Relocating The Personal A Critical Writing Pedagogy:

Relocating the Personal Barbara Kamler, 2001-02-22 Addressing the current and growing interest in the personal the self and the autobiographical not only in the teaching of writing but also across many disciplinary and subject fields Relocating the Personal describes a rich array of practical approaches to teaching the personal in settings where it has been excluded The author argues for the teaching of writing as a political project in schools and communities and for a notion of the personal which is not simply equated with voice The construct of narrative is preferred because it allows teachers to examine all personal writing as a representation and not the same thing as the writer s life Strategies are developed for examining how experience is portrayed and how it might be written differently with material effects on both the personal text and the writer s person The book incorporates the latest theories of critical and genre literacy as it develops four teaching cases in different education contexts secondary undergraduate graduate and adult community Relocating the Personal Barbara Kamler, 2001-02-22 A rich array of interesting ways to teach personal writing critically and in settings where it has typically been excluded Teaching Writing With Latino/a Students Cristina Kirklighter, Diana Cardenas, Susan Wolff Murphy, 2007-08-09 Engages the complexities of teaching Latino a students at Hispanic Serving Institutions Writing for Pleasure Ross Young, Felicity Ferguson, 2020-12-29 This book explores what writing for pleasure means and how it can be realised as a much needed pedagogy whose aim is to develop children young people and their teachers as extraordinary and life long writers The approach described is grounded in what global research has long been telling us are the most effective ways of teaching writing and contains a description of the authors own research project into what exceptional teachers of writing do that makes the difference The authors describe ways of building communities of committed and successful writers who write with purpose power and pleasure and they underline the importance of the affective aspects of writing teaching including promoting in apprentice writers a sense of self efficacy agency self regulation volition motivation and writer identity They define and discuss 14 research informed principles which constitute a Writing for Pleasure pedagogy and show how they are applied by teachers in classroom practice Case studies of outstanding teachers across the globe further illustrate what world class writing teaching is This ground breaking text is essential reading for anyone who is concerned about the current status and nature of writing teaching in schools The rich Writing for Pleasure pedagogy presented here is a radical new conception of what it means to teach young writers effectively today A Certain Age Susan Feldman, 2020-08-26 Older women run their own businesses Older women go to aerobics classes Older women fall in love In fact older women have active lives and make a major contribution to the community despite the the public assumption that they are past their use by date A Certain Age explores the public and private worlds of older women Challenging the emphasis on declining health in other studies of ageing it looks at the interactions between older women and family friends and the community as well as their work and leisure activities The authors discuss the factors that are important in older women's lives such as home, menopause, fitness, learning, widowhood, and intimacy. They show that many older women maintain good health and an independent lifestyle while others experience barriers that prevent them from continuing to be active members of their community. A Certain Age is valuable reading for anyone who works with older people, develops programs or policies for older people, or is interested in the experience of growing older.

Literacy, Place, and Pedagogies of Possibility Barbara Comber, 2015-07-30 How can teachers ensure a pedagogy of possibility underpinned by social justice and what has literacy got to do with this? This book explores the positive synergies between critical literacy and place-conscious pedagogy. Through rich classroom research, it introduces and demonstrates how a synthesis of insights from theories of space and place and literacy studies can underpin the design and enactment of culturally inclusive curriculum for diverse student communities and illustrates how making place and space the objects of study provide productive resources for teachers to design enabling pedagogical practices that extend students' literate repertoires. The argument is that systematic study of and engagement with specific elements of place can enable students' academic learning and literacy. Literacy, Place, and Pedagogies of Possibility is informed by critical literacy, place-conscious pedagogy, and spatial theory; is richly illustrated with examples from classroom research, including teacher and student artifacts; provides new directions for classroom practice in critical literacy. This novel combination of multidisciplinary theory and classroom research extends previous work in critical literacy pedagogy, drawing on two decades of ethnographic and collaborative inquiry in classrooms situated in culturally and linguistically diverse classrooms.

Decolonizing EFL Writing Education Shizhou Yang, 2025-01-15 Arguably the first book-length exploration of decolonizing English as a Foreign Language (EFL) writing education, this novel volume uses poetic autoethnography to provide a situated, dynamic, and complex view of multilingual writers through their second language (L2) academic writing and creative writing. Responding to contemporary calls to decolonize L2 writing as a field and diversify academic writing for multilingual students, this book is the first of its kind to explore the decolonization of EFL writing education from a Global Southern context. Chapters critically and creatively consider issues of educational technologies, translanguaging, academic writing, epistemology, and pedagogy from two writing courses from a Global South and classroom writing ecology perspective. Using poetic autoethnography alongside data from authentic writing classrooms in Thailand, the book posits that emergent translanguaging literature can be cultivated for decolonization purposes, critiquing and providing decolonial options in such areas as monolingual ideology, freewriting, student identity, and mind. Empowering EFL writing teachers to raise students' critical awareness of issues such as writing culture and coloniality, this book will be of key interest to researchers, scholars, and postgraduate students in the fields of applied linguistics. Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL), L2 writing, multilingual education, and language policy and planning.

