of new reform groups As these splits turned violent new Muslim publics emerged around opposing centres of Muslim power which sought different resolutions to their minority situation East Africa Kenya Uganda Tanzania Rwanda Burundi Makerere Institute of Social Research

The Right to Rule Bruce Gilley, 2009-03-03 Popular perceptions of a state's legitimacy are inextricably bound to its ability to rule Vast military and material reserves cannot counter the power of a citizen's belief and the more widespread the crisis of a state's legitimacy the greater the threat to its stability Even such established democracies as France and India are losing their moral claims over society while such highly illiberal states as China and Iran enjoy strong showings of public support Through a remarkable fusion of empirical research and theory Bruce Gilley makes clear the link between political consent and political rule Fixing a definition of legitimacy that is both general and particular he is able to study the role of legitimacy as it has been maintained and lost in a diverse selection of societies He begins by detailing the origins of state legitimacy and the methods governments have used to wield it best He then considers the habits of less successful states exploring how the process works across different styles of government Gilley's unique approach merges a broad study of legitimacy and performance in seventy two states with a detailed empirical analysis of the mechanisms of legitimation The results are tested on a case study of Uganda a country that after 1986 began to recover from decades of civil war Considering a range of explanations of other domestic and international phenomena as well Gilley ultimately argues that because of its evident real world importance legitimacy should occupy a central place in political analysis

The Political Logic of Cultural Revival Amanda Lea Robinson, 2024-11-04 Since 2008 prominent members of the Lhomwe ethnic group a large but politically marginalized community in Malawi have waged an aggressive campaign to revive their lost cultural heritage including their language names foods and dances Existing research has linked such processes of inventing tradition to the strategic actions of political elites who benefit from mobilizing members of marginalized ethnic communities for political ends Yet because existing research has focused primarily on elite incentives we know less about how such elite led efforts translate into lasting cultural change and active political support among regular people The Political Logic of Cultural Revival through an in depth study of the Lhomwe revival argues that political elites invest in such revivals when doing so will bear political returns via increased ethnic visibility Ethnopolitical leaders benefit from having the identity of their group members easily visible to others because such visibility ties those individuals fate to that of the larger group Elite led cultural revivals serve as a powerful tool for reifying distinctive group characteristics and incentivizing the adoption of related ethnic markers by 1 engendering demand for cultural distinctiveness by stoking group based pride and 2 supplying the means to achieve it through explicit cultural instruction Using a plethora of original data sources The Political Logic of Cultural Revival provides a deep description of the re invention of a lost culture as well as a general theory about how ethnic visibility is related to the practice of ethnic politics Oxford Studies in African Politics and International Relations is a series for scholars and students working on African politics and International Relations and related disciplines Volumes concentrate on contemporary developments in African political science political economy and International Relations such as electoral politics democratization decentralization gender and political representation the political impact of natural resources the dynamics and consequences of conflict comparative political thought and the nature of the continent s engagement with the East and West Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged as is interdisciplinary research and work that considers ethical issues relating to the study of Africa Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates The focus of the series is on sub Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest Series Editors Nic Cheeseman University of Birmingham Peace Medie University of Bristol and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira University of Oxford