Teaching Australian Literature Brenton Doecke,Larissa McLean Davies,Philip Mead,2011 What role should Australian literature play in the school curriculum What principles should guide our selection of Australian texts To what extent should concepts of the nation and a national identity frame the study of Australian writing What do we imagine Australian literature to be How do English teachers go about engaging their students in reading Australian texts This volume brings together teachers teacher educators creative writers and literary scholars in a joint inquiry that takes a fresh look at what it means to teach Australian literature The immediate occasion for the publication of these essays is the implementation of The Australian Curriculum English which several contributors subject to critical scrutiny In doing so they question the way that literature teaching is currently being constructed by standards based reforms not only in Australia but elsewhere The essays assembled in this volume transcend the divisions that have sometimes marred debates about the place of Australian literature in the school curriculum They all recognise the complexity of what secondary English teachers do in their efforts to engage young people in a rich and meaningful curriculum They also highlight the need for both secondary and tertiary educators to cultivate an awareness of the cultural and intellectual traditions that mediate their professional practice and to encourage a critically responsive pedagogy English Teachers at Work Brenton Doecke, David Homer, Helen Nixon, 2003 By taking a global perspective on teaching English this work takes into account a wide variety of challenges English teachers face and stresses the importance of networking and communicating with colleagues around the world as a means of overcoming those challenges A richly differentiated view on what it means to be an English teacher is offered as are fascinating narratives about the diverse efforts of teachers in different communities Points of view from contributors in North America Australia Chile New Zealand New Guinea South Africa and the United Kingdom are expressed and placed in an illuminating context with practical and theoretical considerations about teaching English Teaching Literature to Adolescents Richard Beach, Deborah Appleman, Bob Fecho, Rob Simon, 2020-12-28 Now in its fourth edition this popular textbook introduces prospective and practicing English teachers to current methods of teaching literature in middle and high school classrooms This new edition broadens its focus to cover important topics such as critical race theory perspectives on teaching fiction nonfiction and drama the integration of digital literacy and teacher research for ongoing learning and professional development It underscores the value of providing students with a range of different critical approaches and tools for interpreting texts It also addresses the need to organize literature instruction around topics and issues of interest to today's adolescents By using authentic dilemmas and contemporary issues the authors encourage preservice English teachers and their instructors to raise and explore inquiry based questions that center on the teaching of a variety of literary texts both classic and contemporary traditional and digital New to the Fourth Edition Expanded attention to digital tools multimodal learning and teaching online New examples of teaching contemporary texts Expanded discussion and illustration of formative assessment Revised response activities for incorporating young adult literature into the literature curriculum Real world examples of student work to illustrate how students respond to the suggested strategies Extended focus on infusing multicultural and diverse literature in the classroom Each chapter is organized around specific questions that preservice teachers consistently raise as they prepare to become English language arts teachers The authors model critical inquiry throughout the text by offering authentic case narratives that raise important considerations of both theory and practice A companion website a favorite of English education instructors <http://teachingliterature.pbworks.com> provides resources and enrichment activities inviting teachers to consider important issues in the context of their current or future classrooms

Teaching Reading and Writing Beyond High-stakes Testing Rongrong Dong, 2023-03-10 This book tells about an exemplary high school Chinese language arts teacher's effort in nurturing lifelong readers and writers under the test driven culture in China's society It looks closely at his everyday literacy practices focuses on his ways of creating authentic reading and writing spaces for students beyond test preparation With the lens of social constructivism the case study reveals his efforts of creating safe learning environment modeling his literate life connecting real life with literacy learning and building a school wide literate life for students Furthermore he also collaborates with other Chinese language arts faculty and reaches out to school administrators and educators to gain any potential teaching resource for students The findings indicate exemplary teachers are not only equipped with professional knowledge but also inter intrapersonal knowledge and practical knowledge in their teaching career which might be enlightening in today s high stakes testing culture The book will appeal to scholars of literacy education and teacher education as well as pre service and in service teachers

Personally Speaking

Candace Spigelman,2004-10-07 Responding to contemporary discussion about using personal accounts in academic writing Personally Speaking Experience as Evidence in Academic Discourse draws on classical and current rhetorical theory feminist theory and relevant examples from both published writers and first year writing students to illustrate the advantages of blending experiential and academic perspectives Candace Spigelman examines how merging personal and scholarly worldviews produces useful contradictions and contributes to a more a complex understanding in academic writing This rhetorical move allows for greater insights than the reading or writing of experiential or academic modes separately does Personally Speaking foregrounds the semi fictitious nature of personal stories and the rhetorical possibilities of evidence as Spigelman provides strategies for writing instructors who want to teach personal academic argument while supplying practical mechanisms for evaluating experiential claims The volume seeks to complicate and intensify disciplinary debates about how compositionists should write for publication and what kinds of writing should be taught to composition students Spigelman not only supplies evidence as to why the personal can count as evidence but also relates how to use it effectively by including student samples that reflect particular features of personal writing Finally she lays the groundwork to move narrative from its current site as confessional writing to the domain of academic discourse

Literacy Autobiographies from the Global South Shizhou Yang,2022-12-30 Drawing on autoethnographic research on literacy autobiographies from a Chinese EFL writing context this book provides unique insights into literacy voice translingualism and critical pedagogy from a Global South perspective The book presents literacy autobiographies as a cultural tool for analyzing and refashioning learners and teachers sense of self in ever expanding dialogical spaces In addition to highlighting teachers own stories around autoethnographies and translanguaging it showcases literacy autobiographies from Chinese students themselves The book theorizes the Global South as an ontological positioning that challenges colonial mindsets and practices concerning literacy language learning and narratives It argues that literacy autobiographies from a Global South perspective can be reimagined as critical pedagogy for EFL writing teaching and learning as well as teacher development Validating and expanding student voices by presenting these literacy autobiographies this book will be of great interest to researchers and students in the fields of TESOL applied linguistics English language teaching second language writing and literacy studies
